The Room Tax explained; not everything is equal

- Part Two -

With the upward turn in the economy and sales and occupancy tax proceeds rising substantially year-to-year, and this year the Total Eclipse event that could send all tax proceeds soaring, it’s no wonder there is renewed interest in the free, “no sweat off their brow” Occupancy Tax proceeds.

Occupancy Tax, is a tax all lodging establishments – campgrounds, hotels, motels, bed & breakfasts and vacation rentals must add to their fees. It is collected across the state and even in some municipalities, like Franklin.

In Macon County by law, the 3% its establishments collect is given back to the areas that collected it; in this case Highlands, and Franklin/Nantahala.

During the 2015-16 fiscal year, Macon County collected

Eco-awareness sculpture coming to 200 Main lawn

Old Edwards Hospitality Group will host an eco-art installation on the front lawn of its 200 Main hotel in downtown Highlands. This collaborative, temporary installation by artists Anna Norton and John Melvin called “How Many Trees?” will be constructed of used office paper collected from Old Edwards properties and other local businesses.

The installation will begin the first week of July and end with a natural and symbolic demise beginning with the first significant rainfall following its completion at the end of the month.

The monumental sculpture will celebrate Old Edwards’ initiative to create a smaller environmental footprint through its own recycling/sustainability program, and also create awareness to inspire broader community-based action.

“Because Old Edwards is one of the largest organizations in Highlands, we believe we can — and should — help set standards that continually contribute to the quality our lives here and foster a sustainable community. In 2010, we embarked on substantial efforts to offset our carbon footprint and for those efforts Old Edwards Inn and Spa was awarded the first “NC Green Hospitality Award” issued by the North Carolina Division of Environmental Assistance and Outreach,” said Richard M. Delaney, president and managing director of OEI. “We have since continued those efforts and in 2016 received the highest designation awarded by that organization. Today, we continue to look for ways to reduce our impact on the environment at all Old Edwards businesses, with the leadership of the Old Edwards “Green Team” headed up by Anna Norton and Zach Bowen. So when Anna came to us with the proposal for the “How Many Trees?” installation to help create awareness and inspire others, we jumped on the

Gearing up for the eclipse

We are two months away from darkness coming to Highlands. The Great American Solar Eclipse will move across America on August 21st, beginning in Oregon. The direct, ground zero path is somewhere between Scaly and Sky Valley, but Highlands will very much be in total darkness that afternoon and lasting for 2 minutes and 33 seconds. The town will experience varying levels of darkness that afternoon for about three hours.

Like other communities in the eclipse zone, Highlands has a wonderful committee that has been preparing programs and events for the past year. Ted Wisniewski serves as the committee chair. The committee has representatives from many community organizations.

Last week I was a part of a governmental group that met with the committee. Macon County Emergency Management director Warren Cabe was there, along with town manager Josh Ward, fire chief Ryan Gearhart, and Lt. Mike Jolly of HPD. We all met to discuss issues related to the eclipse weekend where large crowds are expected in Highlands, Macon County and Western Carolina.

The big unknown is how many people will show up. The eclipse committee has estimates of 25,000. One website predicts the area could have as few as 8,000, or as many as 50,000. On a July 4th weekend about 10,000 to 15,000 people are on the plateau, but these folks stay in second homes, or with friends. Hotels are always full.

Emergency responders are concerned about a “day tripper” influx on eclipse day. Highlands has 1,000 public parking spaces and maybe 500 more private spaces. Our small and winding roads provide fragile access to Highlands. One or two accidents could cause gridlock throughout the plateau and beyond. Also, where will folks park, congregate, eat, and go to the bathroom?

Let’s say 15,000 day-visitors descend on Highlands. If there is an average of three people per vehicle, that translates into 5,000 additional cars on the roads to an already high volume. This kind of scenario worries law enforcement and emergency personal, not to mention the mayor and town manager.

Eclipse areas like Franklin, Cashiers, Dillard, Clayton will also experience similar crowds and traffic volumes. A state of emergency would engulf the entire region. The professionals who attended the meeting are working to devise ways to meet potential fire, police and medical emergencies, here and throughout the county, but options may be limited.

Additional state troopers have been requested, and all police, fire and EMT resources will be on duty, but resources will be stretched. For instance, Mission Healthcare operates two medical helicopters for this region. On eclipse day, the helicopters may be on multiple calls so response delays could occur.

The eclipse committee and I will keep providing updates as we approach August 21st. My advice for now would be to “eclipse in place.” That is, if you have a home or property where you can experience the eclipse, celebrate there. Traveling around the area on eclipse day may be problematic.
Blanche Rosalee McCoy Owens

Blanche Rosalee McCoy Owens, 94, of Franklin passed away Friday, June 9, 2017. She was born in Jackson County to the late David Montgomery and Mabel Gregory McCoy.

She was married for 67 years to Euell Cordell “Buck” Owens, of Satolah, GA, who preceeded her in death on January 20, 2009.

$714,286.95 in room occupancy tax. Through April of this year, the county has collected $657,439.99.

The majority of the room occupancy tax collected in Macon County is generated in Highlands. In 2015-'16, $503,627.25 came back to Highlands compared to Franklin’s and Nantahala’s – $165,890.22 came from Franklin and $44,769.70 from Nantahala lodging facilities.

So far in 2017, Highlands has collected $465,929.37 compared to Franklin’s $152,992.53 and Nantahala’s $38,518.09.

The 2017 figures represent part of fiscal year 2016-'17 proceeds. The county’s chambers and their Tourism Development Commissions (TDC) fiscal years are July 1 to June 30. The final count won’t come in until August.

“The $465,929.37 is the total funds distributed to Highlands from Macon County for the period July 2016 through April 2017. The last two months of May and June will not be received until after the start of the new fiscal year in July and August, respectively,” said President of Highlands Chamber of Commerce Bob Kielyka. “However, we are ahead of last year and we project a range for the full year FY 2016-'17 of $560,000 to $570,000 in Highlands Occupancy Tax proceeds.”

North Carolina allows the room occupancy tax to be returned to the areas from which it is collected with the oversight of a TDC or Tourism Development Authority (TDA), as long as the funds are used for the promotion of travel and tourism for that area.

There are three entities responsible for the disbursement of funds for travel and tourism. The Franklin TDA which administers the town of Franklin’s 3% occupancy tax money, separate from but in addition to the county’s 3% occupancy. (The Franklin TDA is not in the scope of this story.) And the Highlands TDC and the Franklin/Nantahala TDC.

In August 2008, the Macon County Board of Commissioners formed the TDCs to oversee the use and distribution of the occupancy tax proceeds. The contracts are updated every five years.

The Franklin/Nantahala TDC deals with occupancy tax monies that come in from lodging facilities in Nantahala, and in the Franklin, Millshoal, Ellijay, Smithbridge, Cartoogechay Cowee and Burnlington townships.

The Highlands TDC deals with money from the Flats, Sugarfork, and Highlands townships.

This all came about because then Commissioner Bob Simpson had issues with the way the chambers were handling occupancy tax proceeds. Both were “acting” TDCs.

In particular, he had issues with the Highlands Chamber of Commerce.

Whether the Highlands Chamber was misusing funds is unclear because the language of the law stipulating that the occupancy funds be used only to “promote travel and tourism” is pretty broad and can be left up to interpretation. Nevertheless, the TDCs were formed and charged to oversee the monies.

As then Commissioner Simpson said, “when there is that much money at stake, people can do crazy things.” And in Highlands’ case, there are hundreds of thousands of dollars in the fund that is growing at an accelerated rate.

The official purpose of the TDCs is to advise the MC Board of Commissioners on travel and tourism within their respective districts and to work with but separately from their respective chambers.

Who makes up their boards is about the same except for the number of members – there are nine board members on the Franklin/Nantahala TDC and seven on the Highlands TDC. The chamber presidents sit on each board but are nonvoting members.

Each includes the county commissioner who lives in...
John Cabell Doggett and Emma Sullivan Doggett. In addition to her parents and husband she was preceded in death by a daughter, Lucia Sullivan Doggett.

A graveside service will be held Friday, June 23, 2017 at 2:00 pm at Highlands Memorial Park with Rev. Harry Lawrence and Rev. Rusty Goldsmith officiating. A reception will follow the service at Cabin Ben, 115 Cullasaja Drive, Highlands, NC.

~ Peter Drucker

I’ll admit that I have a very high tolerance for risk and uncertainty. Clients can sense that about me almost within minutes of meeting me, and those possessing an entrepreneurial fire and/or dream in their bellies pepper me with questions about starting a business in Highlands.

Most have never owned their own business or have been solopreneurs, but have a long-held fantasy of being the captain of their own destiny.

Coupled with their love for Highlands, the prospect of having a business in our idyllic setting can sometimes cloud judgment as to what will work (or won’t) financially, as well as what will fit their strengths and interests over the long term.

Many have asked me to outline exactly what I believe the principles for business success in Highlands to be, as well as point out the pitfalls. Information on launching an enterprise is ubiquitous online, but there are a few pointers that most how-to articles miss:

1) When you leave your job/former community, remember you are taking you with you. Review carefully (and in great detail) why your current job is not fulfilling to you. When you look at the list, what do you see? If the negatives are things like you don’t like a long commute in traffic, or you aren’t able to have your voice/insights/ideas heard in your company, or you crave the ability to give customers an outstanding experience and your current position forces you to minimize interaction, then your transition to the entrepreneurial life in the area of soul satisfaction will go more smoothly.

If, however, you review your list and see things like you’d get so much more work done if you didn’t have to “deal” with customers, or you live for Friday so you can have two days off and not think about work until Monday, or it seems that no one ever works as hard as you and you feel resentful and angry because of it, well, I do believe you will find owning your business to be supremely challenging.

Owning a business magnifies the highs and lows – be very clear on what the lows are for you and know going in if those are things you can mitigate/tolerate/change entirely.

2) If you have market fit, you can make a ton of mistakes and still be successful. The vision/fantasy in your head about the business you want to launch may not necessarily be what the market wants. Understanding precisely what your ideal customer seeks in terms of products, services, and experiences is of highest importance. You may have a gut instinct on a winning idea, and that is terrific! Ensure that you test your assumptions long before you sign a lease or buy inventory. Check in with the people in the community. Interview other business owners, potential customers, service providers, and local business experts. The beauty of taking the time to do this not only helps refine your business idea and inch you closer to market fit, it begins the marketing process for you long before you open your doors.

3) Watch your overhead and remember you are in a seasonal resort community. One of my most savvy investors said to me once, “You make money when you buy the property” (meaning if you buy a property right, you are just about always guaranteed a win when you sell).

Similarly, many mistakes and gaffs are easy to recover from when you have kept your overhead low. If you are basing your monthly expenses on July and August revenue, come January, things may be bleak. Highlands certainly has become much more of a year-round community, but there are still dips in activity during winter months. Create a very lean, super tight budget and stick to it. Bank the extra summer and fall cash for reserves when the community is quiet.

4) Maintain a “build the plane while you fly it” mentality. Even with all the planning and preparation in the world, there are still a number of surprises that come your way. Be prepared to be agile in responding to such surprises and course correct continually. Sometimes success is only a 2 cm adjustment away – look for it.

5) Service, service, service. If making customers wildly happy and delighted with having been taken care of by you is not your first priority, you will have little runway for your young enterprise to hit escape velocity. Make it easy to find you, a joy to do business with you, and consider each client interaction to be one you can make memorable.

I believe the barriers to entry to entrepreneurship are the lowest they have ever been at any time in our history. Costs for establishing an online presence, purchasing equipment, and creating a strong brand identity are a fraction of what they were even just five years ago.

Granted, rent in the Highlands community can be high, but look for creative solutions such as negotiating a lease with sliding rent to give you time to establish a foothold, and/or consider buying a building that offers steady rental income from residential space or other commercial space you are not using.

The excitement and fun of establishing an enterprise in any community carries a joy that makes the heart sing and brain buzz.

When you couple that excitement with the prospect of living and working in Highlands, the combination is potent and intoxicating. That intuitive hit you have that Highlands would be just the place to bring your business baby to life is most likely right on target. Do some homework first and have lots of conversations. Be clear on the kind of life you want to live and design those elements right into your business plan. Keep your customer top of mind and stay in touch with them all year round. I’ll look forward to toasting to your success!

opportunity to make it happen”

Town businesses are invited to participate in the project through donation of used office paper.

Designed by artist John Melvin, the sculpture’s shape is inspired by organic forms, macroscopic and microscopic. Time-lapse videos, which characterize the work of artist Anna Norton, will capture the evolution and interaction of the sculpture within its environment.

An open framework armature of freshly cut pliable branches will support the structure’s skin—seven layers of paper mâché—both of which will be temporarily supported, during the final stages of construction, by 20 to 30 three-foot-diameter balloons. It will be sized to human-scale, and visitors will be able to enter the space, crouching through a low opening due to the non-traditional architecture.

Once completed, this delicate structure of thin paper mâché layers will be translucent. The installation will be situated on the front lawn of 200 Main underneath the partial canopy, allowing dappled light to play upon the surface.

This light will be captured through time-lapse images from sunrise to sunset during the structure’s lifespan, capturing the variety of light and weather conditions that occur. The resulting images will then be made into video vignettes revealing the changes constantly occurring around us all.

Visitors are invited to come experience the construction process as well as the fleeting existence of the completed sculpture, which will last until the weather takes its toll. An updated timeline of the sculpture’s projected completion date will be available online at www.AnnaGNorton.com/HowManyTrees.

Some of the other eco-improvements made by OEI include:

- Establishing a sustainable farm bringing organic and local food to guests.
- Installing Icynene insulation which has reduced energy bills by 50%.
- Replacing all incandescent bulbs with LED bulbs.
- Implementing an optional towel and linen re-use program for guests.
- Participating in the Global Soap Project to help those in need.
- Conducting an Energy Assessment with the help of Waste Reduction Partners.

The public is encouraged to witness the evolution of “The How Many Trees” sculpture and process.

acquired property on Chestnut Street and to the southeast on newly acquired property behind the building adjacent to the existing parking.

It will take $10 million to complete the facility and once the money is secured, construction will begin. The existing PAC building will remain intact so programming can continue simultaneously with construction. According to Architect Paul Schmitt it will likely take 1 ½ years to complete once they break ground.

According to President of the PAC Board Rick Trevathan, the project has already hit the 70% mark.

“A generous anonymous donor pledged to match up to $5 million of the $10 million projected cost, and underwriting is already at 70%, but the PAC board is adamant to only begin construction once the project is 100% funded which includes a 1.5 million endowment.

The 22,200 sq. ft. facility will include a state-of-the-art theater with a fly system, a cat-walk for lighting and sound and seating for 75-100. This intimate theater will be the venue for the Highlands Playhouse movies as well as rehearsal space, a lecture hall, and a venue for smaller live theater productions.

Schmitt said the venues within the facility will be connected to each other and to the existing PAC building so patrons can move freely from one area to another. The connecting lobby space will be available for parties and meetings.

“Basically, this is a dream come true and is something we feel will be the icing on the cake for the performing arts in Highlands. We are thrilled with the input from our resident art groups and the Playhouse which are all excited at the possibilities,” said Trevathan.

The PAC board is confident the additional 30% will come—maybe even this summer.

“We feel that Highlands is a very generous community and we are hoping when the residents of Highlands see what we have planned, generous donors will come forward and we can begin,” Trevathan said.

Annual Patriotic Concert is July 4

First Presbyterian Church of Highlands will present its annual patriotic concert at 8:00pm on Tuesday, July 4. The free concert will last one hour, ensuring plenty of time to watch the town fireworks display. Featured will be the Highlands Men’s Chorus under the direction of Dr. Michael Lancaster. Lancaster serves as Director of Worship/Music at Highlands First Presbyterian Church and also as Conductor of the Asheville Symphony Chorus. The group will be accompanied by Marquita Someliana-Lauer. Also featured will be Larry Black, trumpet and Angie Jenkins, organist. Come dressed as you are. In the event the fireworks display is cancelled due to rain, the concert will still take place. The church is located at the corner of Main and Fifth Streets. Handicapped accessible entrances are located on Church Street and on Fifth Street.

A ‘Once in a Generation’ Exhibition

Once in a generation, there are extraordinary exhibits that capture the mind and spirit and are of such significance that they are remembered forever. The Bascom is proud to present such an exhibit this summer. “The Poetry & Pottery of Dave Drake.” Dave Drake was born into the condition of Slavery about the year 1800, in the Edgefield District of South Carolina. Not only was he trained by Abner Landrum and others at Pottersville on how to make alkaline-glazed stoneware, he learned how to read and write! Dave used these skills, normally forbidden to slaves, to communicate to the free and enslaved world around him his philosophy, his prose and his point of view on love, patriotism, commerce and religion. The pottery and poetry that is Dave’s legacy is a rare and unique window into the life of a mid-nineteenth century African American craftsman, who lived most of his life in bondage. The verses are also referred to as couplets or poems, inscribed by Dave, in his hand, on his soft clay jars, at a time in which it was novel and eventually dangerous to do so. His vessels stand as sentinels to the abuses of privilege and the fettered ability to express ideas no matter the form it takes, artistic or otherwise. Even though we may not completely understand all their meanings, the fact that Dave wrote these verses communicate to us today glimpses of what his life was like which is the powerful story this exhibition will tell.

The Bascom invites you to come and walk among his grand pottery and prose as we will have eight of Dave’s famous poem pots, the most on exhibit in one place since 1998, at The Bascom June 24-September 10, 2017. On loan from private collectors and museums, this is an exhibit not to be missed. While you are on The Bascom campus, be sure and visit the Dave Drake Studio Barn. Named for Dave Drake by an anonymous donor, you will be able to see potters working today utilizing some of the same techniques used by Dave Drake himself. Support for this extraordinary exhibit was provided by Platinum sponsors Jack and Lucy Kuhne and Diamond sponsors Ginger Kennedy and Kevin Naylor, Delta Air Lines and The Chaparral Foundation.

Village Square Art & Craft Show is this weekend in K-H Founders Park

If you are shopping for something special, perhaps something handmade in the mountains, plan to attend the Village Square Art and Craft Show on Saturday and Sunday. The show is open from 10 to 5 both days at beautiful Kelsey-Hutchinson “Founders” Park on Pine St. The Rotary Club of Highlands Mountaintop sponsors the show, and part of the proceeds will benefit the park.

The shows hold high standards, so shoppers will find good quality art and crafts made regionally and by local artisans. They will no doubt be pleased by the large selection of fine art paintings and photography, metalwork, aromatherapy, books and clothes for children, pottery of different styles, unusual jewelry, leather bags, and more.

Live music, featuring singer-songwriter Jim Lord on Saturday and the Mountain High Dulcimer Club on Sunday, will be in the pavilion.

Rotary member Dr. John Baumrucker and other volunteers will be manning a food booth, and Fresser’s Eatery will provide eats and drinks both in the park and in the Village Square.

Even if you aren’t in the market for anything in particular, just come for the music, food and fun. Admission is free, and the show goes on rain or shine.

For information contact show coordinator Cynthia Strain at (828) 787-2021. Check out our Facebook page for updates and more information on our vendors.

See ‘Seldom Scene’ Sat., June 24 at PAC

The Highlands Performing Arts Center presents the ultimate in bluegrass with Seldom Scene on Saturday, June 24 at 8pm. What does it take for a bluegrass band to remain popular for more than four decades? For the Seldom Scene, it’s taken not only talented musicians, a signature sound, and a solid repertoire, but also a sheer sense of fun. Recently the longtime pillars of the bluegrass world debuted a new collection featuring fresh interpretations of the 16 oft-requested tunes. It’s a family reunion in all the best ways.

Over 40 years since they began playing together at weekly jam sessions in Ben Eldridge’s Bethesda, Maryland basement, The Seldom Scene have become one of the single greatest contributors to the progression of bluegrass while setting a new standard and attracting new audiences to the genre. The Seldom Scene have performed at the White House many times, and continue to tour year-round. The Seldom Scene founding members are Ben Eldridge (banjo), Lou Reid (mandolin/vocals), Dudley Connell (guitar/vocals), Ronnie Simpkins (bass/vocals), and Fred Travers (dobro/vocals).

This concert is SOLD OUT, but there is a waiting list, so if you want to come, call 828.526.9047 to get on the waiting list. Tickets are available for all PAC events online: www.highlandspac.org or by calling 828.526.9047. 507 Chestnut Street, Highlands.

Insight into International Politics at CLE

Hot topics in the world of international politics will be discussed at the Center for Life Enrichment. On June 29 and June 30, CLE is offering the opportunity to gain unique understanding regarding two countries currently prominent in today’s news events: Turkey and Russia.

Lectures on these two dates will be presented by Dr. Eren Tasar. On Thursday, June 29 Dr. Tasar will elaborate on Turkey, one of America’s most important allies, with a lecture entitled Islam: Secularism and the Nation State in Turkey. Time: 2:00-4:00. Then, the following Friday, Dr. Tasar will focus on Russia, with a presentation called Russia and the Middle East. Time: 10:00-12:00.

Aside from having a Harvard Ph.D. and an assistant professorship at UNC Chapel Hill, Dr. Tasar is uniquely qualified to discuss Turkey and Russia in that he was born of Turkish parents and has lived in both Uzbekistan and Kyrgyzstan. Dr. Tasar has also authored a book published just this year by Oxford University press entitled Soviet and Muslim: The Institutionalism of Islam in Central Asia.

The country of Turkey is a current events item of keen interest to many people since the attempted military coup in that country in 2016, as well the role it plays in the turbulent Islamic politics of the region.

Of course, no political topic has more relevance than the current situation with Russia. Dr. Tasar will touch upon Russia’s present involvement in the Syrian Conflict, and will examine Russia’s historical role in the politics of the Middle East.

The Center for Life Enrichment is pleased to have Dr. Tasar present to provide information and enlightenment on two subjects that could not be more pertinent or relevant in today’s news and political events. Cost for lectures is $25 for members and $35 for nonmembers, walk-ins are welcome. For more information or to register for these lectures please call 526-8811 or visit www.clehighlands.com the building committee said the PAC Board is firm about wanting the project fully funded before beginning construction.

“We are nervous about starting without having it all. We don’t want debt and we want an endorsement,” she said.

However, with money in the PAC capital fund, she said grading consistent with the project and expanding the parking lot in the back could begin.

“This would ease some of our parking issues right now,” she said.

Schmitt said the reason programming in the current PAC building can continue during constructing is because the bulk of the new project is adjacent to and behind the current building. There is a chance the H-C Players programming could be impacted during the winter but they could use The Playhouse which doesn’t use the venue in the winter.

“If we build the back parking lot in advance, we can shut down the parking to the side of the building for the new construction which means we can start on the required fire wall on the west side of the current PAC building,” he said.

Mary Adair Trumbly, executive director of PAC said she doesn’t know who is more excited her board or her tech staff.

“This is a what you call a dead-hung theater and every show we do we have to pull the chairs up and put the scaffolding up to change the lighting. It’s acoustically near perfect but the lighting is just a bear,” she said. “We will have a cat-walk and a fly system that will be automatic.”

Schmitt said in addition to the venues there will be office spaces upstairs and down as well as balcony seating and the lobby will be large enough to accommodate parties and meetings.

As to what will happen to The Highlands Playhouse building, Mayor Pat Taylor said “It is speculation at this point.”

HCCMF Week 3 highlights

The 36th annual Highlands-Cashiers Chamber Music Festival opens this week with a special presentation at WCU’s Bardo Arts Center in Cullowhee. Sunday, June 25 the festival’s Anna and Hays Mershon Artistic Director William Ransom, and George Brown, Dean of Western’s College of Fine and Performing Arts, will be performing, Enoch Arden: A Melodrama.

Along with the festival’s regular concert series, there are several other special programs, Feasts, and Salons scheduled throughout the season.

On June 30, the Eroica Trio will be on stage at the Highlands Performing Arts Center at 6PM. for the first of the regular concert series. The Eroica Trio, Sara Sant’Ambrogio, Erika Nickrenz, and Sara Parks is familiar faces to music lovers on The Plateau. This sought after trio continuously thrills audiences with their flawless technical virtuosity, boundless enthusiasm, and elegance. They will be playing selections from Bach, Schumann, and Dvorak and are joined by Kate Ransom on violin and Yinzi Kong on viola.

Jazz Master pianist, Gary Motley and his Trio, are featured the same weekend and will be joined by Will Scruggs, a saxophonist, singer, and bandleader based in Atlanta. Motley is a pianist, composer, arranger, and educator and has received numerous awards throughout his career.

As in previous seasons, concerts are held Friday and Sunday in Highlands at the Performing Arts Center on Chestnut Street, then again on Saturday and Monday at the Albert Carlton Cashiers Community Library.

Tickets may be purchased for the entire season and for individual concerts as well as for Feasts, Salons, and specific special events. To learn more please visit them online at hcmusicfestival.org or call their offices at (828) 526-9060.

the district, one member from the chamber board of directors, two owner/operators of lodging facilities – one from an establishment with more than 10 rooms and one from an establishment with less than 10 rooms; one at-large person appointed by the county commission; and in Franklin four people who have a stake in the tourism business – in Highlands that number is two.

They all serve staggered three-year terms. Meetings must be at least quarterly or as frequently as deemed necessary by the TDC boards. Interestingly, the Highlands TDC board meets quarterly; the Franklin/Nantahala TDC, that deals with substantially less money than the Highlands TDC, meets the third Thursday of every month.

The Highlands TDC is currently out of compliance with the county’s TDC regulations regarding the make-up of its board because there are two chamber of commerce board members on the TDC board; only one is allowed.

Currently, the members of the Highlands TDC are: MC Commissioner Jim Tate, who represents the Highlands District; Rick Siegel, previous owner of 4 ½ Street Inn; Tucker Chambers of Chambers Realty & Vacation Rentals; Chris Alley, owner of Colonial Pines Bed & Breakfast; Joe Green of Wolfgang’s Restaurant; Jack Austin Chamber of Commerce Board member and Manager of Old Edwards Inn & Hospitality Group; and builder Bill Futral and Chamber of Commerce Board member and President of the chamber Bob Kielyka who is a non-voting member.

According to documents provided by County Attorney Chester Jones, the TDC is an advisory board to the MC County Commission whose purpose is to promote ...and is to make a recommendation to the county budget officer on the extent of occupancy tax revenues needed.

Each TDC is supposed to have two committees: Marketing that prepares and submits for approval an annual program to advertise and promote travel and tourism; and a Budget and Finance committee that recommends for review and approval the proposed annual budget regarding the use of the occupancy taxes by the TDC.

An annual report is supposed to be presented to the Board of Commissioners and all minutes, books and records can be inspected by the TDC or the public, in accordance with the NC Public Records Act.

Since the job of overseeing and distributing the occupancy funds was becoming big business and overlapping with chamber duties, the county entered into contracts with each chamber of commerce to serve as independent contractors to operate under the guidance of the TDC and to assist the TDCs in promoting travel and tourism. Each chamber receives a monthly amount from the county not to exceed the amount of the occupancy tax collected during the preceding month, less administrative expenses of the county.

Specifically, the Franklin/Nantahala Chamber provides space, staffing and performs office work and maintenance for the visitor information center and works for the TDC to promote travel and tourism.

“The TDC makes all decisions for advertising, promotion, and grant requests. The Franklin Chamber is basically the ‘agency’ that carries out all the work – creating ads, brochures, stories, taking calls for tourism requests and advertising promotion opportunities,” said Franklin/Nantahala Chamber of Commerce Executive Director Linda Harbuck. “I serve as secretary for the TDC but as a non-voting member. I prepare the financial reports and make sure all bills are paid and handled correctly, keep minutes of the meetings, receive grant requests and ad opportunities, and prepare agendas. My staff assists me with preparing ads and articles, bookkeeping and all other duties that are necessary.”

According to Kieltyka, for the fiscal year 2016-'17 that ended June 30, 2017 the chamber received $138,144 – approximately 25% of Highlands Occupancy Tax revenues – to offset Visitor Center operations’ budget expenses. Monthly payments are made to the chamber’s operating account and Visitor Center operating expenses are than paid from the chambers’ operating account.

the Franklin TDC and Highlands is the Highlands Chamber of Commerce recently reorganized and eliminated the Visitor Center Director position in lieu of two new positions. The new positions – the elimination of the Visitor Center Director position and the formation of the two new positions that will be partly funded with occupancy tax proceeds.

The Highlands Chamber of Commerce has informed the Highlands TDC that it will be receiving and dispersing the funds from the occupancy tax proceeds. The Chamber has been notified that the funds will be used to fund the positions that will be partly funded with occupancy tax proceeds.

Kieltyka said the salaries for the new positions haven't been determined yet and the amount of occupancy tax proceeds that may be used to fund the positions will be determined by the percentage of their time dedicated to tourism-related duties. Kieltyka's salary is currently paid equally by Chamber of Commerce funds and occupancy tax proceeds.

“I stipulate that far more of my time is taken up by tourism work than chamber business. Tourism is Highlands' primary economic driver and a core mission of the chamber. So, aside from the chambers themselves who is eligible to receive occupancy tax money?

Each TDC has a grant system set up whereby eligible organizations who can prove they promote travel and tourism to their respective areas, can apply for money to pay for advertising.

In Highlands grants are only accepted for advertising beyond the 50-mile mark because it is presumed that such advertising would bring people to the area.

Kieltyka says the Highlands TDC considers about seven advertising grant requests per year. However, the TDC receives requests after they are vetted by the chamber board so members say they don't know how many requests the chamber initially gets each year. According to members, requests are generally in the $3,000 range.

But Kieltyka says the Highlands TDC sees every advertising grant request that comes through the Chamber.

“The TDC vote is the deciding vote. In the current fiscal year, we have received seven grant requests, which is pretty typical. Some organizations do submit applications annually,” he said. "In an effort to promote this grant program better, the Chamber has dedicated a Chamber Board member who recently established a policy of opening up the application period twice during the year – beginning in January and again in June. The application periods will be advertised locally.”

Some recent examples of grant requests are from the the Highlands Chamber of Commerce, the Lipscomb Performing Arts Center, the Highlands Arts & Craft Show, the Highlands-Cashiers Chamber Music Festival, the Highlands-Cashiers Players (which requested a grant for the first time in 2016), and the Highlands Motoring Festival.

Organizations requesting grants must hit certain marks.

The organization must be a legally recognized Highlands-based non-profit group or sub-committee of the chamber; the impact of the granting of the request on the Highlands economy must be explained; an estimate of the number of expected visitors to the event/project must be provided; who will be receiving and dispersing the funds and more.

And finally, all advertising partnerships are subject to the review of the Highlands Tourism Development Commission.

Mary Adair Trumbly, executive director of the Martin Lipscomb Performing Arts Center (PAC) said she applies for an advertising grant every year.

“However, there are no guarantees and amounts differ yearly,” she said.

Likewise, says Nancy Gould-Aaron, executive director of the Highlands-Cashiers Chamber Music Festival

“We have received a grant from the chamber upon our request and submission for one, however, it is not a guarantee that we will receive one each year. We are required to submit a written request with specific guidelines each year. The amount varies depending on our request and the chamber’s approval - we do not always get the requested amount.”

Cynthia Strain, the promoter of the Village Arts & Craft show said the first grant she got was for $2,400 in advertising in 2013, the year the Macon County Art Assn. became the non-profit sponsor. Another year she got $2,500, and then $1,000 in 2015.

The Highlands Rotary Club has taken over the event and it asked for and received $2,000 to promote this year’s event.

“The $2,000 has gone a long way, and we have been able to advertise in areas that would have been unaffordable without the grant – Asheville, Atlanta, Tennessee, regional magazines, and several internet sites to name a few,” said Strain.

In addition, during the 2016-'17 fiscal year, the Highlands TDC OK’d a grant requested by the Chamber of Commerce in the vicinity of $78,000 to promote the Highlands Food & Wine Festival, according to TDC members.

In hopes of securing another grant to promote the November 2017 Highlands Food & Wine Festival Kieltyka said a report will be presented to chamber of commerce members and to the Highlands TDC.

There were 33M+ media impressions on Highlands, 229,000+ people were reached, there were 17,000+ post engagements, 24,000+ views of videos posted about the event, people ranging in age from 25-75+ attended with average household incomes of $200K+ and guests traveled from GA, SC, NC, FL,TX, TN, AL, LA, CO. Kieltyka said Eleven Events, LLC, the events production company that was contracted in 2016 and again in 2017 to organize, develop and execute the Highlands Food & Wine weekend, was paid for from accumulated chamber reserves – not from occupancy tax money.

Likewise, The Ewart Group that facilitated the strategic planning process which included both the chamber and the...
My wife attended church last Sunday (and yes, I already know it’s a good idea for the Pastor’s wife to go to church!) But more was involved. It was her first time in church since May 21. Upon her second visit to the ER, she was admitted to the hospital for four days. Diagnoses? Pneumonia, bronchitis, UTI and e-coli. Subsequent to her discharge we returned to the hospital every day for the next five days for IV antibiotic infusions. Now she is slowly on the mend. Many of you prayed. Thank you. The Lord is answering.

It so happens that the day I am writing this article, Monday, June 19, coincides with my thirty-fifth wedding anniversary with my first wife, Gwynne. And, again, many of you prayed for her in her illness. She has now been in heaven for fifteen years. To put it most simply: God does heal some. He doesn’t heal all. And everyone will die unless Jesus returns first.

What about you? What if Jesus were to ask you the question: “Can I heal you?” What would your answer be? What would you specify? One of the greatest men in church history asked the Lord to heal him. He did this three times. Each time Jesus denied his request for healing. But with the denial came a promise that the grace of God would be sufficient. The man was Paul and he records his story in 2 Corinthians 12. Our Lord never... no...never... gives us anything which isn’t for our good. In fact, for our very best. Somehow in the perfect mind of God, His grace was better for Paul than healing.

The same is true for us. God will never make a mistake with you. I hope you will pray for healing. I hope you will look to the Lord Jesus as your Healer. Then, I hope you take with you. I hope you pray for healing. I hope you know it’s a good idea for the Pastor’s wife to go to church!

visitor center’s future operations was paid from chamber operating funds with no occupancy tax proceeds used – “even though their work included strategic planning for both organizations,” he said.

So where did all the Highlands occupancy tax money go? Exact allocations were not forthcoming, and it turns out some of it isn’t spent but rather saved.

After Highlands occupancy tax money was used to offset chamber tourism-related functions, salaries and grants, the balance from FY 2015-16 was $340,627.25.

“That money was used for marketing and advertising and items related to marketing and advertising “to promote travel and tourism in the county,” as required by the controlling legislation,” said Kieltyka. “These are expensed directly out of the Visitor Center budget.”

In my many columns, I often referred to my wife, Maddy, as my “Li’l missus.” She was anything but a “Li’l missus.” Maddy, my wife, worked for J. Edger Hoover’s FBI for ten years. We were a true law enforcement family.

Then, during this past winter, I felt like I wanted to take a year off and not write. DONE! I didn’t even have to notify the newspaper because they never asked so I never told them.

Finally, I would like to explain the title of this letter. I worked for the Miami Beach Police Department for twenty-eight years. Most of my career was spent abusing criminals. Back then, being cruel to criminals was accepted behavior by the citizenry. I loved what I did. I simply made it clear to criminals it would be healthier for them to live in another town. Police don’t solve crime; we merely displace it. Parents of raped teenage girls loved me. The policemen I worked with named me “Mad Dog” but never to my face. I retired as chief of the detective division (a Major) and will tell you I loved every minute of it. I truly feel I was born to be a cop. End of story!

Kieltyka also said a sufficient occupancy tax reserve is maintained for carryover into the new fiscal year which also helps cash flow through the winter months when marketing revenues are less.

In addition, in 2015-16 the chamber requested, and the TDC OK’d, a “substantial grant” to rebrand the Visitor Center slogan but the exact figure was not forthcoming. Kieltyka said the new brand ‘Highlands/4118 The Height of Happiness’ is now used in all advertising campaigns.

The occupancy tax allocation for rebranding falls into that gray “promoting travel and tourism” area.

“The steady increase in Highlands share of the Macon County Occupancy Tax is proof positive of the vitality of Highlands growing hospitality industry and the Chamber of Commerce’s success in applying the occupancy tax funds effectively in promoting travel and tourism to Highlands and all of Macon County,” said Kieltyka.

With proceeds increasing yet unspent year-to-year, and municipalities shouldering the burden of the impact to their infrastructure, it’s no wonder towns in North Carolina like Highlands are scrambling for a piece of the pie.
