Highlands School ‘Great Beginnings’ era ends

By Lane Giddings
It’s August and time to think about the upcoming 2016-'17 school year!
Highlands School opens its doors to students August 29th.

With the start of any new school year comes changes. One big change this year is the elimination of the combined kindergarten and first grade class called Great Beginnings. Though, before, parents had a choice, now there is a separate kindergarten and a separate first grade class.

The Great Beginnings class was an unique concept at Highlands School for about 15 years and was a combination of kindergarten and the first grade. By combining two grade levels in one classroom, it helped the school utilize its teacher resources more effectively.

HEC is about ‘People Helping People’

Since 1985, the Highlands Emergency Council’s mission has been about people in this community helping those in need.

Manned with only volunteers, and with its donations, HEC is able to provide help to low income residents of Highlands and to those who have suffered a disaster, lost their jobs or are unable to find work.

How does HEC help? Help comes from HEC to its clients in many forms – food, fuel, clothing, household goods, appliances and utilities. HEC provides assistance to all who apply and meet its qualifications. No one should go cold or hungry.

How can you help? Since food and fuel are basic needs, the First Presbyterian Church of Highlands is hosting the sixth annual community-wide Food for Fuel luncheon on September 4th. This luncheon gives the community the opportunity to meet HEC’s board of directors and learn more about HEC and its services.

The free lunch is provided by the church, but donations are encouraged. Any proceeds collected at this event will go to the HEC’s fuel fund.

Last year over $10,000 was collected at the luncheon and was used to help provide heating assistance to 58 families in the Highlands community. The luncheon is from 11:45 to 1:45 pm. Reservations are not needed.

In addition to providing food and fuel, HEC also has other important community-oriented offerings.

They include a Christmas Program for children 12 years and younger, a Utilities Help Fund which was started in 2013 at the request of local area churches to help those with past due electric balances during the winter, a Clothes Closet, Dish and Linen Room, Small Appliance Room and Warehouse which holds all types of household items: beds, tables, chairs, pictures, sofas, large appliances.

The HEC is open 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday through Friday at 71 Poplar Street next to Wilson Gas. For more information, call 828-526-4357.

Suspect in 1977 Florida murder arrested at his Highlands home

By David Ovalle
Miami Herald
Thirty-nine years to the day that Coral Gables nurse Debbie Clark was viciously beaten and shot to death, her former lover is under arrest and charged with murder.

On Thursday, Aug 4, 2016, investigators arrested retired real estate agent Allen Bregman, 75, of 19209 Black Mangrove Court, Boca Raton, FL and Highlands, NC – the longtime suspect who once filed an insurance claim on the slain woman’s life.

“The Macon County Sheriff’s Office was contacted by the Miami Dade Police who asked us to assist in locating a suspect in a 1977 murder investigation,” said Macon County Sheriff Robert Holland.

“Our deputies arrested Alan Bregman at his Highlands home without incident and he is currently incarcerated at the Macon County Detention Center with no bond.” Bregman will soon be extradited to Florida to face charges of First Degree Murder.

New to Highlands, Bregman and his wife closed on their Highlands home at 42 Pheasant Run on July 1, 2016. They paid $470,000.

Fun for the whole family!

I was at my house building cabinets for our new kitchen on Monday. I heard trucks and heavy equipment operating in a nearby area. I thought to myself we had another home or building going up in the vicinity.

I continued all afternoon cutting and fitting critical pieces for the new cabinets and continued to hear the heavy equipment operate.

On Tuesday afternoon Bob Frye, the Town Manager, told me some residents were not happy with the resurfacing of Forman Road. I immediately realized the equipment I heard on Monday was paving equipment on nearby Foreman Road.

The NC DOT made the decision to resurface Forman with a chip and seal surface instead of traditional asphalt. A number of roads in the area have chip and seal. On Foreman, the chip and seal was applied over the existing paving. Time will tell if it is a stable and long lasting surface.

Some may wonder why the town allowed DOT to do this paving job. Simply put, Forman is State Road 1553. DOT owns the road and its right-of-way and is responsible for maintaining the road including periodic resurfacing. The state pays for repaving the road, not Highlands.

To be blunt, the Town of Highlands has no control over what DOT does on state roads. We were not informed, nor consulted about the Forman Road project. That is the way the road system is set up in North Carolina. On the other hand, the town does not have to get permission from the state to repave town roads. It is kinda like, “if you don’t pay, you don’t get to play.”

Now some folks may say, “Listen to that mayor giving yet another alibi. He now can’t control NC DOT in its paving of roads in Highlands. Last year he was whining about why he couldn’t control the NC State Patrol from setting up road checks in Highlands. And the year before he was making excuses why he couldn’t control the military from its helicopters flying at low levels over Highlands. Furthermore, it took a year for the mayor, working with residents, to get the speed limit lowered on Webbmont, another state-owned road. The mayor is so weak he couldn’t call the DOT and tell them to lower that speed limit. Their traffic experts had to study and analyze the request.” OK, I guess I’m guilty as charged. But, in North Carolina mayors are not community sovereigns, but advocates. There is a big difference.

It’s not that NC DOT doesn’t listen, but it does have a big program throughout the state for resurfacing state roads. Its engineers and planners follow a schedule and automatically resurface roads at given intervals. They view this kind of resurfacing as a minor, routine project that requires no consultation with other agencies.

Now the town could request to take over control of all state roads within the town limits. The state would seriously consider the request, and certainly it would be advantageous for the town. Or would it? With ownership comes stewardship, so the

Dear Editor,

Isa Noble's letter to the editor in the July 28 edition of Highlands Newspaper entitled “Concerning the future of Mirror Lake” brings up an important and timely subject. Although my wife and I have only lived in Highlands for 16 years, we have watched the slow disappearance of a beautiful lake to siltation.

My conversations with people who have lived in Highlands for many years, include their memories of ice skating to the top of Cullasaja Drive or how great it used to be when the lake teemed with trout. When asked about why the lake is being allowed to fill up with silt, the response most heard was frustration over the complexity of dealing with governmental agencies and how difficult it has been to garner local support because it is a private lake.

Since its creation Mirror Lake has always been a valuable asset to all citizens and visitors to the town. Yes, it is private, but it has never been an issue when any resident or visitor wanted to ice skate, fish, canoe or just sit in it.

It takes a village.

Miami-Dade homicide detectives David Denmark said "good police work," led them to Highlands. "He was discovered through several investigative tools we have as a police department."

The new evidence in the cold case: fingerprints and a DNA sample from a hair discovered on Clark's body, according to an arrest warrant obtained by the Miami Herald. His lawyer, Barry Wax, has long insisted that detectives...
Years ago, we had a first generation Greek civilian employee who worked for my police department who was a master at crisis management and computer science. His Greek accent was over-the-top thick. He also made the best baklava I’ve ever eaten. You could actually feel your teeth rotting and decaying while chewing this awesome holiday delicacy.

But this is not about his baklava and since his name is too hard to spell, I’ll just call him Mr. B. His philosophy in life was as follows. If you worked for a government agency and red tape, rules and regulations and a host of other stupid items were in the way of your project, create a crisis and move on. I personally watched him create crisis after crisis over and over again with great success.

Since Mr. B was installing our police department computer system and no one would approve of him installing an offsite backup system, his crisis management technique went into effect. Sooooo Mr. B. rigged his system to automatically fail at two in the morning. No one on duty could get it to work. Mr. B. was called and guess what? He woke up the bosses and informed them if he had the backup system he had requested, none of this would have occurred. Of course, there was nothing wrong with the computers but only Mr. B could fix it since he was the one who broke it.

Out of panic the money for the backup system was immediately funded and Mr. B. went right to work on getting what he wanted. He had created a crisis that didn’t exist. Oh, and did I mention Mr. B and I were good friends, mostly because I was a bit of a poop stirrer myself back in the day. But I have softened and he is dead.

If Mr. B. worked for the town of Highlands we would not have a trash problem. He would create a major crisis by having unknown persons purposely trash our town regularly. We would be drowning in trash. He would hire folks from Franklin to trash our streets, putting our town in crisis mode. Money would have to be found to hire temporary seasonal people to clean up the mess. The only reason our current trash system doesn’t work well is that we have not reached crisis mode and are kinda’ “just getting by” without it.

And here’s another example of how crisis management could work. I live inside the town limits and only a short distance from Highlands Plaza. There’s an abandoned and dilapidated empty house owned by the town not too far from my house. I’ve been begging the town fathers to tear down the house but nothing yet. Now, just for fun, let’s pretend that Mr. B. owns my house.

He would immediately recognize that our town fathers lacked the necessary glandular accoutrements to get the job done. He would call his friends in Miami and have them mail him a half dozen wharf rats. The docks in Miami are loaded with them. Then Mr. B. would release the rodents inside the abandoned building and video them running around. The video would be given to his motherly looking great aunt who would march into town hall to show the video to our town fathers. With her thick Greek accent, she would say “If my sweet little seven-year-old grand-daughter who lives just down the road gets bitten by one of those rats and she gets rabies, I will clean out this town of every cent it owns.”

The next morning, two bulldozers and two dump trucks would demolish the house in about two hours. End of problem…end of threat…. everybody’s happy…. except for maybe the people driving black pickup trucks who use the property to dump their trash.

And here’s the topper. The next day Mr. B. would arrive at town hall with a large tray of his homemade baklava and everyone would love Mr. B.

Oh, and to CYA, the wharf rats would be killed shortly after the video was taken.

And for those who are never really sure what I make up, let me tell you Mr. B. really existed along with his baklava. That pertaining to Highlands was made up. “DUH” to those who never made it past the third grade and can’t separate the two!

This may sound scary to the Seller who has seen bank foreclosures and short sales across the country. Why would Sellers want to put themselves in this position? Let’s take a fresh look at why holding a mortgage can be one of the few tangible and solid investments during these times. For those who are in a position to offer this as a selling tool, a buyer’s market can bring unparalleled opportunities, when properly advised.

Although real estate values have stabilized in our local market over the past two years, the Highlands-Cashiers area has held better value and with fewer foreclosures than most parts of the country. I believe this is because our typical property owner does not depend entirely on the economy for survival. The majority of landholders are second homeowners and/or investors. Many have paid cash for their properties. In fact, a good portion of this small, yet significant segment of society depend on earning interest to make a living.

The Federal Reserve is still keeping interest rates at an all-time low in an attempt to boost the economy. Their theory is that lower rates will encourage people to make investments in real estate, small businesses and consumer purchases. This theory remains ineffective because banks are now being governed with such conservative lending practices, it may be difficult for consumers to qualify for loans. Interesting enough, these difficulties do not just extend to the average borrower. The well-to-do who hold large portfolios of cash and non-liquid assets may have trouble getting financing because many are not showing consistent annual income (a large key today in qualifying for a loan). This is due in part because they are earning very little interest. Thus, both buyers and sellers are suffering, even though this is one of the best times in history to purchase property at exceptional values.

Certificates of deposit (CDs) are still the most secure investment, but they are currently earning an average interest rate of 1+. If you happen to own property free and clear of mortgages, you could sell and easily earn a 3 to 4.5% return by holding owner financing. This could off-set selling your property at a lower value than previously expected, plus increase your annual income substantially. Mortgages can be relatively short term investments. It is not uncommon for an owner financed mortgage to have interest only monthly payments with a scheduled balloon payoff in three to five years. Again, the typical Highlands-Cashiers buyer is affluent and more often than not they pay cash for real estate. However, in these times they may desire a mortgage until they can sell an existing property or they may be awaiting a scheduled pay-off from another investment.

Mortgage loans have been the backbone of the banking industry since the foundation of our country. They have only recently become problematic due to poor lending practices prior to the recession. In the remote case that foreclosure becomes necessary, seller financing puts one in a position to sell the property again at the market value at that time, with the possibility of receiving even higher profits. Upon selling the property again, the seller could cash-out, reinvest, do a 1031 exchange or hold yet another mortgage on the property at the going interest rate at that time.

Let’s consider a fresh prospective on a conservative, yet traditionally profitable venture. Holding a mortgage is a sensible and practical approach to investment in today’s economy. A professional agent with experience in owner financing and knowledge of the local real estate market will be able to assist you and direct you to those other professionals who have the best knowledge regarding owner financing.

I want to use my turn for “Spiritually Speaking” for a personal testimony. First, I want to thank God before you all for His miraculous healing on my life these past two months. Space will not allow me to share all the details of God’s grace at work on my behalf, but it comes down to a life-changing surgery and the miraculous results that surprised doctors and nurses at Duke University Hospital.

A tumor, approaching the size of a tennis ball had been growing in my head since conception, and was wreaking havoc on my life in incrementally worsening ways. In the last year, my battle with headaches and petit mal seizures turned to clonic-tonic or grand mal epileptic seizures. As one neurologist made clear to me, I was a dying man. But with the intervention of many people – too many to mention – I was placed in the capable hands of Dr. Allan Friedman, a world renowned neurosurgeon and Dr. Radtke, head of neurosurgery at Duke.

What for eight years had been diagnosed as an inoperable temporal lobe cyst and the best scenarios being that of managing the symptoms or radical surgery with serious consequences, was miraculously removed on June 24th as a benign epidermoid tumor deep in my brain. A five-hour surgery became a one-and-a-half hour surgery, surprising the medical team given numerous MRIs over the years that said otherwise. My recovery was likewise phenomenal, again surprising the medical team as we were up walking six hours after the craniotomy surgery and out of the hospital in 36 hours with no pain or need for pain medications. All that remains is a large scar that will forever remind me of God’s grace at work through His providential appointments and use of a gifted medical team.

Now I carry the great responsibility of passing on these blessings to others as a witness and a new beginning of ministry without the handicap that has been with me for 59 years. I praise God for His marvelous work and mercies toward me, for His love in His prayers. Thank you for your love, people of Highlands.

town would have to maintain and repave all those roads turned over by the state. We are challenged to maintain and pave the 30 miles of town roads we already have, so additional roads would invariably trigger a possible tax increase. I’m not sure the control of additional roads would outweigh those costs.

Tonight is the Highlands Town Board meeting beginning at 7pm. We meet at the Highlands Community Building. The agenda is rather small.

There will be a public hearing on editorial and consistency changes to the UDO. We also have a request for a sewer easement and a request to donate a piece of unbuildable property to the town.

A major item will be the review of budget amendments to the recently approved budget for FYI 2016/’17. The commissioners voted to table the budget amendment request at the July meeting to further study this important item. Several commissioners have concerns about these budget modifications.

The board will also hear a request to adopt a resolution making Highlands a Bee Friendly Community. This project would be done in partnership with the Highlands Biological Station and the Highland Biological Foundation. The goal is to nurture and protect our bee pollinators that are critical to the plants and agriculture of the area. We have many unique bee species residing on the plateau.

Hope to see everyone tonight.

Detectives believe in the days before the murder, Bregman was in New York when a friend called to say that his wife, Florence, had learned about his affair and planned to file for divorce.

On Aug. 4, 1977, Bregman flew from New York to Miami, arriving just before the nurse vanished. Clark’s decomposing body was discovered Saturday, two days later. The following Monday, court records show, Florence Bregman filed for divorce. The next day, Bregman filed a $148,000 life insurance claim with Allstate Insurance, a claim that was contested in court. A 1978 docket shows that Bregman invoked his Fifth Amendment right to remain silent during court proceedings.

The case was re-opened in May 2014. Earlier this year, Miami-Dade homicide detectives David Denmark and Jonathan Grossman took DNA and fingerprint samples from...

Village Square Art & Craft Show is this weekend in Highlands Plaza

This quilt is by Jackie Stoner of Cleveland, GA. She makes quilted bags and jackets as well. Find her and other regional artisans at the Highlands Village Square Art & Craft Show this weekend in its new location is the lower level of Highlands Plaza on the Dillard Road. Follow the signs to easy dedicated parking off Spring Street.

The show features a lot of fine art as well as baskets, rustic furniture, hand-made knives, children’s clothing, metalwork, leather purses, quilts, and a wide assortment of jewelry and other crafts.

This free event goes from 10 to 5 both days rain or shine and is sponsored by the Macon County Art Assn.

Let’s be clear, Mirror Lake is a valuable asset to all the citizens of Highlands and not just those who live along its shores. When Mirror Lake can no longer accept additional silt, the issue will simply move into Sequoyah.

Isa’s concerns are valid and we all need to keep an open mind and get involved in the development of a workable solution. Saving Mirror Lake is going to require the support of the Town of Highlands and everyone who values our natural resources and wants to preserve them for generations to come.
