Work begins on 2016-'17 budget ... what will be funded?

When it comes to budget time, most citizens want to know two things – will taxes or utility costs increase?

At the first 2016-'17 budget worksession last Thursday, Town Manager Bob Frye had good news on several fronts.

Even though the grand total for the 2016-'17 budget consideration during this first swipe is $3,001,150, it’s still $600,000 less than last year’s budget and that includes the new Altitude Broadband department.

In other good news, property taxes, the fire tax and electric rates won’t increase.

The bad news is the water/sewer and sanitation rates will likely increase.

The water/sewer rate minimum charge will increase between

Remembering Highlands’ cleanup day, Sat., April 23

By Lee Lyons

I just had the opportunity (I guess that is the right word) to take part in the Highlands community trash pick up sponsored by the mayor and Chamber of Commerce. I made the mistake of being flattered when the mayor gave me a warm, welcoming smile and acted as if he was hand selecting me for his special trash warrior team. I thought I was past the age of being taken in by a handsome man’s smile but apparently not.

Almost a hundred volunteers, ranging in age from teens to 80 something (Luther Turner is amazing), met at the Visitor Center for this well-run community event. It was like old home week, a true sense of camaraderie prevailed.

We got our - shirts, gloves, spears or pinchers, orange vests, orange trash bags and our assignments at 9 a.m. My assigned area was down the Franklin Road from Bridal Veil Falls to Dry Falls. I headed out with Sarah and Ken Knight for a glorious day of picking up trash!

King & Queen for the night

This year’s Highlands School Junior-Senior Prom was held in the main clubhouse of Highlands Country Club on Friday, April 29. Colin Weller was crowned king and Whitney Billingsley was crowned queen. The theme was "Around the World." Photos are by the Sunset Yearbook staff. For more see page 6.

HS Track team exemplifies good sportsmanship

When HS Track Coach Ryan Kean witnessed what his team did for another, he posted a heartfelt piece.

"Take a look at these track kids. Each of them is a terrific athlete in their own right, but at a recent competition in Franklin last week, something incredible happened.

"A competitor was hurt and clearly struggling in a two-mile race that he usually won easily. These track kids went out to run with their rival and talk him through his last half-mile. It didn't matter that they were all dead tired – some just ran the same race.

"When their rival finally finished, they cheered his finish as It's that time of year when the town will soon be packed with visitors and seasonal residents. I will receive a lot of feedback about the operation of the town. Some folks will tell me Highlands has too many regulations and ordinances. Others will tell me we need stronger ordinances, enforcement and penalties. There is a constant struggle to find a balance between the two extremes. The goal of having ordinances and zoning codes is to make Highlands an attractive community in which to live, visit and work.

So as we approach the beginning of an active season in Highlands, let me take this opportunity to kindly remind everyone about some ordinances and rules that are enforced by our zoning administrator, town staff and the police department.

The first reminder concerns parking. The police enforce all local and state parking ordinances. The town ordinance requires downtown employees to park in designated off-street parking April through December. Main Street is reserved for our visitors and local residents. The concept behind the ordinance is to give customers the best parking spaces. Also, state parking codes, such as for handicapped parking and parking in no-parking zones or near fire hydrants, are also enforced. Please heed stop signs, and the Main Street U-turn signs, as well as not driving over the speed limit. I personally try to avoid going over 35 in Highlands. I drive at a crawl down Main Street and other congested areas for fear of a child or elderly person stepping out in front of me.

A second reminder concerns signs. We have ordinances prohibiting sandwich board signs and similar temporary signs. Highlands also does not allow off-premise signs. I know this irritates some merchants who want to direct customers to their store and some Realtors. The concept behind the off-premise regulation is to avoid cluttering every intersection with temporary signs.

There are certain types of temporary signs that can be permitted. Please contact Town Hall before erecting any sign. We are happy to guide and advise folks about signage.

A third reminder concerns truck deliveries on Main Street. During this time of year, deliveries and unloading on Main Street and 4th can only be done before 10 am and after 5 pm. Deliveries to side and back streets can be done all day.

A fourth reminder is that construction work in the business district during the season can only be done under certain circumstances. A permit is issued by the town based on the need and merit of the request. The concept behind this ordinance is to not block pedestrian and vehicle access during business hours. Similarly, merchandise cannot be displayed on town sidewalks.

Finally, Highlands has a tree cutting ordinance that applies to all business districts, but not residences. Please consult the town zoning administrator prior to removing any trees from a business area.

For questions please call Town Hall at 526-2118. Here's to a successful and prosperous Highlands season.

Truth is, I had no idea what this trash pick-up thing was all about. My great-grandmother used to say, “Many hands make light work,” but there is too much trash for this to be considered light.

Most of the trash is not right off the road. Wouldn’t it be nice if the culprits would toss trash where it could easily be picked up? Instead, bottles and cans are tossed down steep embankments. We were told to pick up trash we could easily reach, but if you are like me and have to vacuum in every corner, you cannot just leave those cans way down the side of a ravine. Sarah Knight and I kept together. A buddy system is a good idea. Sarah would slide down on her butt and I’d traverse the slope behind her. Sarah is one of those people who sees all the good around her. She said, “Have you noticed all the Galax and Trillium?”

“No,” I said. “I’ve only seen beer cans and beer bottles. If I am given the choice of bears or humans, I’ll take bears any day.” No wonder bears scatter trash around. They probably think it is what humans like. I wonder if a mother bear feels as sad as I do walking her cubs through all this litter and broken glass.

I found out quickly that the mayor’s cool looking orange-striped spears did not work as well for me as the pinchers. Trying to spear a beer can on a hill is like trying to spear a fish and it doesn’t work on glass bottles. Still, they make a tribal statement.

Most of the trash I found was from alcohol. Sure, there were some coke cans and Java Monsters but by and large, it was beer cans and beer bottles, the regular and large sizes. Budweiser is without a doubt the King of Trash and then Modelo, Corona, Best from Milwaukee, Coronita and liquor bottles, especially miniatures of Crown Royal and Goldschlager Cinnamon Schnapps. I guess it stands to reason no one wants to get stopped by the police with a bunch of empty beer cans in the back seat so out the window they go. Interestingly, I did not see one wine bottle. I am not sure what that says about wine drinkers but thankfully; they are not throwing bottles down the Gorge Road.

I did not know you need to be in shape. I pictured a nice stroll with friends, but Sarah and I got in some places we could hardly get out of. We got in places where only a snake or a bear might live. When I got stuck with a wedgie from a briar branch, I realized neither of us had cell phones or water. Although they had wonderful volunteers driving by with water, you had to be on the road to get it.

So many bottles are tossed over the fence at Dry Falls like coins in a fountain. If only they were pennies! Kathleen Daley from Franklin said she cleaned out the creek in town by the old Sweet Treats. It was full of trash. What made me the maddest was finding signs for people running for office. Judge Cressie Thigpen, Court of Appeals, Judge Dana Vanhook, District Court, Elaine Marshall, U.S. Senate. I do not know if any of them got elected, but anyone running for office needs to make sure their signs do not litter our countryside. I really admire Mayor Patrick Taylor for not putting yard signs all over Highlands.

I use to see prisoners picking up trash, but I am assuming they would rather stay in jail. It is not easy work. I have also seen volunteers cleaning the roads and I have to though the victory was their own.

"It's not that they won, but how they won that makes this team great.

"So, for the time being, my heroes are not grandiose historical figures, celebrities or other totems of vanity. No. My heroes are 'my track kids.' Go Highlands!"

"When I received this it made me realize what a special place we live in and what special young people we have," said Highlands School Head Coach Brett Lamb. "We try as coaches to get our kids to compete at the highest levels and also be humble. I think this exemplifies the compassion and care our athletes have for our fellow competitors, not as rivals but as people. Coach Kean and his High School track team are to be greatly commended. Highlander Pride at is best," he said.

Dr. Chris Baldwin, Macon County Schools Superintendent said, "Great 'Win' in every respect!"

Mother of girl athletes Marjorie Crow said "Often times our students get ridiculed for being too 'nice' and not aggressive enough in athletics. I am so super proud of these amazing athletes for being too 'nice.' A Life lesson for all of us!"

"What an absolutely beautiful and inspiring story!" said Sarah Hibbits, Middle School Math Teacher. "It really shows what great kids we have at Highlands! Way to go!"

$1 and $3; the sanitation minimum charge will likely increase $1.50 to $3.

In all three departments revenues and expenditures are extremely close “but we need a rate adjustment to keep the funds in the black,” said Frye.

“Our electric fund is stable but based on what our Duke liaison is telling us, Duke could levy a coal ash surcharge at the end of the 2016 calendar year. The FERC and the state will decide if it has the right to do that and then we will have to decide if we want to join other municipalities to contest the surcharge,” he said.

There will be a 1% COLA increase for all employees and there is a 50% rate increase projected if the town wants to continue with its current level of health insurance coverage for employees.

Commissioners Brian Stiehler and Eric Pierson were charged with working with town staff to study the health insurance situation.

Capital Projects

Everyone – citizens and department heads – have their “hopeful” capital project for the upcoming budget cycle.

Some projects have been on the back burner for years; others are new to the list.

Street Dept.

On the Street Dept. list there’s paving, repairs and equipment.

Satulah Road is on the list for repaving for $115,000, but so is the Buckhorn Tank Replacement and Design/Engineering for $102,000. Since it is accessed via Satulah, commissioners reasoned that it should be done before the road is repaved because it’s likely the road will get torn up in the process. “We don’t want to throw good money after bad,” said Frye.

“We can just do the design and engineering in 2016-’17 and the rest in 2017-’18 but this has to be done,” he said. “The tank only has three years of life left and we can’t afford to get behind the eight ball with this.” The design/engineering amount wasn’t separated out on Thursday, but it will be less than the estimated budget of $102,000.

Satulah is off the paving list for 2016-’17 but Fifth Street was retained for now at $176,000.

Repairs

Public Service Administrator Lamar Nix annually budgets $50,000 for sidewalk repairs, $18,000 for striping and $30,000 for salt and so far those stay. The Oak Street wall in front of the Playhouse and the one alongside the Fire Department both need to be rebuilt. Since the town is considering major physical changes to the Fire Department, commissioners agreed to delete that wall for now – a $30,000 savings – but at Commissioner Donnie Calloway’s insistence the Playhouse wall will stay.

“It looks dangerous; like it’s about to fall. It looks bad. Let’s get it done,” he said.

The estimated cost is $110,000.

Also in the Street Department budget are funds for a replacement dump truck, a mowing tractor and a skid steer; a total of $265,000.

Ten dumpsters and 20 bear resistant lids have been budgeted annually over the last few years for $30,000. But as Mayor Pat Taylor said, they only way to keep bears out of the dumpsters is if people remember to close the lids.

Utility (water) Projects

This biggest and most important item on this list is the Bleach Treatment Project where equipment and a revamp to switch gas bleach to liquid bleach will be needed at the cost of $580,000.

“This is due to safety issues and the fact that there has been a decrease in the number of gas bleach providers,” said Frye. “It’s something we have to do.”

Moving underground utilities and access boxes away from the back of buildings on Helen’s Barn Avenie was discussed a few months ago at a Town Board meeting. The cost is $88,000 and would mean property owners were lose two parking spaces per unit. Nix said the job could wait until January. No decision was made.

An Automatic Bar Screening Device is needed at the Sewer Plant and will cost $135,000.

The manual screening device is fine but the state is requiring all plants to have an automatic device. The town See BUDGET page 9 had one year ago, but it didn’t last long due to freezing and thawing so the manual operation was better. However, since it’s being mandated by the state Nix has found a supplier in Canada – a place used to freezing and thawing.

Other vehicles were discussed for both the Electric and Police Dept. The replacement vehicle and accessories needed in the Police Dept. is below last year’s, and in many cases will be paid for with grant money.

MIS/GIS

If a grant doesn’t cover the expense to upgrade the Police Dept. servers it would cost $30,000 and the town has about $40,000 on the list for an email and archiver server and a document management system. MIS/GIS Director Matt Shuler also requested a computer support specialist at the pay level of $43,000 plus benefits.

Parks and Recreation

The Civic Center Stage Renovation received $50,000 as is a service pickup truck for $40,000.

See BUDGET page 9
ovation has been cut from the capital project list for a few years but it just might make it this year. The cost is $206,150 and would include a bathroom/locker room and classroom. The space would open up the downstairs for an expanded weight and exercise room.

Frye said it’s mandatory that the Civic Center windows be replaced to the tune of $52,000. Still on the list is renovating the lower level for $202,000 but Rec Park Director Lester Norris said the upstairs stage should be done first.

“If we renovate the downstairs first, then where will we put the 14 classes we now have downstairs? There isn’t a place for them,” he said.

About $51,750 was requested for parks and recreation equipment – floor scrubber, pool vacuum, elliptical bike, replacement tractor K-H Founders Park plaza furniture as well as money for a sidewalk addition in the park.

Altitude Broadband
To accomplish everything intended for the town’s broadband enterprise $443,000 is needed.

“The goal is to complete the wireless deployment around town and to complete fiber downtown,” said Shuler. “We can’t get fiber to each home, so we are pushing to broaden our scope with wireless.”

This is where the extension to the Big Bear Pen Tower comes in. Shuler said it points towards town which is great but he is also looking for an option on Brushy Face to point back the other direction.

He said there is a 10-week lead time for needed fiber and so if allowed to order will work on the “make-ready” until it comes in. He requested permission to hire a Broadband Technician who could help hook people up to wireless. He said he has money in last year’s budget to cover two months of salary and if he knew he could hire someone than the wireless hook up backlog could be addressed.

There are 70 people on the waiting list and only two can be done a day.

The board OK’d the hiring of a Broadband Technician I.

He also suggested revamping the town’s pole attachment agreement — currently it costs companies $10 a pole rather than the $17 per attachment as elsewhere in the country. “Pole space is valuable,” he said.

To expedite the moving of attachers out of compliance, Shuler said the state said a trained town employee could do that instead of waiting for companies to do it themselves. “In other words, we can hire a contractor to put everyone in compliance,” he said.

One Fish, Two Fish, Red Fish, Blew it Fish

Not exactly Dr. Seuss, but the writing on the wall may be easy enough for a child to read – no matter how big water, little fish survive right along with the big fish. Nobody said it better than Dory in Finding Nemo- “Just keep swimming, just keep swimming.”

From Dr. Seuss, to the not so Grimm fairy tale: Have you heard the one about the little fish that could?

Once upon a time, there was a little fish that lived in a small pond. The pond was in a high elevation causing hard winter freezes. Some of the fish chose to leave for warmer waters in the winter. The remaining local fish knew each other, went to fish school and worked with each other, keeping to themselves when they wanted.

Some of the fish made their living by inviting fish from other places to come visit the much loved pond during the summer, and the pond became very popular among fishes of all varieties. Life was good. There were some fish that sold their homes, while some rented their homes to the visiting fish. Life was still good. And then the Internet came; it started with a little splash, and almost beached some fish, but they adapted. Life got better. Local fish swam a little farther in the summer because the visiting fish had to have places to eat, swim and socialize. In fact, they worked very hard to make sure the summer fish would be happy because the local fish wanted the visiting fish to return each year. And they did.

There were different types of visiting fish. Some swam through for the day or weekend, but some liked to say all summer, because they liked the cooler waters. Before the Internet, there was one fish family that took care of most of the summer vacation rental fish. But soon there were others that sold and rented to the visiting fishes. It became a necessity for the fish to buy rental software in order to keep up with all of the comings and goings of the visitor fish, and because ponds all over the nation were being flooded with visiting fish every tourist season, the BIG FISH government passed an act of Congress called the Vacation Rental Act, just to make sure the waters didn’t get muddied. There were good years with clear waters, and there were murky years. Some years so murky that a few fish left the pond for bigger waters, while others stuck it out. There was an Internet ‘new guy’ called VRBO that allowed fish to rent out their own properties online without the aid of the middle man (the little pond fish broker). Not to worry, the little pond fish had listened to one of the other fish “Just keep swimming, just keep swimming”, and they did. VRBO was bought by Homeaway in 2006- just keep swimming. The fish learned that in a bad economy, murky waters very rarely invaded their near perfect pond, but there were a few stagnant years. It was during those stagnant years and due to circumstances completely out of the fish’s control that in 2010, the rental software company they used was bought out by Homeaway Software. The rental software company- Instant Software was the largest rental software on the market. Just keep swimming. Late in the year 2015, another giant fish, Expedia bought out Homeaway, Gulp, Glup, Gulp, Glup. Just keep swimming. In February 2016, all the little fish that had been swimming, swimming were told that Homeaway fish was going to start charging rental fees to the renters coming to stay in the pond for the summer. Just keep swimming. NO. Stop. Some fish stopped swimming – some fish questioned the big fish Expedia (still using the Homeaway name). They asked the BIG FISH, “Why do you charge the renting fish? You already get paid from us – you don’t need renters to pay you.”

They replied, “It’s the cost of doing business.”

business. It takes a lot of money to be a strong presence on the Internet you know.”

But wait, that’s not the end of this fishtail, I mean tale.

If fairy tales DO come true, then surely this could happen. What if the fish that lived in ALL the ponds across this great nation in which we live (Hear the patriotic music yet? Listen...) What if the fish decided they should revert to the old fish school way of thinking? If all the fish would learn to search the way they used to before the BIG FISH took control of the Internet, then ALL the little fish would have an equal opportunity. Expedia and Homeaway Fish aren’t going anywhere, just like AirBNB, and others that will come along, but that doesn’t mean all the fish HAVE to use those services all the time. If you have a chance to go somewhere, consider scrolling down your Internet search to find your accommodations, don’t take the easy way out, because now, we ALL pay.

This little pond called Highlands is such a special, unique place that fish from all over will come here just like they have for well over a hundred years because they want to ‘swim in the cool waters’ that helped make Highlands famous.

The moral of this story? Just keep swimming, not because you have to swim faster to keep from being eaten up by a bigger fish, but because you know you are doing what you do best- SWIM.

• Jeanne and Tucker Chambers, owners of Chambers Realty & Vacation Rentals invite you to come swim with them, whether you want a home to call your own, or if you want to test out the waters by trying out one of their vacation rental homes. 401 N. Women, Gender, Politics & Mother’s Day

By Pastor Gary Hewins
Community Bible Church

Gender is a huge deal today. Politically speaking, culture often wants to group people together by gender. We like categorizing and generalizing people by gender and gender preferences. Some are accused of playing “gender cards” to their own political gain. Vice-presidential running mates are seemingly chosen with a high premium on their gender.

Socially speaking, many are quite settled as to what their gender is and what it shall remain. Conversely, some people are unsettled concerning their long-term gender orientation, so they are making changes. Culture is now trying to decide where people should go to the bathroom. Like I said, gender is a huge deal today.

Though America is the most highly individualistic nation in the world, when convenient, culture still tends to talk to one another as parts of a group with its own ideology, preferences and needs. I guess we could each debate the merits of grouping people in society and attributing to each group an agenda. Sociologists make careers out of such debate.

It is not my desire to have such a debate. However I do realize that men and women are different, physically, emotionally and chemically. Hopefully, we can all agree on this? When someone wants to change genders, chemicals and physical changes are introduced because such a change is necessary.

While our culture is progressively evolving or spiraling downward, depending on how you look at it, one thing is for sure this Mother’s Day week…. Moms can and often do ROCK! Where would you be without your mother? Answer: You wouldn’t be.

Mother’s Day is so sweet for so many and so bitter for many others. Some women desperately want to be moms and can’t be. This is very painful. Some mothers were moms only to lose their child. Some women were mothers and intentionally chose to cease motherhood. After 20 years in ministry I can tell you, these particular women experience deep emotional pain. Some women have poor relationships with their moms. Some moms want a relationship with their kids and it just isn’t there. Mother’s Day is on one hand a great celebration. Mother’s Day on another hand is a day to stay in bed and endure. Mother’s Day is a day to be careful about lumping women together into a common status. Mother’s Day is a day to celebrate and be very sensitive. Let’s honor all women this Sunday with love, honor, respect and sensitivity that we all carry our own individual burdens at times. Let’s celebrate the gift of motherhood while realizing, too, that some “non-Moms” may need a hug as well.

The Bible puts it this way… “Carry each other’s burdens, and in this way you will fulfill the law of Christ” (Gal. 6:2). The Bible is in many ways a love letter to women in culture. The ministry of Christ is a demonstration of a unique approach to women. The Bible is really the only religious text that specifically honors women and their special place in our lives. May you be loving, very sensitive and very biblical this Mother’s Day and everyday!

admit, I was not appreciative enough. I was not like some drivers who actually seemed perturbed because they had to slow down, but I didn’t yell out my window like others, “Thank you for your service.” I will never again take for granted what it takes to keep Highlands beautiful.

After almost four hours, Sarah, Ken and I limped with the other volunteers into Cliffside Recreation Area for a much-appreciated hotdog. On the drive home, we saw trucks and dumpsters loaded with bags of trash and seeing the Gorge Road free of litter made us feel we had made a difference if only for a few days. Sadly, it seems to be a loosing battle and that section will soon be covered in trash again. We wondered if there was any way to stop littering. It is against the law, but very hard to get anyone arrested. Obviously, a law can’t make people respect the environment.

If …when….I go again, I will take water, my cell phone, and some smaller bags along with the big orange ones. Getting myself up a steep embankment is hard enough without hauling a big bag full of trash. I will take Aleve before I go and have the chiropractor’s number on hand. I will not get a manicure the day before or wash my hair or even take a bath. I certainly will not wear my favorite pair of jeans. For a while, my romantic notions of hiking Machu Picchu are on hold.

I’d like to thank all the volunteers for a job well done and the mayor for enlightening me on the trash problem in our town. I did sign up to be on his “special” trash patrol, but nice smile or not, I don’t think I’ll fall for his flattery again.
