Auditor declares Highlands financials are sound

At the Thursday, Jan. 28 Town Board meeting, Joe Haney from the town’s auditor, Martin & Starnes, delivered a “clean opinion” concerning Highlands’ FY 2014-’15 audit – which means “all is well.”

Fund Balance is always used to gauge the health of a municipality because it is the difference between assets and liabilities in a governmental fund. The governmental funds account for the bread-and-butter, typically tax-supported activities of a government (as opposed to the proprietary funds, which account for self-financing, business-like activities like the town’s enterprise funds).

Fund balance is required to be reported in two components—reserved and unreserved. When a fund balance is reserved, it either means that the resources are in a form that cannot be appropriated and spent (such as inventory) or that the resources are legally limited.

Macon County is beginning to plan for FY 2016-’17

County Manager and Commissioners outline individual goals

Over the next few weeks, the Macon County Board of Commissioners will begin the budget planning process striving to craft a $50 million budget for FY 2016-’17.

From trash services, to the health department, and public safety, commissioners are responsible for considering each department funding and prioritizing needs and addressing concerns.

Looking toward 2016-17, County Manager Derek Roland addressed commissioners outlining his goals and concerns. “As we look to the coming

Scouting in America is 105 years old this week and it’s doing great things in town

Last Sunday was Scout Sunday at Highlands United Methodist Church, which commemorated the Boy Scouts of America’s 105th birthday.

Scouting in America began Feb. 8, 1910. As the story goes, in 1909, Chicago publisher W. D. Boyce was visiting London, where he encountered a boy who came to be known as the Unknown Scout. Boyce was lost on a foggy street when an unknown scout came to his aid, guiding him to his destination. The boy then refused Boyce’s tip, explaining that he was a Boy Scout and was merely doing Allow me to provide a few updates. First, two major topics have changed regarding the sales tax formula, and potential coal ash surcharges. Both were statewide initiatives that hit local pocketbooks.

The legislature eventually increased state sales tax revenues by including services, such as auto repair, into the sales tax formula. What Highlands nets in sales tax revenue for the general fund will remain pretty much unchanged. If the tourist economy remains heathy, we could see modest growth in revenue. The increased sales tax revenue from professional services will go to the state for redistribution. Macon County and Highlands are not on the redistribution list.

Highlands and other municipalities with electric departments, have been headed toward a showdown with Duke Energy over proposed coal ash cleanup surcharges. We had refused to enter an agreement with Duke and believed the next step was a confrontation before the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission. Unexpected circumstances can suddenly change an issue’s direction.

The NC Supreme Court ruled recently that the state law mandating Duke to clean up all its coal ash pits is illegal. So, the town is now on the sidelines tracking the appeals and proposals now afloat after the ruling. I would be surprised if this issue is resolved anytime soon. Coal ash fees may be a long way off, if ever.

At the January Mayor’s Coffee I planned on having a summit on trash and litter in the community. Unfortunately, Mother Nature littered the plateau with over a foot of snow, so the coffee was cancelled. The February Mayor’s Coffee will be Friday, the 26, at the Hudson Library. It starts at 11. Join us in doing some trash talking.

Let me provide a law enforcement update. In recent weeks officers have established probable cause, and charges were issued relating to a number of breaking and entering cases. Police devoted many hours in developing these cases that will now be adjudicated by the courts.

Before the February Town Board meeting there will be a special community meeting at 6:30 pm at the Highlands Conference Center. Representatives of US Cellular will be there to present their proposed design for a cell tower. The 80-foot tower would be located behind the fire department. The Town Board and I encourage everyone to attend the meeting to ask questions and express views. This is a major project, and community input is important prior to a decision.

I swam and sunned at Highlands Beach this past weekend. It was over 90 degrees and the water was 82. I hope you have visited our enclosed pool. Even if you don't swim, just sunning in a lounge chair while reading a book from the Hudson Library will be accepted. Views expressed are not necessarily those of Highlands Newspaper.

his daily good turn. Interested in the Boy Scouts, Boyce met with staff at the Boy Scouts Headquarters in London. Upon his return to the U.S., Boyce incorporated the Boy Scouts of America on February 8, 1910.

On Sunday, Feb. 7, Highlands Troop 207 with scouts of various ages assisted with the worship service and parishioners learned that scouting is a pretty big deal in Highlands.

Scoutmasters Mike Murphy, Tim Mosely and Robbie Forrester introduced the scouts and explained exactly what the organization does in Highlands.

The Cub Scout Pack currently has 19 Cubs and seven registered leaders. Since there isn’t a pack in Cashiers, the pack consists of boys from both Highlands and Cashiers.

Starting in June of 2015, Cub Scouts started their new advancement program. They now have a number of Adventures to complete to earn their rank.

One of the best parts of the new program is that the Cub Scouts now use the Boy Scout Oath and Law, in place of the Cub Scout Promise and Law of the Pack.

The Boy Scout Troop currently has nine scouts and eight registered leaders.

Of the nine scouts, five are Life Scouts, which is one step away from Eagle.

In 2015, Carter Potts, Taylor Schmitt, and Christian Trevathan earned Eagle Scout. Their Eagle projects involved projects that have not only saved taxpayers money but helped beautify Highlands.

• Carter Potts installed a new walking bridge at the Highlands Biological Station,
• Taylor Schmitt purchased and installed a play set and playground at the Fidelia-Eckerd Assisted Living Center,
• Christian Trevathan cleared the site and purchase and installed the game playing area in the Kelsey-Hutchison Founders Park and,
• The most recent Eagle project was Remy Adrian’s, who installed stairs between the gravel and paved parking lots at the Highlands School New Gym. His project makes the eighth Eagle project completed by the troop in the past four years.

In addition, Carter Potts is the first scout in Troop 207 history to earn the Bronze and Gold “Eagle Palms,” which are additional awards that an Eagle Scout can earn after earning Eagle.

Scouts may earn Palms by completing the following requirements:

1. Be active in your troop and patrol for at least three months after becoming an Eagle Scout or after award of last Palm.
2. Demonstrate Scout spirit by living the Scout Oath and Scout Law in your everyday life.
3. Make a satisfactory effort to develop and demonstrate leadership ability.
4. Earn five additional merit badges beyond those required for Eagle or last Palm.
5. Participate in a Scoutmaster conference.
6. Successfully complete your board of review.

Scouts wear the proper combination of Palms for the number of merit badges they earn beyond the rank of Eagle.

The Bronze Palm represents five merit badges.

budget year, it is extremely important to stop and take a look at our goals and objectives," said Roland. “Macon County is in the public service business and after looking today at our performance, I would challenge anyone to show me an organization in this business that does it better. FY 16-17’ will be no different.”

Roland’s main focus heading into the coming year lies in employee compensation and ensuring that across the board, Macon County Employees are being fairly and adequately compensated for their work to ensure the county continues to provide exceptional service to residents.

“Should it be the pleasure of the board, I would strongly recommend that we take a look at employee compensation in the coming Fiscal Year,” said Roland. “I have said time and time again and I will continue to say that Macon County Employees are the most valuable asset this organization has. Just as we work to make sure our buildings are in good repair and we are keeping up with the latest advancements in technology, I feel it is just as important that we make sure our employees are compensated appropriately.”

Referencing a 2012 employee compensation study completed by contracted agency Springsted, Roland informed commissioners that the county’s longest serving employees are experiencing significant pay gaps when compared to neighboring county’s such as Jackson County. Roland asked commissioners to allow him to formulate a committee of county employees to look at the issue and develop a plan of action for the county to address the pay inequalities in the upcoming fiscal year.

Between now and the time the county is expected to pass a new budget in June, Roland will meet with department heads and county leaders to itemize and evaluate the needs of the county and develop a budget for the upcoming fiscal year.

However, before County Manager Roland set up meetings with department heads, commissioners offered him direction outlining what they would like to take priority in the upcoming budget cycle.

Highlands’ representative on the board Commissioner Jim Tate expressed his diligence in keeping the state’s tax rate as low as possible, which is currently the 4th lowest in North Carolina.

“My first priority would be to ensure that we keep our taxes flat and our millage rate the same as last year without eliminating any of the current services that we offer,” said Commissioner Tate. “If we are able to complete this task and still have some funds available, then there are several “projects” that could use enhancements.”

Tate’s directive to Roland included updating the county’s emergency communication system, which has had problems with consistency in coverage and availability throughout the county.

“There are still several “dead areas” within the County where radio communication is not available at all and many more areas where service is very limited,” said Tate.”This truly inhibits the abilities of our police and emergency services (fire & EMS), and is something that can be corrected with today’s technology, but will take some upgrades to our current system.”

In terms of the county’s infrastructure, Tate said he would like to see the school system’s capital outlay budget a focus in the upcoming budget, as it has been cut in years past.

“I also feel like that we need to be providing our schools some additional capital for building and grounds maintenance, so I would be in support of increasing our outlay to the school system,” said Tate.

Praising Roland’s conservative budget approach the last two years, Commissioner Paul Higdon said his main focus in the coming cycle is to continue that trend by evaluating existing programs and services for efficiency, something he has continually advocated for over the last year.

“My main goal is to continue to adequately fund services and programs while encouraging efficient management and evaluation of both,” said Higdon. “As discussed in open session with other board members, we need to make sure county buildings and educational facilities are properly maintained to extend their useful lives. By identifying needs and associated costs and after careful review, who meet at the Community Building.

badges, the Gold Palm 10, and the Silver Palm 15.

The Troop has had one scout, Beau Hargrove from Cashiers, attend Philmont High Adventure Base this summer for a 10-day backpacking adventure in Chimaron, New Mexico.

There are several other service projects the Troop 207 Cubs and Boy Scouts participated in during 2015.

• Scouts placed American Flags at the Highlands Memorial Park Cemetery for Veterans on Memorial Day, July 4th and Veterans Day. Approximately 240 flags were placed each time, and a new plaque was placed at the base of the US Flag Pole to recognize some of the veterans not buried at the cemetery.

• The Cub and Boy Scouts also helped with the Veterans Day Ceremony held at the Kelsey-Hutchison Founders Park by serving as the colorguard and bugler support.

• Scouts led the Tuesday evening Community Table Dinner two times in 2015.

• They assisted with the installation of the new flagpole at the town baseball field which was funded by the Highlands American Legion Post.

• On the 4th of July, scouts built and launched water rockets, assisted with the Family Field Games at the town baseball field and led a U.S. Flag Retirement Ceremony at the Kelsey-Hutchison Founders Park.

The Boy Scouts of America (BSA) is one of the nation’s largest and most prominent values-based youth development organizations. The BSA provides a program for young people that builds character, trains them in the responsibilities of participating citizenship, and develops personal fitness.

For over a century, the BSA has helped build the future leaders of this country by combining educational activities and lifelong values with fun. The Boy Scouts of America believes — and, through over a century of experience, knows — that helping youth is a key to building a more conscientious, responsible, and productive society.

With extended days calendars district-wide, all schools in Macon County add 20 minutes to each school day. That extra 20 minutes amounts to four additional instructional days between August 29 and December 22, allowing the first semester of school to be completed before the holiday break.

“The primary perceived benefit is in allowing students to take the End of Course Tests before Christmas break,” said Superintendent Dr. Chris Baldwin. “By adding 20 minutes to the high school day, we pick up the equivalent of four days of instructional time.”

North Carolina law mandates when individual school districts can begin school, leaving little local control for districts. Macon County has petitioned the state for years for more local control of school calendars, especially when western counties have to battle snow days, unlike the eastern portion of the state.

While gaining local calendar control hasn’t been successful, being able to add time onto the school days will allow Macon County some say concerning the calendar.

On February 2, Peter Ray introduced Jane Chalker and acknowledged the enormous role she has played in spawning humanitarian efforts in Haiti. Paul Heckert then updated the Rotary Club on progress being made on the creation of the Haitian Freedom Fish Farm in Cange, Haiti. It is anticipated that the Fish Farm will improve the economic condition of families in Cange with the development of this sustainable community-driven fish farming cooperative in Lake Peligre. The farm has been established with seven families who helped to build large cages out of PVC pipe and plastic mesh that can hold as many as 500 Tilapia fingerlings. When the fish have matured, the families will give one half of their initial investment back to the program to be used by additional families. Heckert has been providing oversight to the project.

MANNA FoodBank would like to recognize and thank the Macon County partner agencies and food industry donors for their unwavering dedication to ending hunger for the residents of Macon County. In Macon County, 1 in 6 residents face food insecurity, and 1 in 3 children are living in food-insecure homes.

MANNA FoodBank works with a network of partners – food pantries, soup kitchens, church ministries, homeless shelters, youth programs, and other food support organizations – to get food to residents across 16 Western North Carolina counties. This network of over 250 partners works all year long to meet the needs of their communities by providing healthy food options to residents needing food.

In 2015, the following MANNA partner agencies distributed a grand total of 466,202 pounds of food* to Macon County families seeking emergency food support: Macon County Care Network, St. Francis of Assisi Catholic Church, Trinity Assembly of God, Highlands Emergency Council, International Friendship Center/La Bodega, REACH of Macon County

This year, thanks to these partner agencies, WNC residents facing food insecurity had better access to healthier, fresher food. In Macon County alone, the MANNA partner agency network distributed 81,797 pounds of fresh produce, and 299,323 pounds of food identified as nutritionally dense foods, known internally as Foods to Encourage.

we may have to increase capital spending to achieve this goal. As we pay down debt, some of these annual savings could fund this approach.”

In addition to maintaining existing services, Higdon told Roland he wants the county’s security as a whole to be evaluated. “Security of public facilities for employees and clients,” Higdon said when asked of additional priorities in the coming budget season. “Hopefully this can be achieved at little or no additional cost. Not related to budget items, I would like to see all gun-free zones removed on county controlled property.”

As the newest commissioner on the board, Gary Shields hopes to become better informed over the next few weeks by working with county employees.

“My main goal is to become a more informed county commissioner by seeking persons and information that will allow me multi-views on topics of county interest,” said Shields. “I would like to see the county focus on specific areas such as maintaining a strong resume that will welcome newcomers and businesses: education, health care, safety, logistics, environment and workforce preparedness are only a few topics that helps with my decision making. I also want to pursue cell and wireless connectivity for county residents, businesses and rescue departments; to continue volunteering via liaison in numerous (13) county and regional organizations to become better informed of their needs and mission; and to continue serving on the state NCACC educational committee.”

Shields also said it is important to him for the county to maintain a revenue neutral budget while focusing on essential needs for the county.

Beale, a veteran member of the Macon County Board of Commissioners, said that this budget cycle should be approached in the same manner as past years, without raising taxes while still ensuring citizens have access to appropriate services.

“I want to see our county manager develop a budget that continues to improve county services for the citizens of Macon County,” said Commissioner Beale. “As always, we have to keep in mind that we are in the customer service business.”

Beale’s directive to Roland included focusing on emergency management and developing a plan to handle increased call loads.

“All areas of Emergency Services Call volumes continue to be at an all time high,” said Beale. “We need to plan ahead, knowing this volume will only increase. This includes everything from our Sheriff’s Department to our fire departments as well. While maintaining and improving our essential services like making sure our Sheriff’s Department needs are met to provide the best service and protection possible to all our communities, it’s also crucial for the board to be mindful of the county’s growth and expansion needs. So this year we need to continue working on all areas of economic development.”

Commission Chair Kevin Corbin agreed with Roland’s main focus in the coming year regarding the need to revisit the county employees’ pay plan to ensure the individuals responsible for serving citizens of Macon County are fairly compensated for their work.

“Due to our growing income from sales tax, I think we will be able to look at revisiting the County pay plan,” said Corbin. “We still have employees whose pay is less than similar counties. We should adjust our pay scales accordingly and do the right thing as an employer. I want us to increase our funding to Macon County Schools and I have made that clear to my fellow commissioners and to the County Manager. We did a great job building our schools and getting to the point where our schools are state of the art and the best of any county in the State. However, we have to put money aside to improve them and keep them up to date. You have to do this in your own house; why should the schools be any different? You need to set aside 1-2% of the value of your property each year to maintain it. We have that responsibility to our schools. We need to include some capital improvements on County properties as well, like the Carpenter Building at the Rec Park. It has had little renovation in 40 years and it is time.”

Mating & Dating at the Bio Station!

Celebrate Valentine’s Day early with the Highlands Biological Station! Bring your friends for an entertaining program called “Mating and Dating in the Animal Kingdom: A Gameshow Mash-up.” This evening promises to be filled with adult-only hilarity delving into the seductive world of animal courtship rituals. The lengths that animals go to in order to impress a member of the opposite sex are truly awe-inspiring. Roses and chocolates don’t stand a chance when compared with the fantastic, and sometimes sleazy, romantic practices among our fellow animals. In this game-show-like program, test your knowledge, trivia and acting abilities with your spouse or significant other. Going stag for Valentine’s Day? Not to worry! Friends are also encouraged to come out for the program as long as they are in groups of two. Desserts and drinks will be offered along with a prize for the top couple. Registration is required. Call (828) 526-2623 to register.

Join us for the fun and maybe you will go home with some new ideas for your own Valentine’s Day celebration!

Primary Candidates to face off at League of Women Voters Forum Thurs., Feb. 18

On Thursday Feb. 18, the League of Women Voters will sponsor a forum for primary candidates for NC House District 120 and Macon County Board of Commissioners.

Kevin Corbin and Elliott Southworth will face each other in the Republican primary for House District 120. Randy Hogsed is the unopposed Democratic candidate. Republicans Karl Gillespie and Ron Haven are competing for the Republican candidacy for the District 2 Macon County Board of Commissioners seat. Charlie Leatherman is the unopposed Democratic candidate.

Republicans Greg Boyer, Emmanuel Carrion, and Paul Higdon are competing for the District 3 Board of Commissioners seat. Bobby Kuppers is the Democratic candidate.

All the above mentioned primary candidates have accepted our invitation to this forum.

The forum will be held at noon at Tartan Hall of the First Presbyterian Church in Franklin. Questions will be accepted from the audience, time permitting. League members are encouraged to submit their questions to Susan Ervin at susanervinfo213@gmail.com.

The Highlands Performing Arts Center will present the National Theatre of London’s production of Les Liaisons Dangereuses via satellite (on our large theater screen) on Saturday, February 13 at 1pm.

In 1782, Choderlos de Laclos’ novel of sex, intrigue and betrayal in pre-revolutionary France scandalized the world. Two hundred years later, Christopher Hampton’s irresistible adaptation swept the board, winning the Olivier and Evening Standard Awards for Best Play. Josie Rourke’s revivis now marks the play’s 30-year anniversary.

Former lovers, the Marquise de Merteuil and Vicomte de Valmont compete in games of seduction and revenge. Merteuil incites Valmont to corrupt the innocent Cecile de Volanges before her wedding night but Valmont has targeted the peerlessly virtuous and beautiful Madame de Tourvel. While these merciless aristocrats toy with others’ hearts and reputations, their own may prove more fragile than they supposed.

Tickets are available online: highlandspac.org, at the door or by calling 828.526.9047 Adults: $22 PAC Members: $19 Students: FREE. Highlands Performing Arts Center 507 Chestnut Street

The General Fund Balance was the subject of the auditor’s report. Whereas revenues were about the same from 2014 to 2015 – $5,921,069 for 2014 and $5,862,324 for 2015 – the available fund balance in 2015 (cash on hand) decreased by $1,532,651 when compared to 2014. The reason? There were more expenditures in FY 2014-'15.

In 2014 expenditures amounted to $4,894,500 but in 2015 they were $6,719,092 – and Highlands is the better for it.

More was spent this year on infrastructure, including the Lake Sequoyah project, capital projects, and recreation including K-H Founders Park, the ball park, the pool and the Rec Center.

From 2014 to 2015, Highlands spent down its unrestricted (available) fund balance to 33% of its General Fund versus its 77% unrestricted Fund Balance in 2014.

“We saved it up and this year we spent it,” said Mayor Pro Tempore Amy Patterson. “We saved it so we could use it and spend it down to where we want it to be.”

The 33% available fund balance represents the amount of money it would take to run the town for four months. Local Government Commission policy requires that municipalities and counties maintain a minimum unrestricted fund balance of 8% which is about a month’s worth of expenditures.

“It is essential that ad valorem tax-levying units, such as municipalities and counties, maintain an adequate amount of fund balance available to meet their cash flow needs during the months in their revenue cycles when outflows exceed inflows. This ensures that the unit can meet current obligations and prevents the unit from experiencing cash flow difficulties,” says the Local Government Commission.

According to the commission, North Carolina counties (and many municipalities) have historically maintained fund balance available levels well above the 8 percent minimum as a cushion against unexpected expenditures, emergencies or declines in revenues.

Examples would be lagging reimbursements from FEMA after the Blizzard of ’93 and the Peak’s Creek disaster.

Across the state, the average fund balance amounts maintained by counties is approximately 21 percent – Macon County ruled it wouldn’t go below 25%.

With the recession now in the rear view mirror, tax revenue is up. In 2014, ad valorem tax revenue was $2,606,063 and in 2015 it was $2,903,100.

As noted in the Jan. 14 edition of Highlands Newspaper, room tax proceeds just through November of 2015 were already higher than all of 2014 -- $288,299 versus $262,964.

According to the audit, other taxes and licenses are up as well. In 2014, proceeds were $830,477 and in 2015 that rose to $907,086.

Proceeds from the town’s enterprise funds – utilities – are up, too – $2,774,488.

According to county and town officials all indications are that the turn in the economy means sales and room tax proceeds will continue to rise which is good for both entities.

Valentine’s Day & President’s Day in Highlands!
Of Bangs, Whimpers and Scorched Phone Lines

By Bruce Katz

As with so many of life’s high, inside fastballs, it began with a phone call. But I’m getting ahead of the story. On Christmas Eve I started having head cold symptoms: a runny nose (in my case, a big runny nose) a hacking, wheezing cough and some fits of serial sneezing. Historically, this is not a big thing for me. Typically, I don a couple of Alka Seltzer Plus or some Dayquil/Nyquil and the next morning, the symptoms are gone.

Not this time.

On Christmas Day, after mass at Our Lady of the Mountains, we went to the home of good friends in Franklin for a lovely afternoon meal. I was still emptying out but managed to get through the day. The following morning, on Saturday, the symptoms had moved into my chest. This necessitated a visit to the Highlands-Cashiers Hospital ER, where I received a diagnosis of an upper respiratory infection and/or bronchitis. Dr. Wade prescribed antibiotics, cough suppressants and decongestants. I was still feeling extremely blah, but we kept a commitment with friends in Highlands, who also, bless them, fed us a spectacular turkey dinner.

On Sunday I rested, but when there was no improvement on Monday morning I called Dr. Baker’s office and was inserted into an already crowded lineup. He confirmed the diagnosis but sent me across the HCH campus to get a chest x-ray in order to eliminate the presence of pneumonia.

Later that day, I got that phone call I referred to earlier from the nurse at the doctor’s office. The x-ray did its job, there was no pneumonia, but it also revealed what she said was “a nodule on the lower part of (my) right lung.” The already nasty cold and bronchitis took an immediate back seat. I was told to expect a call from the radiology department at the hospital. My doctor wanted a CT scan performed to see what “that nodule” was all about.

Bang!

Over the next several days of resting and taking my meds to deal with the cold/bronchitis we waited for the test to be scheduled. I alerted my daughters in Asheville and Greenwich immediately. My wife, my amazing, sharing, caring wife, keeping the phone lines fully employed, managed to alert her side of our family along with pretty much the entire rest of the known universe.

The test was scheduled for Friday, January 8, 2016. For the ensuing days between notification of the existence of “the nodule” and the day of the CT scan, our minds went back and forth between all of the possible destinations that pop up in circumstances like these. Fear of the worst, belief in God to make it all right, prayer, rationalization, resignation, bravery (real and unreal) all the while hoping that the good doctor was simply moving through the protocols flowing from his training and years of experience so as to just find out what “that nodule” was.

The outpouring of concern from family, friends, neighbors, even strangers, was pretty amazing. I can safely say I don’t believe that I’ve ever been prayed for by so many people. I had to keep reminding myself that so far, all I was dealing with was a cold, a respiratory infection and bronchitis, and a “nodule” that required some explanation.

The day came for the test whether I was ready or not. I’m not a worrier by nature but I’d be painting a pretty dishonest picture if I didn’t admit that by the time we arrived at the HCH outpatient desk I was maybe a little concerned. Maybe a little more than a little. OK, a lot more than a little concerned.

The phlebotomist took some of my blood to ensure my nearly 72-year old kidneys had the ability to handle the contrast agent the radiology technician would be injecting into my vein so as to make the scan readable and clear. I was warned that the dye might make me a bit queasy since I’d eaten a small breakfast that I probably shouldn’t have had. It didn’t. After a couple of early arrivals in the Radiology department had their pictures taken I was summoned into the CT scan suite. My wife, hiding her concerns well for my benefit, was left to wait. I’m not sure who had it more difficult, her or me.

The test itself was, it

Falling in love is exciting and a romantic relationship results in the release of dopamine—a chemical involved in attention and focus in your brain. The desire to spend every waking hour with that person, and the inability to eat or sleep takes over. Sound familiar? Valentine’s Day is the perfect time to show your sweetie how you feel—with a night out on the town, flowers, and chocolates, of course!

Falling in love with a home is similar. You picture yourself connected with the home and dreams of making memories there are planted in your brain. You envision nights by the fireplace sipping wine, preparing a tempting meal in your new kitchen, watching the sunset from your new deck, or waking to a beautiful sunrise in glorious golds and reds with a mountain as the backdrop. It is romantic in its own way.

And sometimes our heart impedes our ability to see straight or think correctly and we pick the wrong partner, just like sometimes our judgment is impaired in picking a house. This is where a great broker comes in to play. Is the neighborhood good for resale, is the quality of construction good, and most importantly, is the price right? Use our expertise to help you make the right decision the first time. A broker—just like a partner—needs to be honest and trustworthy. A broker should be attentive and stay in touch. The relationship should not end once the transition takes place and both should have a lasting respect for each other. As Johnny Mathis would croon: “Chances Are” you’ll love your home AND your broker if you are selective in your choice!

I wish you all a lovely and Happy Valentine’s Day. Enjoy our special and dreamy little town. If you want to discuss any of your real estate wants or desires stop by Pat Allen Realty Group at 295 Dillard Road—across from Highlands Decorating Center. You don’t have to bring roses or chocolates—but if you do—that is perfectly fine!

In God We Trusted

By Steve Kerhoulas
Christ Church of the Valley, Cashiers

Those familiar with the works of Thomas Paine will remember that his influence sparked the French Revolution. Paine’s activism challenged all religious beliefs and especially the value of a society being governed by spiritual principles. Paine, a progressive political radical, said all laws must be secular with no hint of divine influence.

Crazy, right? But this is exactly what is taking place in America. Case in point: a local police department not being permitted to include on its vehicles the slogan, “In God We Trust”. Which begs the question, “In whom do we trust”?

When the pilgrims were on board the ship and before they disembarked they wrote and signed the Mayflower Compact. In it they explain their mission and purpose for coming to America.

“In the name of God, Amen. We whose names are underwritten…having undertaken, for the glory of God, and the advancement of the Christian faith…” Did they say “The advancement of the Christian faith”? Yes, but this is changing. There are those who believe, as Thomas Paine, Christian beliefs have no value as far as determining public law. Three individuals come to mind. The first is Robert Reich, former secretary of labor under Bill Clinton. In his book “Reason: Why Liberals Will Win the Battle for America”, says “We’ve got to stop the Radicals (Christians) before they impose their narrow agenda any further.” The second is Robert Audi, a professor of philosophy at Notre Dame, who advocated principles for determining law. The first is something he calls “secular rational”. This principle for public policy says we cannot support any law that restricts human behavior unless it is done through secular reason. “There must be a secular rational that is understood to be a secular reason.” The third is professor Kathleen Sullivan who says, “The correct baseline theory is not unfettered religious liberty, but rather religious liberty insofar as it is consistent with the establishment of secular, moral order.” What these three espouse is the same as Thomas Paine; all public law is to be secular.

In reality some of our most important public laws are based upon the Bible. Such as: Do not murder/ the 6th Commandment; Do not steal/ the 8th; do not bear false witness/ the 9th; No doubt you will think of more! Additionally, we know that families and nations fare well when Scripture molds our attitudes. Ideas, such as respect for authority, parents, being kind, generous, (Christians are the most giving people), marital fidelity, fiscal responsibility, the benefits of working hard etc. are all promoted and taught in the Bible.

Do we really want all laws to be secular? Would you prefer a society based purely on what some powerful leader thinks is right and legal? Hey, hasn’t this been done without much success in Russia, China, Viet Nam, North Korea, and in Hitler’s Germany? What’s wrong with trusting in God? I have an idea-what if the people of God stop being intimidated by political correctness and state boldly that the reason our founding occurred was not because some atheists wanted to create a secular society, but because Christians wanted to create a sacred one. History doesn’t lie. If “In God we trust” was wise why not continue?

Macon County Federal firearms licensee sentenced to 2.5 years in prison for selling firearms to a prohibited person

ASHEVILLE, N.C. – A Macon County federal firearms licensee was sentenced today to a 30-month prison term for selling firearms to a prohibited person, announced Jill Westmoreland Rose, U.S. Attorney for the Western District of North Carolina. Philip Nelson Elliott, 55, of Franklin, N.C., was also ordered by U.S. District Judge Max O. Cogburn, Jr. to serve three years under court supervision following his prison term.

U.S. Attorney Rose is joined in making today’s announcement by C.J. Hyman, Special Agent in Charge of the U.S. Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives (ATF), Charlotte Field Division.

“Federally-licensed firearms dealers are expected to be one of our first lines of defense to deprive convicted felons from purchasing firearms. Recent events underscore the importance of keeping guns out of the wrong hands. My office will vigorously prosecute gun dealers who put personal gain ahead of public safety,” said U.S. Attorney Rose.

“This case is an example of the types of investigations ATF conducts on a daily basis to keep our communities safe. ATF will continue to work with our investigative partners to keep firearms out of the hands of criminals and aggressively seek to bring individuals who provide firearms to criminals to justice,” said ATF Special Agent in Charge Hyman.

According to the filed court documents and today's sentencing hearing, Philip Elliott was a federal firearms licensee who operated “Mountain Top Coins, Guns and Ammo” (Mountain Top), a firearms business located in Franklin. Court records show that Philip Elliott’s brother, Donald Eugene Elliott, also worked at Mountain Top. According to court records, from March to July 2014, Philip Elliott sold multiple firearms to a convicted felon and was therefore prohibited from possessing a firearm. Court records show that in addition to selling the firearms, Philip Elliott discussed selling the felon rocket-propelled grenade launchers and told the felon he was willing to buy stolen goods, including stolen firearms.

While executing a search warrant at Mountain Top, ATF agents seized approximately 20 firearms in the store which were “off the books,” meaning they were not included in the ATF Acquisition and Disposition Records as required of federal firearms licensees. Philip Elliott pleaded guilty in July 2015 to one count of selling a firearm to a prohibited person.

Law enforcement also seized seven firearms and ammunition from Donald Elliott’s residence. Donald Elliott’s previous felony conviction prohibited him from owning a firearm. He pleaded guilty to one count of felon in possession of a firearm and was sentenced in December 2015 to six months in prison and two years of supervised release.

The investigation was handled by ATF, Assistant U.S. Attorney Don Gast of the U.S. Attorney’s Office in Asheville prosecuted the case.

Hey, Highlands, what’s wrong with a cop car helping us to remember?

One last thing. President Thomas Jefferson sent to Congress a bill asking it to support both a pastor’s salary and the building of a church. While in office he also attended church service that were held in the Capitol building. So much for the separation of church and state! God bless America…please!

Public Information from the Town of Highlands

The takeaways from this Christmas/New Year ’15/’16 experience are manifold.

Dr. Wade and the HCH ER team, Dr. Baker and his staff, and the HCH Radiology department could not have been any more professional and personally caring. The prayer chain my wife kicked into high gear, engaging pretty much anyone and everyone she encountered since the x-ray, obviously did its job.

We spent the afternoon following the CT scan eating a pizza at Slab Town in Cashiers and then calling all of the family members, friends and others who’d been in on this 16-day journey with us, sharing the good news. In case we missed saying it while all of this was going on here’s to a Happy New Year, and thanks for all of the good thoughts and prayers.

A New way to study the Bible and enjoy fiction. Written by Darlene Melcher, both Companions follow along with exciting fiction novels and bring to light the treasures hidden in the stories.

The Prodigal’s Advocate Participant’s Companion makes YOU the main character of the novel by R. D. Fierro, The Prodigal’s Advocate. When the main character dies that isn’t the end of the story but just the beginning. Shake the dust right off your soul as you face your Scroll of Deeds and Thoughts and look toward the Hall of Glory.

Doors of Destiny Traveler’s Companion. A tiny hand reaches for a gleaming round orb and so begins the journey. Four ordinary children could never have imagined where their walk in the woods would take them or what would lie beyond the next door. Follow along with the characters as you take a journey of your own with weekly titles like: The Battle Begins, Courage for the Fight, Beyond Me, and The Never-ending Journey.
