Trash controversies and other Town news

There are two subjects that never get old in Highlands – parking and trash.

Thanks to a booming season, at times the commercial district is overflowing with the stuff – particularly the restaurants – and as expected some have turned to the town for relief.

The problem is, at the close of fiscal year 2015-16 the Sanitation Department – which is one of the town’s four enterprise funds – was in the red due to overtime accumulated from Sunday pickups in the commercial district. The amount appropriated from the undesignated Fund Balance to get the Sanitation Fund in the black at the end of the fiscal year, as required by law, was $10,037.

According to Town Manager Bob Frye, the four-hour Sunday run in the commercial district, which has been going on for about three years and falls into the overtime column, has been costing the town $10,037.

GA woman is swept over Rainbow Falls

Forest Service reminds visitors of waterfall dangers after recent fatalities

The US Forest Service and the Transylvania Sheriff’s Dept. verified reports that 24-year-old Taylor Terrell, of Stockbridge, GA, fell 160 feet last Thursday, July 21, from Rainbow Falls. She would have turned 25 on Friday, July 22.

U.S. Forest Service spokeswoman Cathy Dowd says Terrell was wading in a creek at the top of Rainbow Falls in Transylvania County near Lake Toxaway when she lost her footing on rocks covered in algae. She says the swift current swept her over the falls.

She was an anchor at WMGT.

Highlands Hurricanes bring home 16 medals

By Coach Steve Hott

Led by Chase Kenter, Vivi Geren and Conner Hughes, the Highlands Hurricanes brought home 16 medals from the Mountain Swim League Conference Championship Meet.

Though it finished 4th, 56 points behind Jackson County, the Hurricanes continued its improvement.

In 2015, they qualified eight swimmers for the MSL Conference Championships and scored 53 points -- six points per swimmer.

This year it qualified 22 swimmers and scored 196 points -- eight points per swimmer and led Jackson County much of the meet. All 22 swimmers swimming.

Tonight's Highlands Town Board meeting has a light agenda. It will begin at 7 pm at the Highlands Conference Center next to the ball field. A public hearing concerning editorial changes to the UDO is on the agenda. No substantive changes are being made to the UDO. The proposed changes are editorial corrections and word changes for consistency.

Another item on the agenda deals with fund balance appropriations to close out the FYI 2015/16 budget that ended in June. It is not a matter of adding new funds, but rather moving existing funds to appropriate line items as a part of closing out last year's budget.

There will also be a discussion of commercial trash pickup on Sundays. Last year the town paid substantial overtime to commercial trash pickup on Sundays. The town manager will discuss other options that will contain costs and avoid a commercial garbage rate increase to cover the extra Sunday pickup. Our Sanitation Department is an enterprise fund that has been operated like a business. Our auditors and Local Government Commission will not allow the town to continue to incur overtime costs that are not factored into the operating costs. The operating costs of enterprise departments have to be covered by user fees, not from the general revenue funds.

Another item to be covered is the Christmas Town Lighting. In the past several years this ceremony has been held on Main Street in front of the Methodist Church on the Saturday evening after Thanksgiving. As part of the event, Main Street is closed late afternoon on that Saturday. The board will be considering moving the town lighting back to Founders Park. A number of years ago, the lighting took place on the hill where Entegra Bank is now located, so it would be a return to a previous site. At one point the lighting was held around the large tree behind Town Hall. There are funds in this year's budget to purchase decorations for lighting the park.

The Town Lighting would coincide with the opening of the ice skating rink. Another issue that board members and town staff have been examining is whether and where to locate a town Christmas Tree in the park as a part of the holiday festivities. There has also been discussion about planting a permanent live tree, or whether a tree should be cut for the holiday each year. Also, part of the discussion will concern donations related to the tree and lighting.

The time is now to decide about the tree and relocating the lighting to the park. Lights and decorations have to be ordered soon in order to be in place by Thanksgiving.

Hope to see everyone tonight.

PS. My apologies to The Park on Main and Landmark Realty, the site and host of the Highlands Chamber of Commerce July After Hours. In my last article I referred to them as Town Park. I realized my error just after press time.

Letters

Dear Editor,

Regarding the letter in last week's edition entitled, “The Real State of North Carolina,” it is unfortunate that Mr. Ready finds his neighbors so distasteful, and almost as unfortunate that his letter was selected for publication. Perhaps he would be more at home spending his summers in Los Angeles.

Concerning the future of Mirror Lake

Dear Editor,

Regarding Mirror Lake … judging by all the canoes and fishermen on this little lake, the whole town enjoys it from time to time. Now that the bridge is strong and wider, the road leading down to Franklin is reopened and the housing market has come back to life, we are a thriving area. My family appreciates all the improvements!

Our humble house, ever since it was built, has been in the family for more than 60 years. Our children will inherit it but will the lake survive? Already there are trees obscuring the front of a nearby dock where boats and canoes used to be. Bushes have sprouted in the middle of the lake where it is increasingly filling up with silt and the cover near our house is about five feet high in marsh partially blocking one of the feeding streams.

If the Mirror Lake Improvement Association has to answer to the town for wetland preservation and permission for dredging, etc., why can't the town just buy or lease the lake from us? An added tax to homeowners could be part of the plan and homes with lake views paying higher than those away from water access.

The vigilance of the town on lake levels and dredging periodically would not be such a financial burden on homeowners … since town people also enjoy it. Has this been considered or is it a dumb idea?

Ready is wrong about ‘state of NC’

Dear Editor:

Your 21 July 2016 newspaper had a ridiculous letter-to-the-editor by Milton Ready entitled “The Real State of North Carolina.” Ready thinks he can intimidate others to his beliefs. He is wrong. Ready makes references to racism, bigotry, reactionary Southern state, diversity. Let me respond to his ignorance.

Racist: Don’t be intimidated by an anti-God anti-Christ message. If someone calls you a racist, respond with, “God was the first and greatest racist! I am proud to be a racist.”

Equality: While equality is not mentioned I am sure Ready believes in it. There is no such thing as equality! Whenever I

Terrell was one of two fatalities related to waterfalls that occurred in the Pisgah National Forest during this past week.

On Saturday, July 23, a local-area man jumped off the top of Elk River Falls in the Appalachian Ranger District.
His body was recovered from the deep pool at the base of the waterfall on Monday.

These are the first waterfall-related fatalities in each of these districts this year. However, there have been several fatalities on nearby state and private waterfalls. There have also been numerous injuries to people who were recreating on or near waterfalls, said the USFS.

During hot summer weather, there is nothing more refreshing than cold mountain rivers and waterfalls, but the best way to enjoy a waterfall is from a safe distance.

hear the stupid comment, “All men are created equal,” I ask if a baby born with AIDS or blind is equal to one who is not. Equality is the greatest of all lies. There is nothing in this world and universe that is equal. Not people, not races, not soils, not elements, not isotopes, not ions, not snowflakes, not fingerprints, not retina scans, not stereo-isomers, not voice prints nor DNA. Not even in mathematics is there equality! 4 = 4 is a lie regardless of what most think.
Location or position is a characteristic of numbers. The right four is in a different position than the left four, hence inequality. If there is no equality in a pure science such as mathematics then there can be no such thing as equality in anything else.

The only equality in the world and universe is that all people, animals, plants and minerals get 24 hours a day.
The Bible says that there is a group of people, the House of Israel, Deut 7:6, that is above all others on the face of the earth. The Bible talks about heaven and hell. Christ said, “In my house there are many mansions,” John 14:2, inferring a different and unequal status of each. Another excellent example is of Christ speaking to the Jews telling them that he is from above and they are from beneath. John 8:23 “And he said unto them, Ye are from beneath; I am from above; ye are of this world; I am not of this world.”

How can anyone even speak about equality after knowing about these two verses? The right science and the right religion will always agree!

Bigotry: There is nothing so bigoted as saying that black is the same as white. In fact black and white are true opposites. Hard core science Stefan-Boltzmann Law and “Black Body Radiation.”

Diverse: There is nothing so diverse as trash! Examples of diversity are urine, chlorine or fluorine in drinking water, feces in food, sand in motor oil or water in gasoline. Maybe we should go into pharmacies and just mix up all of the drugs in the interests of diversity and increase the entropy.
Let’s go to a feed store and mix up all of the seeds. After all, all seeds are created equal. Let’s put stones and weed seed back into garden soil. I stand for purity and not diversity.

No nation, civilization or organization has ever survived invasion or its more modern term, diversity. Not ancient Egypt, Greece or Rome and for more modern example review what immigration did for the American Indian and ask the Palestinians about the advantages of admitting strangers with their ideas and strange genetics to their society. Western World is dying in case you have not figured it out.

Hate: I hate disease, corruption, filth, dishonesty, ignorance, poison ivy, snakes, mosquitoes, trash, evil, hypocr-sy etc. I guess that makes me a hater. God almighty said, with perfect hatred: I count them mine enemies. The words “hate” or “hatred” exist about 85 times in the King James Version of the Bible.

Hate crimes: If there are hate crimes then logically there must be love crimes. Of course love crimes would be a contradiction of terms as all crimes involve some kind of hatred towards another person, concept or organization.
This of course is hypocrisy pure and simple.

I have a website christdescendedfromjoseph.com that comments on these and many other controversial subjects in detail.

Ready is only partially right

Dear Editor,

The recent letter “The Real State of North Carolina” in last week’s edition, was needlessly harsh.

For one thing, the “Old North State” did furnish more troops for the Confederacy than any other state, but Professor Ready should know there was much more to the Civil War than the defense of slavery.

As to Senator Sam and the ERA amendment, as I recall, the fundamental objection was to the power it would have given to the Federal government over domestic institutions and the lives of individual citizens.

Editors note:
Fred is a twenty-eight year veteran of the Miami Beach Police Department. After retirement and for the next thirteen years, Fred ran a rappelling school on the cliffs of Highlands. These are his stories.

Indirectly blame President Obama and his laissez-faire attitude toward the dramatic increase in police assassinations in America. While the direct cause and blame may be abstract, remember the famous saying sitting on President Harry Truman’s desk, “The buck stops here.”

The power and prestige of our country is rapidly waning and assassinating police officers is all part of our demise. Whether you’re a Democrat, Republican, or Independent, you must admit that in the last fifteen years America has been in decline. Starting with George Bush, there have been so many poor decisions that have cost America dearly. While murdering of police officers is nothing new, the increase is dramatic.

This is my true story.

It was just after seven in the morning when my home phone rang. The voice on the other end said, “Commander, this is your dispatcher. Officer Kramer has been shot. He’s being rushed to Mt. Sinai hospital and a command post has been set up at the scene of the shooting. Your midnight commander has already set up several perimeters and started a search for the suspect.”

“I’m on the way,” was my response and hung up the phone. Racing through our kitchen and out the back door, I said to Maddy, “Got an officer down. Probably won’t be home ‘til late.”

It was February 25th 1984. I was commander of the Patrol Division and didn’t know it at the time but Officer Donald Kramer, our departmental Santa Claus, was already dead.

Don, a Miami Beach TV repairman, had wanted to be a policeman since he was a child. Finally, and to the chagrin of his parents, Don took the civil service test and was hired. His parents begged him not to join us.

Four days after Don was shot, the doctors convinced Don’s parents to pull the plug and allow their son to die.

I lost a good friend and a fine police officer.

During the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays I would bring my children to the police department to help in distributing food and toys to the needy.

After the police chief and I sat Shivah with Don’s parents for two evenings, I got on with the rest of my life.

Officer Scott Rakow, a four-year veteran but a rookie on the narcotics squad, was placed in his car on the causeway far away from the actual narcotics transaction that was about to take place. If anything went wrong with the narcotics sale, the dealers would head across the causeway toward Scott. There was little chance that would happen.

Well, as fate would have it, the drug deal turned sour, guns were drawn and a shootout ensued. After several rounds were fired, the drug dealers were able to get into their car and escape, heading west on the causeway toward Officer Scott Rakow.

Scott picked up the chase in his unmarked unit as the drug dealer's car went by him. Then the drug dealers made a mistake that would cost Scott his life. They turned onto a street that came to a dead end. The three bad guys jumped from their car and ran across a nearby vacant field with Scott in pursuit on foot.

One of the drug dealers, in a full run, fired a small 25 caliber automatic pistol toward Scott. It was a wild shot but the bullet struck Scott right between his eyes. He was dead before he hit the ground.

Everyone was eventually captured and all were charged with the death of this fine officer. I got on with the rest of my life.

In Houston, Texas, his mother begged her son not to become a Miami Beach police officer but he was determined to join our department. (His name must remain anonymous.)

He was her only child. This death occurred toward the end of my career so I didn’t know this officer well. He had just graduated from the police academy when he was found dead lying on his back in full uniform. His service revolver was still in his hand.

A lengthy investigation revealed he had • See THE FREDSTER page 11
How important is the survey when purchasing a home?

Anywho who regularly deals with buying and selling real estate will assure you that a survey is vital to the process. The simple reason is that without a survey, you don’t actually know what you are buying. Many lending institutions do require a survey before issuing a loan. As a knowledgeable consumer, whether acquiring a loan or paying cash you should insist on a survey during your due diligence period.

The value of a survey becomes evident when an unknown encroachment is uncovered. This is especially prevalent in properties that were originally owned by family members or adjacent properties owned by the same individual. Those encroachments were not necessarily intentional, but with everyone being ‘one big happy family’ they didn’t really care if Uncle Joe’s driveway went through Cousin Clara’s land, or if Joe and Clara had to use the same driveway. However, you care and by having a survey during your due diligence period, any encroachment problem reverts back to the current owner. The seller will need to solve in order to sell the property.

There are any number of horror stories where a thrifty buyer who chooses not to get a survey ends up spending significantly more money down the line when a diligent neighbor finds out that your necessary and lovely fence is situated on their land rather than your own. In the in-town Highlands area, there are so many ‘grandfathered’ properties where homes were built on lots that are smaller than current requirements. Here a survey is an absolute must. Even though this article is not about zoning and lot requirements, keep in mind that any changes made to a grandfathered designation and your request for permits would be denied.

Another potential pitfall would be an unknown utility easement. Imagine if you purchased your dream property with the plan to add a garage but then find that the utility company has an easement that prevents you from using that portion of your property. These tales of woe could go on and on. Those are just a few examples of the issues that could arise if you do not know your exact property size, usage, zoning, etc.

A surveyor does a lot more than just measure and mark the subject property. A surveyor will also verify the accuracy of the existing land documents that are recorded at the county recorder’s office. You should expect your surveyor to note the location of all structures that are on the property and to note any easements or encroachments that are on the property. A survey will also show zoning and make note of any zoning restrictions that the property might violate. Using a surveyor who is knowledgeable of your area is extremely helpful as their research time, thus possibly their cost, will be less.

Should you as a buyer rely on a survey provided by the seller? The prudent move here would be to go back to the surveying company and ask for an update of that existing survey. A lender will not always require a new survey, but they know that regular title insurance covers them. For a buyer to be covered to the same extent, they will need Owner’s Title Insurance and a current survey will work with that policy to further insure your investment.

Work with your professional Realtor to make sure you are protected in the home buying process. Your Realtor will have suggestions of good local surveyors as well as other professionals to help insure a safe and profitable home buying experience.

accidently shot himself in the leg while practicing his quick draw in front of a full length mirror next to his bed, severing his femoral artery. Death came within 40 seconds as the officer bled out trying to call 911.

At his funeral, held at St. Patrick’s Church on Miami Beach, his mom got out of a funeral procession car and the bag-pipes began to play. As she climbed the steps of the church, she spotted her son’s casket at the entrance to the church and she crumbled to the ground, crying profusely. The service was delayed for about 15 minutes as uniformed officers tried to console her. She was all alone in the world. No friends, no family and now no son. As usual, I got on with the rest of my life.

Now, in my retirement, I sometimes sit on my back deck and look out at the distant mountain ranges. I reflect back on how fortunate I am to be alive. Yes, my guardian angel must still be with me. And I hope he never gives up on me.

This week at the Nature Center

The southern Appalachian Mountains are considered one of the most biologically diverse areas in the temperate world with nearly 10,000 species known to exist here, 1,400 of which are flowering plants. Have you ever wondered which of these can help you, which can harm you, and which have influenced the course of history? Join us on Monday, August 1st from 10:30-11:30am to learn which plants are toxic and what parts of the plant can harm you, and then round out your knowledge with the history and folklore behind these plants. Or, if you are more interested in the animals of the southern Appalachians, come watch us feed the animals in the Nature Center on Tuesdays and Fridays from 11:30am-Noon or come to the next Zahner Conservation Lecture.

On Thursday, August 4th Carlton Burke will be giving a presentation on “Venomous Snakes and Their Contributions to Science” at the Highlands Nature Center at 6:30pm. Ruth and Tom Claiborne and Mary Todd and Jim Davis are sponsoring this lecture. Venomous snakes are feared and persecuted by almost every segment of our society, but like all living things, they deserve our respect and understanding. In this program we will explore human attitudes about snakes both venomous and non- venomous, discuss the various species of venomous snakes in the southeastern United States and facts concerning their natural history, and learn how their venom and other attributes have benefited science and the medical fields. There will also be live examples of venomous snakes on display.

Burke is an interpretive naturalist and educator who operates Carolina Mountain Naturalists, an educational service that offers live wildlife and nature programs to various organizations such as schools and camps. Burke also teaches various classes for the Blue Ridge Naturalist Certificate Program, works as a seasonal educator with the Cradle of Forestry in America Interpretive Association, and is a NC State and Federally Licensed Wildlife Rehabilitator and Licensed NC State Wildlife Damage Control Agent. He is also the co-host of the weekly radio program NATURE NEWS.

Spirituallly Speaking

Anglican car-wash transfiguration

Christ Anglican Church, a one-time Highlands parish, moved east several years ago as it purchased its own property in Cashiers. The parcel, on the right of 64 just beyond the crossroads, has been amazingly transfigured. In keeping with the gospel story of Jesus’ mountain top Transfiguration, the church at 464 US Hwy 64E, has taken what was formerly a retail feed-store, and in more recent times, a real-estate office combined with a car-wash, and transfigured it into a sparkling masterpiece for Christian worship.

Upon purchasing the property in 2012, the joke around Highlands and Cashiers was that the Anglicans were fixin’ to use the car-wash to do mass baptisms. “We never attempted to do that,” said the Christ Anglican (CAC) Rector, the Rev’d Jim Murphy, “but we did entertain other applications for the facility. For the couple of years before reconstruction began it was home to a local food ministry and farmers’ market.”

In short order and with the blessing of God inspired growth, it became apparent that CAC would have to expand its physical footprint. “Truth-be-told,” Murphy said, “we quickly found ourselves short on seating capacity, be that for worship, fellowship, or discipleship. For the sake of the Lord’s kingdom, we needed to accommodate the people he was sending.”

Less than a year after their initial remodeling was complete in 2013, the process was begun to plan for the future. A vision was cast in 2014 by CAC members and the services of a local AIA architect, C. Allen Brown, were retained. A contract with the Highlands construction firm, MEI, led by Keith McMik was also signed. The transfiguration started in earnest in 2015 as the fellowship and classroom space was renewed and expanded. During that time, new restrooms were added, along with a kitchen, foyer, porch, and entrance.

Around the end of last year, that phase of the project was complete and the extant CAC sanctuary was closed. “From Thanksgiving until this June, the new fellowship and discipleship room served as our worship space,” said Father Jim.

As Jesus was “transfigured” on the holy mount where-in his glory was clearly seen, Christ Anglican is nearing the completion of their transfiguration. “A few items more and the glory of God will be more completely seen,” said the Building Committee Chair and High Hampton resident, Major General John Grinals.

Christ Anglican hosted the Archbishop of the Anglican Church of North America on Sunday July 31st. The Most Rev’d Dr. Foley Beach will dedicate at that time. A dozen or so of our Highlands neighbors who are members at CAC say, as does Psalm 34, “Taste and see that the Lord is good.”

In certain ways, Murphy believes that CAC will have come full-circle on the Mount of Transfiguration, returning to be a full-time feed store but now with a spiritual stock, an ongoing real-estate office wherein you can stake your claim to property in the heavenly kingdom, and it all comes through the washing waters of baptism. CAC Highlands-Cashiers invites you to come and taste and see.

town $1,300 per month or $17,000 a year.

It wouldn't matter if the Sanitation Fund was self-sustaining through monthly charges to residents and businesses, but it's not.

“I have been looking at this for years, and the overtime due to the weekend runs on Saturday and Sunday get factored into department expenses and everyone pays, even those who don’t get the service, like residents, but we need to address the shortfalls and make service and fees equitable to all,” said Frye.

So what’s the problem?

Two weeks ago Frye stopped Sunday pickup in the commercial district and several restauranteurs were upset. They thought the town should have been more forthcoming about the change and some think the town should just absorb the cost.

However, the town can’t absorb the cost and balance the books at the same time.

Turns out, the solution was relatively easy: With extra toters — the big garbage receptacles on wheels which cost $5 each per month to rent -- and/or a dumpster, Sunday garbage generated at the restaurants can be safely contained until Monday morning pickup. So far, most of the restaurants have been understanding and have agreed to rent more toters which alleviates the problem of overflowing bins.

“We have worked this out with most everyone who voiced concerns,” said Frye. “It’s just costing the town too much to continue the Sunday run. It’s too expensive and not all Highlands’ citizens benefited from it.”

He said over the years it also became clear that his sanitation crews were running on Sunday to alleviate the pickup on Monday.

Though only the commercial district gets Saturday pickup, and that, too, is overtime, the department is able to absorb that cost. Overtime on Sunday puts the department in the red.

In addition to being fiscally responsible, Frye said the town’s auditor has warned that its enterprise funds need to be self-sustaining through fees and charges.

“We just can’t eat the cost of this. An enterprise fund is about revenues and expenditures. We could increase rates but not everyone needs or wants Sunday service,” said Frye.

The Saturday run, which is a seasonal thing in the commercial district, will continue. Currently, there is garbage pickup Monday through Friday throughout town and just in the commercial district on Saturday.

Other Town News

Planning Director, Randy Feierabend is retiring in October, about a year after he took the job. He says he is unable to sell his home in Boone due to legal problems with the contractor, so he and his wife can’t move here permanently. The drive to and from Boone, which is where his wife lives, is also too much every weekend and life will just be easier if he retires and gets a part-time job somewhere closer to home.

Frye will once again be acting Planning Director until Feierabend’s replacement is found, hopefully in September before Feierabend leaves. Frye said he won’t be contacting any of the candidates who interviewed last year.

“We are going to reassess the Planning Director requirements and hopefully get someone who wants to advance his or her career rather being at the tail end of it,” said Frye. The town is looking for someone who will commit for three to five years.

The town decided to hire within to fill the Finance Director position. Rebecca Shuler has donned two hats that of Finance Director and Town Clerk.

Lisa Billingsley, who was hired a few weeks ago, is the Assistant Finance Director and Deputy Clerk. Rather than having an assistant, everyone in the office will assist Frye when needed.

“By realigning the staff, we are saving about $30,000 a year,” said Frye.

Highlands-Cashiers Land Trust (HCLT) will receive $3500 from Laurel Garden Club to help support our educational programming including our Village Nature Series programs, Kids in Nature programs, and a new Volunteer Stream Monitoring program. Education is a strong conservation tool because an educated constituency that can make informed decisions about environmental issues will have a greater impact on the future care and protection of our lands.

The Village Nature Series (VNS) is a free educational lecture series that is run by a partnership between HCLT and the Village Green in Cashiers. These events aim to educate individuals of all ages about the natural and cultural heritage of the Highlands-Cashiers Plateau with an emphasis on the importance of conservation. For our 2016 VNS schedule, visit our website at www.hicashlt.org.

HCLT’s Kids in Nature programs provides a unique environmental education outlet for children in Highlands and Cashiers. Through experiential activities, often conducted outdoors at one of our conserved properties or other public protected areas, our programs focus on giving children an opportunity to learn about and connect with nature. We work with a diverse group of grade school children including the Boys and Girls Club of the Plateau, the Gordon Center, the Literacy Council, the Sonshine School, the Summit Charter School, and the Town of Highlands Rec Camp.

This year HCLT will be starting a Volunteer Stream Monitoring Program. The goal of this program will be to educate members of the community about stream ecology and the importance of stream health as well as to provide a database of the macroinvertebrate community found within streams located on HCLT conserved properties. We will train volunteers to help collect and identify stream macroinvertebrates. This program will take place on two consecutive Saturdays this fall. If you are interested in volunteering, please contact Sarah Pursel at hclt_ed@earthlink.net or 526-1111.
