Commissioners agree to pay $10,000 to help fight Duke

Starting the next billing cycle, Highlands’ utility customers will see a slight increase in their electric bills as once again Duke moves to recover costs.

The coal ash cleanup and Duke’s efforts to pass that cost on to its customers still looms, but the increase that will show up in Highlands next utility bill and will continue for another 11 months has to do with Duke’s green renewable energy responsibilities.

At the Oct. 20 Town Board meeting, Kevin O’Donnell of Nova Energy Consultants, Inc., – Highlands’ Duke liaison – explained that Duke is required by law to charge and change the rate for its renewable energy portfolio once a year. So the fee will increase from 70 cents to $1.26 a month for residential customers and from $4.60 to $5.80 for commercial customers.

Duke is required to either generate or buy green renew-

Expansion at 200 Main points to need
20 more rooms planned

Long before Old Edwards Hospitality Group purchased the Mountain High Lodge property at 200 Main Street there were plans to someday add more buildings.

So said John Lupoli, of Lupoli Construction and Real Estate, the company that built the original lodge years ago.

Now that day has come.

At the Oct. 24 Planning Board meeting, board members got a first look at the expansion planned for the vacant portions of OEE’s 200 Main 2.84-acre motel complex bordered by Main, 2nd and Oak streets.

The existing facility includes three buildings with a total of 49 motel units. The expansion which is proposed to be erected on the vacant land on the west-

It’s official: Macon County/Highlands is in an ‘Extreme’ drought

When Bridal Veil Falls ceases to be a “waterfall” it usually means Highlands hasn’t gotten rain in a while.

As of October 20, it’s official – Macon, Cherokee and Clay counties – the three far west counties in the state are experiencing Extreme Drought Conditions.

The North Carolina Drought Advisory issued by the Drought Management Advisory Council weekly reflects drought conditions.

Until further notice, the NCDMAC strongly urges the implementation of drought response actions for all water users located in or dependent on water resources from the areas of the state experiencing the following drought conditions:

(D1) Moderate drought conditions
(D2) Severe drought conditions
(D3) Extreme drought conditions
(DO) Impending drought conditions (abnormally dry conditions)

At the Oct. 20 Town Board meeting, Acting Town Manager and Public Service Administrator Lamar Nix said despite the drought and the influx of people the town and the stands and the gala handiwork of the Highlands community, fueled by a return to the old days of hoteliers, Highlands swimmers set 48 personal best times. All 19 swimmers scored at least four points to lift the Hurricanes over the rapids.

Leading the team and winning four races, setting three team records and scoring 28 points was Elias McKim. Chase Kenter won three races, set two team records, and scored 26.5 points. Setting...
I attended the North Carolina League of Municipalities Annual Conference earlier this week in Raleigh. It was a long, yet productive trip.

The NC League of Municipalities is the advocate for over 500 towns and cities concerning legislative issues. It also provides consulting and support services to member municipalities regardless of whether it is little Highlands or mighty Charlotte.

I met a number of mayors and council members from cities and towns across the state. I sat at a table of mayors at the beginning of the conference where the hot topic was downtown parking. I felt right at home.

The consensus of this distinguished group was that everyone wants to park on the main street and nowhere else. Hum, that sounds familiar. Some towns have no meters and no limit on visitor parking on their main streets. Other towns have a two-hour parking limit. Like I said, sounds familiar, not long ago Highlands had a two-hour limit.

Several mayors expressed frustration that store owners and their employees insisted on parking right in front of their stores. One resort community mayor said he couldn’t reason with his business folks that it was in their interest to let visitors, their potential customers, park in front of their stores. Wow!

The other common issue for the mayors around the table was to build, or not to build parking decks. Some residents believe parking decks would easily solve the problem. The mayors all had similar accounts. Folks guaranteed that everyone would use the parking decks in lieu of parking on crowded main streets. The decks would simply pay for themselves through charging parking fees. Many of the mayors had researched the issue and were very skeptical about the proclaimed benefits of parking decks and garages. Like I say, I felt really at home. My take away? Parking is a universal problem entailing difficult solutions.

The conference identified a number of goals for the next legislative session. The League will work with legislators in the hope these concerns can be addressed. Let me highlight just a few.

First, the League supports federal and state legislation to require sales tax be collected on internet purchases from such companies as Amazon and Google. Now I know some folks may not agree, but I side with our local merchants who are required to collect state sales tax. It is simply a matter of fairness for Internet purchases to be on a level playing field with retail sales.

Another League goal will be to seek legislation that allows room occupancy tax revenues to be used to fund municipal service and infrastructure costs in order to support travel and tourism. Currently, the greater part of these tax revenues are earmarked for advertising and marketing for more tourism. Resort communities are pressed to fund support services as the number of tourists increase.

Another goal will be to support legislation that recognizes management of a public utility is best determined by the local government owning it. In recent years, there have been efforts by the state legislature to take away control of utilities like the Asheville water system. The residents in towns that paid the taxes and fees to build the utility should have control of their utilities through elected representatives.

Another goal that was adopted was to seek legislation that provides for municipal elections to be determined by local municipal authority. In the upcoming legislative session, a bill will be introduced to require municipal elections to be held on the even number years of congressional and presidential elections. Granted there are credible arguments on both sides of the issue, but the League believes that local governments should make the decision on when they hold their elections.

Now, I could cover many other issues, but time and space are limited. Nevertheless, thriving towns and cities are critical to our state. About 80% of the jobs in North Carolina are connected to towns and cities. Around 70% of the population live in incorporated communities. I came away from this conference realizing that local elected officials want to work with our state legislators in making sure communities -- our home towns -- prosper.

One last note.

Our fellow citizens on the eastern part of the state suffered a major blow from Hurricane Matthew. At the conference, I heard countless stories of elected officials, first-responders and volunteers doing extraordinary acts of courage and sacrifice in service to their communities. Sometimes, even in disastrous moments, our faith in humanity is affirmed.

Thanks for beautifying our neighborhood!

A huge thank you to our mayor, Pat Taylor, in having the derelict house owned by the town of Highlands removed from Many Road. The only critters who were unhappy were the rodents who lived there. Highlands....and Many Road, look a lot cleaner.

to the plateau, “Right now we are OK.”

“The water treatment plant is producing 500,000 to 600,000 gallons per day even on weekends and even with the required cold water release, we still have positive flow over the Lake Sequoyah dam,” he said.

Drought Classification and Response Actions

D3-Extreme Drought

The NCDMAC urgently advises all water users in the counties that are indicated on the US Drought Monitor Map of North Carolina as suffering from Extreme Drought (D3) conditions to participate in regional and local coordination for the management of water resources.

Reduce socially and economically important water uses to ensure the availability of water for critical needs (e.g. firefighting, health and safety, etc.).

Even though Highlands isn’t facing a shortage of water, Nix suggests people conserve, somewhat.

“I would like to see people to voluntarily stop irrigation. With the temperatures dropping and the changing of the seasons, it is time to do that anyway,” he said.

On October 13, the US Forest Service warned that the danger of fire was increasing in Western NC.

“The persistent drought over the last few months has resulted in dry conditions and “fuels” in the forest will readily burn if ignited. Fire danger is predicted to remain high for the rest of October and into December,” read its warning. “Use caution in any outdoor burning. Even when burn-bans are not in effect, conditions may not be advisable for outdoor fires. The public is discouraged from burning yard waste or building campfires during periods of low humidity or high winds.”

According to Highlands Fire & Rescue Chief Ryan Gearhart, as of Monday, Oct. 24, the USFS has not issued a burning ban.

“However,” said Gearhart, “given the high winds and dry conditions, starting a fire would be dangerous for sure.”

The Highlands Performing Arts Center will present The Bolshoi Ballet, Live via Satellite from Moscow, production of The Golden Age. Music by Dmitri Shostakovich, Choreography by Yuri Grigorovich.

In a seaside town where business and mafia are flourishing, The Golden Age cabaret is the favorite nightly haunt of dancers, bandits and young revelers, where the young fisherman Boris falls in love with Rita, a beautiful dancer, but also the friend of a local gangster.

A satire of Europe during the Roaring ’20s, The Golden Age makes for an original, colorful, and dazzling show with its jazzy score and music hall atmosphere. This ballet that can only be seen at the Bolshoi has everything to it: mad rhythms, vigorous chase scenes, and decadent cabaret numbers.

With its passionate love story featuring beautiful duets between Boris and Rita, the Bolshoi dancers plunge into every stylized step and gesture magnificently. Sunday, October 30 at 1pm.

Tickets available online: highlands-pac.org, at the door or by calling: 828.526.9047 507 Chestnut Street, Highlands NC able energy so it passes the cost to do this onto its customers and Highlands is one of its wholesale customers.

Having no choice in the matter, commissioners voted unanimously to accept O’Donnell’s recommendation.

He also discussed at length his plan to minimize the impact of Duke’s planned rate increase to offset its coal ash cleanup and management strategy costs.

Duke wants its customers to pay for expenses it incurred cleaning up the Feb. 2014 coal ash spill in the Dan River. It also wants its customers to pay for the now mandated Coal Ash Management plan that requires it to close its existing coal ash ponds and to convert from wet ash to dry ash handling.

The NC Legislation passed the Coal Ash Management Act (CAMA) in Sept. 2014 in response to the spill.

Stockholders paid for the spill cleanup but Duke wants to recoup those costs and is hoping the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC) will allow it to do so by changing its wholesale customer contracts.

O’Donnell contends that from January 1, 2012, Duke Energy Carolinas and Duke Energy Business Services failed to properly maintain and inspect the two stormwater pipes underneath the primary coal ash basin at the Dan River Steam Station in Eden, NC. So, on February 2, 2014, one of those pipes failed, resulting in the discharge of approximately 27 million gallons of coal ash wastewater and between 30,000 and 39,000 tons of coal ash into the Dan River.

Duke Energy Progress and Duke Energy Business Services also failed to maintain the riser structures in two of the coal ash basins at the Cape Fear Steam Electric Plant, resulting in the unauthorized discharges of leaking coal ash wastewater into the Cape Fear River, he said.

Additionally, Duke Energy Carolinas and Duke Energy Progress’s coal combustion facilities throughout North Carolina allowed unauthorized discharges of pollutants from coal ash basins via “seeps” into...

adjacent waters of the United States.

“This means that Duke violated the Federal Water Control Act – the Clean Water Act,” he said.

Next, on Dec. 19, 2014, the EPA issued Coal Combustion Residual (CCR) standards that provided minimum national criteria for CCR landfills, CCR surface impoundments, and lateral expansion of coal-fired units.

For O’Donnell the critical question is the costs of CCR standards versus CAMA requirements.

However, using the CCR scenario other utility companies in Georgia, Kentucky, Indiana and Ohio pay a minimum of $94 to a maximum of $700.

O’Donnell contends that CCR standards cost substantially less than CAMA standards and there is no reason why customers in the Carolinas should have to pay CAMA fees rather than fees calculated through CCR, when CAMA was initiated due to Duke’s wrongdoing in the first place.

Meanwhile, Duke wants its money back and it wants its customers – not its stockholders – to pay the bill.

Duke has served notice to NOVA that it intends to seek a change in its contracts at the FERC to allow coal ash recovery.

“I think we should intervene as a group [his seven wholesale clients] in the upcoming Duke accounting filings and its upcoming cost recovery case,” said O’Donnell. “Duke has some responsibility and they need to pick up some of the costs for this. It shouldn’t get a free ride.”

Estimated cost for coal ash cleanup to Highlands alone will be about $1 million and Duke’s plan is to recover the majority of the cost over the next 15 years.

O’Donnell asked the commissioners to join his other six energy wholesalers and set aside $10,000 to retain an attorney to investigate the legal aspect of the case.

The legal counsel would then intervene in the upcoming Duke accounting filing and intervene in the upcoming Duke cost-recovery case.

“Basically, we are buying a legal voice as Duke goes to FERC so we can oppose at least part of what they want,” said O’Donnell.

He contends that his clients could pay the CCR costs which are substantially less than the proposed CAMA costs. “The stockholders should shoulder most of this, not customers,” he said.

The board agreed to set aside the money, but Commissioner John Dotson asked O’Donnell to make sure he gets the best price from the lawyer.

“We want to get the most bang for our buck and use the smallest buck we can,” he said. He said it may be that the lawyer wouldn’t require $70,000.

O’Donnell reminded the board that Duke has to get approval from FERC to change its wholesale contracts to recoup its money.

“This doesn’t mean we are going to fight against everything, but we want to separate the cost between the CAMA fees and the CCR fees,” he said.

Mayor Pat Taylor said it’s like a poker game. “We have to ante up to have a voice.”

Golf is the closest game to the game we call life. You get bad breaks from good shots; you get good breaks from bad shots - but you have to play the ball where it lies – Bobby Jones

In Highlands, we are currently enjoying the beauty of the weather and the changing of the leaves, but we are preparing for winter. Fortunately, Highlands has four distinctive seasons…spring, summer, fall and winter. While Highlands is known for three of its seasons, our few months of winter are often avoided.

Is there still beauty even in the winter months? Can there be a full appreciation of spring, summer and fall if winter is avoided?

Bobby Jones understood this at an early age when he made the above statement but he would live out this belief later in life. On August 18, 1948 one of the greatest golfers, Bobby Jones, played his last round of golf at the age of...
46. He was later diagnosed with Syringomyelia (a crippling disorder that destroys the spinal cord). As a man who achieved success both on and off the golf course, Jones would now be tested in life to “play the ball as it lies” -- his winter was approaching. In my opinion, Jones’ greatness was displayed off the golf course in how he embraced his failing health. No longer able to play golf with his friends, Jones took up fishing. This allowed him to continue in the friendships he had formed over the years. How do we know about his attitude in this season? A story describes this best while Jones was fishing in Homosassa Springs, FL with a friend -- the crippled Jones was being lowered into the boat with the help of others; two men across the inlet were observing.

The first man stated, “They say he was a great athlete.” Second man responded, “I don’t see how!”

With the men being upwind from Jones and their voices carrying across the water, Jones turned his head and responded, “Takes a lot of practice.”

Bobby Jones faced his winter with friends with a positive attitude. Many of his letters encouraging others came from the time period of his failing health. Bobby Jones didn’t see a winter for his life but the beauty that still remained. By playing the “ball as it lies,” Jones had more victories off the golf course than during his record setting amateur golf season.

If you haven’t made a trip to Highlands during the winter, invite a friend and come and enjoy the beauty of a warm fire, endless views through the barren trees, crispness of the morning, ice skating at K-H Founder’s Park, finally finishing the book you started and meeting locals while watching a Highlander basketball game. We will have the hot chocolate ready for you.

In addition, the new buildings will be situated so that parking, entrances and porches all face the middle of the complex rather than the properties to the west. This means privacy will be maximized and noise will be minimized for the residential neighbors.

OEI General Manager Jack Austin said lodging expansions such as that at 200 Main bodies well for Highlands.

“‘This summer we had 90-plus percentage occupancy with a significant waiting list so this expansion points to our needs but to Highlands’ needs, too,’” he said. “‘We wouldn’t do this unless Highlands could support it.’”

He said there have even been concerns about available, affordable rooms for the crowds expected for the upcoming Highlands Food and Wine Festival set.

School board approves merit-based bonus plan

North Carolina leaders voted to approve merit-based bonuses for classified non-certified employees in schools across the state during last year’s budget cycle. Macon County Schools was awarded $59,000 to award classified employees -- those in non-teaching positions and those that don’t require a teaching credential -- bus drivers, custodians, and clerical staff.

Macon County Schools has 233 classified employees. When the state legislature passed the law regarding the bonuses, they left it up to local districts to decide what criteria to use to award the bonuses with only two mandates from the state -- employees must be classified employees and employees must paid with state dollars.

Out of the 233 classified employees in the school system, 142 employees are paid using state dollars. When attendance is required to be eligible for a full bonus, employees who have missed five or more days are still eligible for the bonus, but $50 will be deducted.

The amount of the bonus will be based on years of service.

Position requirements state that employees must be state-funded and be either a bus driver or a full-time, non-certified employee. Macon County Schools also requires that to be eligible, employees must have been an active employee from January 1, 2016 until September 1, 2016. Teachers and instructional personnel paid on the teacher salary schedule are not eligible.

While attendance is required to be eligible for a full bonus, employees who have missed five or more days are still eligible for the bonus, but $50 will be deducted.

The amount of the bonus will be based on years of service.

Performance requirements mandate that employees have at least one year of employment with the school system, have regular attendance, and have received an at-standard evaluation on their most recent evaluation.

for Nov. 10-13. From a business point of view, having to worry about having available rooms in November is a pretty good thing, he said.

“We are basically full every weekend of the year; even in the winter, though the weekdays are slow, the weekends are full. The need is there and I think events like the Highlands Food and Wine Festival point to the potential of ‘off season’ business.”

Austin said happily the “in-season” and “off-season” are beginning to blur.

“What people call the ‘off-season’ is getting briefer and briefer as the shoulder seasons grow. And it’s never off-season on weekends,” he said. “Expansion at 200 Main will make sure there are affordable rooms so people can come to Highlands and enjoy it anytime during the year.”

The project will next be considered by the Zoning Board of Adjustment on Wednesday, Nov. 9, where a Special Use Permit will be requested.

If it is granted, the project in the B3 zone is a go.

“We have a responsibility to get involved and try to make our communities a better place to live”

For 25 years I served my community and my country as an Officer in the U.S. Submarine Force. When I retired, I came home to serve my community as a teacher and football coach. 40 years of service have taught me that accomplishing worthwhile goals requires teamwork, cooperation, and compromise. For four years as your Commissioner I was proud to put this philosophy into action. I met with and listened to citizens like yourself and worked with officials of both political parties, and together we were able to make meaningful improvements in our county in the areas of infrastructure, school construction and technology, economic development, and recreation facilities.

I would welcome the opportunity to serve you again on the Board of Commissioners. Just as I did in my first term, I promise to work hard every day with you and the other Commissioners to make our county a better place to live. But I can’t do it alone – I need your help! Please stand with me for Macon County!

A sacred grief

Pastor Dan Robinson
Highlands Central Baptist Church

There is such a thing as sacred grief. Normally we only think of grief in terms of death. Someone dies and we grieve. But grief can be multiple in its expressions. One of these expressions is separation. A husband and wife can be separated by virtue of sickness, war, business responsibilities and so on. That separation causes a grief. This is what I mean when I talk about sacred grief. The Christian is physically separated from his/her Lord. The church/Bride-Elect is physically separated from her Groom, the Lord Jesus Christ. Because of this, there is a sadness. This is what I mean when I talk about sacred grief.

Some may find it difficult to reconcile the idea of partial fulfillment with the doctrine of the fullness of the Holy Spirit. The two ideas, at first glance, seem incompatible. But, really, not at all.

It was Moses who asked the Lord to “teach him His ways so that he could continue to know Him.” (Exodus 33:13). After seeking and finding God, Moses realized there was still so much more. The fulfillment of partial longing led to a heart pursuit for more. It was Count Zinzendorf, founder of the Moravian Brethren, who said, “I have One Passion. It is He.”

I believe, then, this sacred grief is normal for the Christian. Still, at times, it seems conspicuous by its absence. Topics of conversational interest on a given Sunday morning may range all the way from banal chit-chat to religious slogans. Being awestricken by the Son of God sounds archaic in our techy world. This sort of ecclesiastical waltz has become the weekly norm, and remains almost universally unquestioned. We are wed to routine and don’t seem to know it. We think the Christian faith is primarily about doing rather than about a deepening intimacy with and passion for Him. Living in this sort of “passive dullness obviates my critical need for Him. Still, He is ever faithful. He will not leave this situation unaddressed. The door upon which He was knocking in Revelation 3:20 was the door of the Church! Jesus will not leave His Bride alone. When she drifts, He knocks. When she is lukewarm, wretched, pitiful, poor, blind and naked, He knocks. He counsels, loves, rebukes and disciplines. If we will hear Him and open our heart’s door, He will make Himself at home in us. He will make us at home in Himself. Then and there the longing is so deeply satisfied. Bride and Groom. Holy intimacy. Surprising rapport. The heart made by Him now fully occupied with Him. He has become Everything He has promised. And this continues on right up to our Wedding Day!

I hope you are experiencing this sacred grief. A longing for the lover of your soul. Do this and you won’t be disappointed. With our brother, George Mueller, we say, “in Him I found everything I needed and I desired nothing else.”

Have You Fixed Your Dirt Crawl Space?

There are three things that destroy materials in general and wood in particular: water, heat and ultra violet radiation. Of those, water is by far the most destructive.

- Protect your home from:
  - Mold
  - Bugs
  - Structural Damage
  - Smells & Odors
  - Loss of Storage Space
  - Radon Gas
  - Rising Energy Costs

The earth in your dirt crawl space is the major source of moisture in your home! This moisture is carried up into your house from the natural upward air flow created from rising heat.

Using the theme of partnership with a focus on tourism, Bob Kieltyka, president of the Chamber talked about ways the Chamber is fulfilling its mission of promoting the town’s economic development especially through travel and tourism at the Oct. 18 Rotary meeting.

He discussed the 3% occupancy tax which largely funds travel and tourism efforts. Today, the tax defrays what would be $716 in taxes for every householder and insures that “we don’t have to sacrifice culture or nature” for our town to thrive economically.

Kieltyka cited the concert series: Friday Nights Live, and Saturday Nights on Pine, as well as the newly imagined Highlands Food and Wine Festival (November 7-13) as examples of Chamber driven events that help to fuel travel and tourism to Highlands.

vice to the district. Employees with 30 or more years are eligible for the largest bonus of $1,000. Employees who have served 21-29 years of satisfactory evaluations and are at standard or above on their most recent evaluation will receive a bonus of $750.

Qualifying state-paid employees with 11-20 years of employment will receive $500, and employees with 1-10 years will receive a one-time, merit-based bonus of $250.

School board members expressed concern surrounding the 91 employees who are classified employees, but aren't paid using state dollars. Employees don't have any say in what funding sources they are paid out of, and often times, it is completely at random who is paid using which funds. Because of that, school board members noted they would like to see a way to either provide the bonus to the other employees locally, or petition the state to change that requirement in the law.
