Town agrees to close streets and allow ticketed HF&W Festival in K-H Founders Park

A chink in the wall set up to monitor uses in town parks and on public streets may be a way in for future ticketed events – if all the marks are met.

With very little fanfare or discussion, at last Thursday’s Town Board meeting commissioners gave the Chamber of Commerce permission to host part of the Highlands Food & Wine Festival set for Thursday, Nov. 9 through Sunday, Nov. 12 on town property – in K-H Founders Park and on Main Street.

Tickets are being sold ala carte – $100 for each event except for the two Sip n’ Stroll events which are $50 each.

The Plateau’s Position

Mayor on Duty

Thanks for picking up trash

I frequently reflect on my performance as mayor, especially how I could work to improve town initiatives, or make operations smoother. For example, I gave the wrong start time for the Plateau Pickup in last week’s article. My mistake.

On the other hand, there are events like last Saturday’s Plateau Pickup that gives me a great sense of satisfaction to a point that I think, “it just doesn’t get much better than this.” It is not what I have done that makes me feel so good, it’s what other committed people have accomplished. I’m just happy to be a part of it all.

I want to thank the many people who participated in this year’s pickup, the 70 plus volunteers who bravely went out to clean the Gorge Road, the Dillard Road, NC 28, Hicks Road, Flat Mountain and streets in and around town. Without this strong turn-out the litter sweep would not have been as comprehensive.

I especially want to thank the Highlands Chamber and Jennifer Cunningham for sponsoring this event that directly supports our ongoing effort to make Highlands an attractive place to live, work and visit. Jennifer devotes much time to organizing the pickup and the picnic celebration at Cliffside afterwards. I want to thank two dear friends and supporters of the Chamber in their work and donation of the food for the picnic.

I also appreciate the support of the US Forest Service Rangers. Every year they drive a truck and collect huge loads of trash bags that volunteers fill with litter. It is a great community partnership with the Forest Service employees who share our bewilderment about people who pollute our roadside forests with their trash.

I want to thank Larry Holt of the Highlands Sanitation Department for making sure dumpsters were in place to handle the loads of trash. Larry and Kenneth Norris loaded the trash onto a town garbage truck and took it to the Macon County Transfer Station on Rich Gap Road. Over 3,000 pounds of trash was collected. That figure will be added to the amount that will be collected this Saturday in a county-wide pickup. The final tally will be sent to NC-DOT, the sponsor of this month’s statewide NC Litter Sweep.

The Highlands Police and Macon County Sheriff’s Department assisted in slowing down traffic on the highways. Every year I pray for a safe, injury free pickup. Some folks drive very erratic, fast and aggressive while volunteers are on the roads.

We had great support this year from several groups. Fred Motz, the leader of the Methodist group that has adopted US 64, had a delegation at the pickup. Old Edwards Inn sent an outstanding group of employees to participate, and a group from the Mountain Garden Club did a wonderful job in picking up on Hicks and Flat Mountain Roads. The Highlands School Interact Club did a great job picking up trash at the Cliffside Recreation Area.

So, events like this make me grateful to be mayor of Highlands. The wonderful people of this town make my job a joy.

Let’s keep fighting the litterbugs.

May 24th (Wed); May 25th (Thurs); May 26th (Fri); May 18th (Thurs)

Thank You

I would like to thank all of the volunteers how came out for the Plateau pick up this year. We had a great turn out and were able to pick up all the main corridors into town which amounted to 3,000 pounds! Special thank you to the group that prepared the food for the cookout, Forest Service, Town of Highlands Police Department, Macon County Sheriff Department, and Mayor Pat Taylor. If you were not able to participate in the pick-up but still would like to help we have materials at the visitor center that you can borrow and pick up anytime you wish. Let’s keep the Plateau Picked –up all year round.

with House leadership regarding House Bill 13, which addresses class size funding. The compromise still aims to reduce the average class sizes in early grades in North Carolina, but extends the deadline by two years to give local districts more time to address the issue.

School districts across the state, including Macon County, worry if House Bill 13 -- and now the compromise -- isn't passed by the Senate, districts would have to locate money elsewhere to meet lower class sizes by eliminating art, music and physical education instructors or increasing class sizes in other grades.

House Representative Kevin Corbin, who co-sponsored HB13, is pleased with the potential compromise.

"I commend Senator Jim Davis for his help in moving this bill forward, said Corbin. "This is great news for school systems across the state."

The new version of House Bill 13 was announced by Senate Leader Phil Berger on Monday and pushes back the extensive class-size reductions in Kindergarten through third grade for the next year. Class sizes will still be reduced in the coming year, but not as significantly as originally proposed.

Macon County Superintendent Dr. Chris Baldwin said the compromise won't solve all of the district's financial concerns, but will significantly reduce the burden.

It all starts with the Grand Tasting – Thursday, Nov. 9, at 7 p.m. in the park; Sip n’ Stroll options Friday and Saturday throughout the downtown business district Nov. 10-11 from 11a to 4p; the Truckin’ event at OEI’s Old Creek Circle on Saturday from 11a to 3p as well as the Main Event on Main Street between 4th and 5th streets from 11a to 3p. On Sunday, Nov. 12, it’s the Gospel Brunch at noon at OEI’s Pierson House on South Street. Finally, there are wine dinners at various restaurants in town beginning at 6p each night.

Town Manager Josh Ward and Mayor Pat Taylor say the town hasn’t changed its policies concerning use of public places and streets for private, ticketed events, but if the OK the Highlands Food & Wine Festival got Thursday night is any indication, the event may be setting a precedent for future nonprofit ticketed events on town property and streets.

“We have not changed our policies. The Chamber is sponsoring the Highlands Food & Wine Festival as a means to promote the economy of the entire town. While they do not have a charitable status like many other nonprofits, the Chamber is a nonprofit entity charged with promoting and developing business in Highlands through dues and room occupancy tax income. In addition, part of the proceeds from the festival will be donated to nonprofits in the community,” said Mayor Pat Taylor.

According to last year’s statistics more than 2,000 guests traveled from GA, SC, NC, FL, TX, TN, AL, CO, MN, and KY; all lodgings were sold out; all wine dinners were sold out; people ages 25-75 attended and 50% of those who responded to the question had an annual income of more than $200,000 a year.

Based on last year’s statistics and this year’s potential, Town Manager Josh Ward agreed with the Mayor.

“I see this as being good for the town and for its economy,” he said.

The only other ticketed event that has been allowed in K-H Founders Park was last year’s Low Country ShrimpBoil on June 17 whose proceeds went to completing the park.

Mayor Taylor said the Grand Tasting event set for Friday, Nov. 9 “only lasts for a few hours on Thursday evening and during the fall, it is dark at that time [7 p.m.] and folks tend not to be in the park.”

If it’s a rainy weekend or day, the Main Event will occupy the tented area of the park previously set up for the Thursday night’s Grand Tasting, which will feature nibbles and tastings of wine and beer. Saturday morning, while the tent is still up, there will be a free yoga session from 9-10a which is open to everyone as well as a health and nutrition exhibit after the yoga session.

Park events will require the center portion of the park be closed to parking as well as through traffic and soft barricades will be set up around the tented area to keep people without tickets out.

As a way of saying “thank you” to the town, the Chamber is going to pay $1,200 to get the ice skating rink open during the Veterans Day weekend so people who aren’t participating in the Highlands Food and Wine Festival can still use portions of the park.

Tickets sales open up for the general public May 1 but were open to chamber members last week; as of Thursday, April 20, 355 tickets have been sold.

Live via satellite at PAC the National Theatre of London present ‘Rosenrantz & Guildenstern Are Dead’

The Highlands Performing Arts Center will present Live via Satellite the National Theatre of London’s production of Rosencrantz & Guildenstern Are Dead on Saturday, April 29 at 1 p.m. Daniel Radcliffe (Harry Potter, The Woman in Black), Joshua McGuire (The Hour) and David Haig (Four Weddings and a Funeral, The Witness for the Prosecution) star in Tom Stoppard’s brilliantly funny situation comedy. David Leveaux’s new production marks the 50th anniversary of the play that made a young Tom Stoppard famous. Against the backdrop of Hamlet, two hapless minor characters, Rosencrantz and Guildenstern, take centre stage. As the young double act stumble their way in and out of the action of Shakespeare’s iconic drama, they become increasingly out of their depth as their version of the story unfolds. Tickets are available online: highlandspac.org – at the door or by calling 828-526-9047. Highlands Performing Arts Center, 507 Chestnut Street, Highlands.
Buying a Home? What to Know about Down Payments

(StatePoint) If you’re in the market to buy a home, your down payment is probably top of mind. However, it’s important to understand all your options, particularly if you’ve heard the rule of thumb that you shouldn’t pursue homeownership unless you can put 20 percent down.

“In today’s market, misconceptions about down payments are some of the most common, unfortunately” says Danny Gardner, Freddie Mac vice president of Affordable Lending. “And this discourages many prospective buyers from even leaving the starting gate.”

Gardner points out that a growing number of homebuyers are putting down between five and 10 percent, and even as little as three percent through products like Freddie Mac’s Home Possible Advantage. This is important to keep in mind when determining how much home you can afford.

Prospective homebuyers concerned about down payments should also be aware that there are nearly 2,500 homeownership programs across the country that can help with down payment and closing costs, and an estimated 87 percent of U.S. homes are eligible for one or more of these programs, according to research by DownPayment Resource. The down payment program benefit most frequently found is about $10,000, making researching these options and discussing them with your lender and real estate agent a worthwhile step. To determine your eligibility and learn more about down payment assistance, visit downpaymentresource.com/are-you-eligible.

Of course, homebuyers should not forget that there are benefits to putting more down initially -- this will lower your monthly mortgage payment and reduce the amount you will owe the bank. Additionally, those who put down at least 20 percent don’t have to pay Primary Mortgage Insurance (PMI), an added insurance policy that protects the lender if you are unable to pay your mortgage. However, if putting 20 percent down will deplete all of your savings and leave you with no financial reserves, it’s probably not in your best interest. What’s more, you can cancel your PMI once you’ve built equity of 20 percent in your home.

Don’t assume the dream of homeownership is beyond your reach. Get savvy! There are numerous programs and products available that can help you afford your down payment and beyond.

Durable Décor Upgrades that Add Comfort and Style to Your Home

(StatePoint) Interior upgrades should make a big impact -- adding style and comfort to your home. They should also last a long time, even if you have a busy household, with lots of foot traffic.

To add both form and function to your living spaces, consider the following ideas.

Paint and Decorate

Sometimes going from drab to fab is as simple as a paint job. Even if you’d like to keep your white walls, a fresh coat can make a room feel brighter, cleaner and more comfortable -- however, you may want to consider the addition of an accent wall or textured design for some pop.

Don’t forget your prep work. Sanding and cleaning the walls helps ensure the paint applies nicely and looks great for a long time.

Redo Your Carpeting

Soft carpeting provides luxury and comfort at once. However, homeowners who have children or pets, or whose rooms otherwise see a lot of foot traffic may wonder if there is long-term value in installing soft carpeting? The answer is yes, as these days, there are options that are durable, soft and easy to clean.

Such carpet features permanent built-in stain and soil protection, found in options like SmartStrand Silk Reserve by Mohawk Flooring, help to maintain a carpet’s beauty. Indeed, in an independent walk test, the carpeting endured 60,000 steps -- the equivalent of seven years of foot traffic -- and still remained beautiful. The carpet also comes with Mohawk’s All Pet Protection and Warranty, so pet owners have long-term protection. To learn more, visit MohawkFlooring.com.

Reupholster Furniture

Add beauty to your living spaces with a furniture facelift. New upholstery can add luxury and style to items that look worn out but are actually in great structural shape. Whether you are a DIY-er or you have this task done professionally, opt for scratch-resistant, hair-repelling leathers and fabrics, especially if you have children and pets or just prefer low maintenance furniture.

Give your home a touch of comfort and style with durable floor to ceiling updates.

This makes doing business difficult. Because physical downtown addresses aren’t verifiable or considered real, instead of taking packages to the physical address of a business in town, carriers like UPS and Fed-Ex take packages to the post office as part of their “last mile” contract with it.

“You have to make us real,” said Harry Bears, owner of Southern Way, The Toy Store and Bags on Main. “To function as a proper business legally and to get packages delivered to our door, we need a deliverable address that is recognized.”

At Thursday’s Town Board meeting, US Postal Service representatives Lisa Adams, Brian Roberts, and Phil Zimmerman of the Mid-Carolina District were on hand to hear concerns and try to come up with delivery solutions.

Turns out contracts concerning modes of delivery – rural vs. city – for the 28741 zip code were established at the national level with carriers (unions) decades even a century ago and according to the representatives, “that’s not going to change.”

“It’s all based on how the initial delivery was set up,” said Zimmerman. “You’re not going to see a mailman in a suit walking with a pouch of mail door to door.”

Interestingly, Old Edwards Hospitality Group gets mail delivered to its door daily which adds insult to injury for the other businesses on the same streets, but that address was established in 1888 and has been delivered since that time. However, the “new” guys in town, can’t get mail delivered.

Adams suggested a “centralized delivery system” where a cluster box is set up on each street and would house mail for each address on the street.

“The carrier would have to have a dedicated space to park to safely dismount and take the mail to that cluster box,” she said. “Options are limited for cluster box locations so that is the challenge.”

Besides that, cluster boxes wouldn’t solve the package delivery problem which concerns business owners the most. Most don’t mind going to the post office for mail; they don’t like ordering from vendors who ship via Fed-Ex or UPS who then say their...
If a compromise isn’t made, Macon County will need to hire six new teachers, at a cost of about $350,000 a year, and fund five additional classrooms. With more time to plan, the new deal will address both those issues.

Local districts have been using state funds for decreased class sizes to also fund specialty classes such as art, PE and music. To address not having to cut those classes such as art, PE and music, Senate leaders are paying market value. Even on the Plateau, micro-markets exist as sales are different for different clubs, for different communities and for homes with specific amenities such as a view or lakefront property, for example. Thus, next time you read an article in USA Today or hear on CNN or Fox News that the real estate market is improving or declining, ask your local broker for the real data that is relevant to you.

Who knew that line came from Frank Zappa? I sure didn’t, though I wholeheartedly agree with him. My day is not complete until I read at least a few pages in a book—usually a mystery novel—before turning out the bedside light. Oh, I read the newspaper every day, and like many of you, I read business emails and news all day long, but that’s just not the same as reading a good book.

I’ve been a voracious reader since childhood, and I know how fortunate I am that my parents read aloud to me and took me to the library. I recall the Golden books like The Poky Little Puppy. Do you remember the Dr. Seuss books arriving in the mail? I bet many of you also read The Bobsey Twins or perhaps The Boxcar Children, depending on your age, and graduated to Nancy Drew and The Hardy Boys.

Just writing this brings other childhood books to mind: Big Red, Old Yeller, Black Beauty, Beautiful Joe. I guess we all went through a phase of reading books about animals, but I also recall The Five Little Peppers, Heidi and the Little House on the Prairie books. Many of these are still on my bookshelves.

Perhaps it was my love of reading that led me to major in English. I enjoyed all of my literature courses as an undergrad but treasured my time in the master’s program where I focused on British literature. Diving into Arthurian legend and discovering Mrs. Malaprop transported me to other times and worlds. To this day, I prefer British mysteries to any other.

What fun to read a mystery that imagines the discovery of a missing Shakespearean play or references the friendship of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, Oscar Wilde and Bram Stoker. And if you are thinking, “Gee, get a life,” I also read all the Spenser and Elvis Cole mysteries set in modern day America.

Lately, though, it’s the post WWI era that holds my interest, so the Inspector Rutledge and Maisie Dobbs mysteries are current favorites. While I’m not one to pick up a history book on WWI or any other topic, I do enjoy learning from historical novels. I had only a vague idea of the devastation of WWI and its impact on Great Britain until I read these books. The Death Instinct, a story based on the 1920 bombing of Wall Street, just arrived in the mail, and I can tell from the reviews that it will give me a similar feel for how WWI altered life in America.

Before I move on to New York City, though, I’ll need to finish The Messenger of Athens, a mystery set on a Greek island. I’m enjoying the descriptions of whitewashed cottages and bright blue doors with the Aegean sea in the background. As The Cat in the Hat says, “The more you read, the more things you will know. The more that you learn, the more places you’ll go.” I think he nailed it, don’t you?

507 Chestnut Street
Entrepreneur Networking Night VII was held at the Ugly Dog Pub in Highlands. This marks the first year that BizWeek events have been held in Highlands.

Dr. Steve Morse, Director of Hospitality and Tourism at Western Carolina University spoke on Tuesday night about the importance of the hospitality and tourism industry. Dr. Morse touted Highlands for its innovative thinking and for having the foresight to bring economic development and the tourism industry together.

The week wrapped up on Thursday with the annual BizWeek Banquet held at the Bloomsma Barn in Franklin. Ken Flynt, Associate Dean for the College of Business at Western Carolina University was the guest speaker this year. Flynt graduated magna cum laude from WCU and earned a Master of Economics degree from NC State University. During his 36-year business career, Flynt was a bank entrepreneur, having been CEO or founder of four commercial banks and two mortgage banks. He also served four years as Chief Economic Advisor to Gov. James B. Hunt, Jr. He currently sits on several corporate boards.

Flynt spoke to the improving economy in Western North Carolina and recognized Macon County businesses such as Nantahala Bank and Entegra Bank for helping to pave the way for new businesses to grow in the region.

Flynt helped to recognize the 2017 BizWeek Banquet Honorees. Each year, the Economic Development Commission honors members of the Macon County business community for their contribution to local economy and the business culture.

Meanwhile, without a verifiable deliverable address, the Postal Service has contracted with FedEx and UPS by providing “last mile” delivery of their parcels. Parcels are taken to the post office which notifies box holders that a package has been delivered.

Bears said that’s all and good, but when it’s 20 boxes “you need a truck to get them back to your place of business and if you don’t get them quick enough they are sent back to the sender not FedEx or UPS.”

Google is another problem. Business owners can see their building on the Google Map, but Google Business says they don’t exist – because the address isn’t verifiable.

“For us to be verified as the owners of The Ugly Dog on Google Business, and therefore respond to reviews, we have to prove we exist,” said Thomas Craig of the Ugly Dog Public House. “For proof, Google typically mails you a card with a code. You enter the code and are verified. But the card cannot be sent to a PO Box, only a physical address. Therein lies the problem.”

Adams acknowledged that the problem may be with the post-office’s Address Management System (AMS) which is supposed to match up with the 911 physical addresses.

“We have no connection with Google; our connection is with 911,” she said.

But evidently, the AMS is behind the times when it comes to Highlands.

“If you update your AMS, I would like to be in that,” said Craig. “That would solve 90% of our problem. We would be deliverable [for packages] and verifiable. Then we exist and if we exist we are going to be delivered to. That data base needs to be updated. If we are not included in it we can’t get packages and we aren’t considered real.”

Adams said they will return to Raleigh and try to address the underlying issues many of which would be solved if the postal services AMS matched up with 911.

Mayor Taylor suggested she work with Town Manager Josh Ward and Planning Board Chairman Thomas Craig to address concerns.

“This speaks well of the town that you are here – we have a problem because we have grown. That’s a good thing,” said Craig.

Have faith in God and pray honestly

Pastor Curtis Fussell
First Presbyterian Church

All of us have to deal with limitations. Situations arise when we are limited in what we can do. We may not have enough knowledge. We may not have the skills. We may not have the power. In those times we are desperate for more personal knowledge, skill, power; but we find ourselves limited.

In those situations, it’s natural to reach out desperately to God. It is natural even to beg with God. We might even blow up in bitterness and anger towards God. If such reactions occur, with faith let them run their course. Honesty before God is not a flaw. Even the Psalms teach us to pray honestly with bold and honest words. It is good for the soul to be honest with God.

In desperate times it is good for your soul to reach out to God in honest words. Still, no matter how firmly we plead, we may not get the answer from God that we seek. We may not receive the relief we desire. Yet, in those times God gives us the gift of endurance. God gives us the gift of faith. These gifts arrive because God is with us even when we cannot see God’s presence.

events Friday and Saturday ticket holders are offered a glass of wine at participating retail shops.

Last year, numerous Sip n’ Stroll participants were seen walking the streets of Highlands with their glasses of wine, but this year Highlands Police Chief Bill Harrell said there will be a zero tolerance for those who break Highlands open-container law by leaving participating shops with wine in hand.

At least 700 ticket holders are expected for Saturday’s signature open-air event – The Main Event on Main Street – which will feature edibles like oysters, stews and small plates by local and James Beard Award-winning chefs, wine, craft beer and spirits which will be available from small tents situated along the street. Live music will take place on the Main Stage at one end of the street. Since this will be an open-air event, Chairman of the Chamber Tony Potts said people without tickets can gather nearby or sit on the lawn of the Presbyterian Church to listen to the music.

Chief Harrell said four off-duty police officers will be paid by the Chamber to be on scene from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. and two will control traffic during the Main Event and the Gospel Brunch. Festival staff and volunteers will oversee barricade openings, check IDs and tickets at all locations.

Though the sidewalks along Main between 4th and 5th will be open to pedestrian traffic during the Main Event, the street will be closed to parking and through traffic and barricades will be set up along the perimeter of the street.

Commissioners OK’d the closing of South Street 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Sunday, Nov. 12, to through traffic for the Gospel Brunch but people will be able to turn vehicles around in the office building parking lot at the corner of South and 5th Street.

Leonard Sweet in his book, “Soul Salsa,” tells the story of how one tribe of Native Americans taught their young boys about the essence of the tribe. When a boy turned thirteen years of age, he was led out into the wilderness to spend the night alone. Up to that time in their lives, the young boys had enjoyed the security of their elders. Yet on that night, the boy found himself in the middle of the woods—alone. The boy was dependent on nothing but the good will of the Great Spirit—and his own survival skills.

You can imagine what a terrifying night that was for those young boys. Their minds would magnify every sound in the woods. Every shadow would appear to be a fearful monster.

The boy would have to endure the night. But when the morning came there was a surprise. With the first rays of the morning sun, the boy would see his father just a few feet away, armed with bow and arrow. All through the night his father guarded him with weapons in hand. The essence of the tribe was this: someone was with you in trying times.

This story illustrates the manner in which we experience life in the tribe of God. There are times when we feel alone. There are times when fearful monsters will assail us and we will feel powerless. At such times have faith in God. Stand firm. Pray honestly. You are not alone. God is with you guarding you against destruction. Have hope and have faith in God.
