Hurricane Irma comes to Highlands

Though the projected areas of destruction shifted west and supposedly far away from Highlands, the farther Irma barreled north out of Florida, the more states were affected by high winds and flooding.

That’s because Irma was almost the size of Texas maintaining wind speeds of 185 mph for 37 straight hours. At one point its eye, was wide enough to affect both sides of Florida with peak winds at the same time.

Hence flooding and wind damage in Jacksonville, FL., Hilton Head and Charleston, SC and even here in Macon County.

Initially, the influx of Florida refugees that started arriving in Highlands Thursday night continuing through Sunday was a boon to business.

Mark Gramlich, director of The Mountain Learning & Retreat Center said a number of hurricane refugees were staying at The Mountain.

“We reduced our rates to help people being evacuated,” he said.

Like at OEI which had cancellations Monday through Wednesday, Jeannie Chambers of Chambers Realty and Vacation Rentals said they had some can-

The importance of having reliable, affordable utilities

I'm home on Monday afternoon waiting for Irma to arrive bringing high winds and heavy rain. My primary concern is for the power to remain on, or rather to restore it if it fails.

The recent hurricanes and resulting damage remind me the old Joni Mitchell song lyrics, “That you don't know what you've got till it's gone.” We take for granted basic utilities like water and electricity until they are taken down in a storm.

Please remember our town crews are working as fast and as hard as they can to restore service. They face complicated challenges where one mistake could have tragic consequences. There is the story of a former Highlander who would stand by and watch the power crews working. He constantly asked them when the power would be back on? It was not very helpful and somewhat distracting for the linemen.

Power is essential for a community, and over the last four years I have learned about electric power issues. The town’s Duke Energy wholesale contract ends in 10 years. Looking for a new contract will start in five years. It’s a long, complicated process, and alternatives will be considered.

It is interesting how the power industry is already midst change. The way the town gets power in 10 years may be very different from now. I was reading about some of these changes in a recent industry publication called Power. What struck me was that most people think these new changes will come from solar and wind sources. That may be, but there are rival technologies emerging.

One is the building small, highly efficient natural gas plants all over the world. France, a leader in nuclear power generation, is now converting their last remaining coal plants to natural gas. These new, emerging gas plants are becoming more efficient and constantly improving CO2 emissions. The economics in operating these plants are very good.

There are even new hybrid power plants coming on line. Like a hybrid vehicle, these generating plants charge batteries when gas fired turbines generate power. That stored power is then put on the grid during off-peak periods.

Interesting research is also in the development of fuel cell systems. The fuel cell technology has been around for 150 years and has been used heavily in space programs. Fuel cells use hydrogen to chemically generate electricity. An inventor, Harry T. Roman, wrote about this technology in the current issue of Power. He proposes using natural gas to produce hydrogen which intern would generate about 50 kilowatts to power a vehicle. But wait, Roman says that 50 kw would be much more than needed for a vehicle. He believes cars could be connected to the electric grid when not in use and put power on the electric grid.

Sounds crazy, but Roman has 12 patients to his credit. Maybe some new idea will be a breakthrough in the next decade, just as we are facing a new wholesale power contract.

Blakely Moore received a $500 continuing scholarship from the Highlands Road Runners Club. Club Vice President Morris Williams presented the check to Blakely at Furman University where Blakely competed in the Furman Cross Country Classic 6K race with her Lee University teammates. This was the first meet of the year and Lee University finished in first place among non-Division I teams. Only Furman and Clemson, both Division I teams, finished ahead of the Lady Flames. Since 2000, the Highlands Road Runners Club has presented scholarships to former Highlanders.

cellations from people who had planned to leave Charleston and the Bluffton area but after the hurricane took a more westward turn, they decided to stick it out.

However, as it turned out, Irma’s wide swath ended up causing severe flooding and wind damage in those very areas as well as in Macon County.

Like The Mountain, Chambers is giving a 20% discount to all evacuees who were first running and are now realizing they can’t go back home for a while.

“We still have vacancies and are happy to fill them,” said Chambers. “But we have some of our rental owners using their Highlands homes.”

It’s those folks who were filling their carts at Bryson’s Food Store and Mountain Fresh Grocery as soon as the stores opened Friday morning.

“We are definitely seeing an influx of hurricane evacuees,” said JT Fields of Mountain Fresh Grocery. “It’s a mix of second homeowners and new faces as well. I wouldn’t say it’s a second Labor Day by any means, but volume is up from this weekend last year.”

Sabrina Hawkins of Highlands Lodge said she had an influx of people making reservations from Florida then cancellations from South Carolina when the projection shifted and then calls from those scrambling to get out of town at the last minute.

Then as it turned out folks arrived in Highlands not prepared for a long stay or the unseasonably cool weather over the last week.

Sean Mullarkay, owner of Bear Mountain Outfitters said he “absolutely” had high sales in cold weather clothing since Friday.

Most other clothing retailers have been “crazy busy with people buying clothing of all kinds.”

Then come Monday, Highlands began hunkering down for the onslaught of Irma’s outer bands as it experienced 4-6 inches of rain and winds gusting from 35 to 50 mph.

Sunday night, Warren Cabe, Director of Macon County Emergency Management declared a “state of emergency” for Macon County. Monday morning Mayor Pat Taylor did the same.

“I declared a ‘state of emergency’ on Monday morning around 10 after the Town Manager got a weather update from Warren Cabe. It’s best to make the declaration early so if the town (or county) incurs major damage while under a state of emergency, it qualifies for FEMA funds.”

Monday night Highlands was buffeted by 35 to 50 mph gusts that brought down numerous trees, utility poles, branches and power lines. Roadways were papered with green leafs and littered with twigs and branches of all sizes.

By the wee hours of Tuesday morning, 100% of Highlands was without power.

“The damage is widespread and there is major damage to the power system,” said Highlands Public Service Director Lamar Nix. “Trees are down everywhere; poles are broken.”

Power was restored to the downtown area around 9 Tuesday morning but Mayor Taylor said it could be days before power is restored to other areas in the service area. As of Wednesday, 80% of customers are still without power.

“Telephone poles are down and wires are all tangled up in downed trees and limbs blocking roadways,” he said.

With such extensive damage, the town is seeking help from independent contractors but most are already committed to Texas and Florida. However, Taylor said there is one contractor who has agreed to come to Highlands this week.

Mayor Taylor is asking citizens to be patient.

Those without power and water can go to the Rec Park to sleep and shower. Cots will be provided but people must bring their own bedding. No pets are allowed, nor will food be provided. People can also fill water cans at the Rec Park.

As to debris, Tuesday morning Taylor said Macon County will be setting up a staffed debris site at the lower parking lot of the Highlands Recreation Center on Forman Road beginning Friday.

“Since the county and town are in emergency mode for the next 72 hours. The site will open after this 72-hour period,” he said.

Chris Stahl, director of the Macon County Landfill, recommends securing debris on location for the near term, and then begin doing removal after the 72-hour period. For FEMA reimbursement or insurance claims, photos and documentation of fallen debris should be done.

Taylor said debris hauled from the debris site at the Rec Park will be weighed for verification for FEMA funding.

Monday night and parts of Tuesday NC 106 was closed due to trees and power lines down near Owl Gap Road as was NC 28. The Gorge Road was temporarily closed due to a vehicle accident.

As of Wednesday, arteries into Highlands are open. Wednesday morning Macon County Emergency Services logged the current statistics:

Power Outages in Macon County: Duke – 4,710 (down from 7,042), Haywood EMC – 1,237 (down from 2,294), Highlands – 80% customers without power (down from 100%). It will take 2+ days to restore power town-wide.

Downed Trees and Debris: Numerous downed trees and debris throughout Macon County especially in the Highlands area; 60 reported trees downed and power lines down blocking a road.

Structural/Vehicle Damage: There has been damage to two structures in Franklin and three in Highlands. In Highlands, a tree came down through a residence on Walkingstick Road and one person sustained a leg injury; trees were on a house on Talley Lane; tree on a carport on N. 4th Street; and trees on vehicles at Wingina Place and one on a car on Oak Street.

My husband and I have a vacation to Colorado coming up, and one of my long-time girlfriends is joining us. It all started when Beverly declared she wanted to have a destination birthday party for a milestone birthday. I promised I’d go anywhere she wanted to go regardless of whether the rest of our group could make it. All was fine until she mentioned Durango, CO as a possible site.

I had to tell her the one place I couldn’t go without my husband was Colorado, possibly his favorite vacation spot. That’s when I suggested she pick another destination for her May birthday and then accompany us to Colorado Springs in September on a trip we already had planned. That’s all it took for us to extend our Colorado trip by adding a five-day stay in Southwest Colorado.

We plan to spend three nights in Colorado Springs at a reunion of Vietnam veterans. Since Beverly has never met a stranger and the group is fine with members bringing guests, we’ll all have a grand time. We’ll tour the Air Force Academy, attend a banquet, and take the cog railway up Pikes Peak.

Once that event is over, we’ll head to Mancos, a small town in Mesa Verde Country, to stay in a cottage as our base camp for the next several days. The lakeside cottage promises a garden and mountain views.

The next day we’ll tour Mesa Verde National Park to see the cliff dwellings and mesa-top villages constructed by the Ancestral Puebloan people between 600 – 1300 AD. We’ll end our day with dinner at the Metate Room Restaurant at the Lodge located within the Park, where we’re hoping for a sunset view through the large windows.

For our next adventure, we’ll head to Durango to ride the Durango & Silverton Narrow Gauge Railroad. A vintage steam locomotive will carry our passenger train through the San Juan National Forest along a railway that’s been in operation since 1882. It’s amazing the planning it takes to decide which railroad car to reserve. We chose the San Juan enclosed car complete with narration. After much research, we decided we’d take the bus back down the mountain rather than the train or the jeep tour. Everything we read told us that the return train or the jeep ride deeper into the hills made for an extremely long day, and we all prefer to have some leisure time at our cottage.

Day three, we plan to tour Pagosa Springs; a town known for its hot springs, downtown river walk along the San Juan River, and nearby scenic drives.

The next morning, we’ll drive to the Royal Gorge Bridge and Park, home to one of the world’s highest suspension bridges. We’ll spend a few hours exploring before driving the final leg to the Denver airport to spend the night before catching an early flight home the next day.

We think we’ve come up with a perfect plan. My friend gets to fulfill her wish to ride the Durango & Silverton Railway, and we get to visit parts of Colorado we haven’t seen before. I predict smiles all around.

As all of our teams made their way into another week of games, they continue to show determination and grit.

Middle school teams both played Blue Ridge. They both came out with a defeat over our rivals. Volleyball won in 2 sets and soccer won 4-0. Later in the week soccer played Cherokee and ended it with a 9-0 win.

Middle school volleyball will play their next home game tonight, Thursday, Sept. 14 at 4:30 vs Tallulah Falls.

Middle school soccer’s next home game will not be until Thursday, Sept. 28 vs Swain.

High school volleyball played Swain, Hiwassee Dam, and Cherokee.

JV lost to Swain in 3 sets and varsity lost in 4 sets. On Thursday night both teams fought hard for their first conference game but both coming just slightly short. JV lost in the two sets after coming back for a better second set than the first. The first set was rocky but that didn’t stop them from playing hard in their second set. Varsity played until their 5th set. They kept the game going as long as they could. After digging themselves a hole in the last set they came back and played until the very end, ending the last set at 18-16.

On Saturday, both teams came out with a win over Cherokee. JV won in 2 sets and Varsity won in 3. High school volleyball has no games this week. Their next home game will be Monday, Sept. 18 vs Blue Ridge. JV will start at 5 and varsity will be immediately following. It will be blue and gold night so come decked out to represent Highlands.

High school boys soccer played Andrews and East Henderson this week. The boys traveled to Andrews and made for an enjoyable ride home with a 9-0 win. At the end of the week everyone came out for the Highlander’s “Friday Night Lights.”

We don’t need football to have Friday Night Lights; our soccer team takes its spot. Our boys played East Henderson and lost 2-0. Although they lost, they played well. They never gave up, continued to make plays, work the ball onto their side also, and have a goalie who went after every ball and make many wonderful saves. High school boys soccer will play their next home game on Wednesday, Sept. 20 vs Swain.

Come see all teams play and don’t forget your blue and gold!

Highlands JV Volleyball Team

“Both the JV and Varsity teams played great games against Cherokee this past Saturday, JV won 2-0 and Varsity won 3-0. They were pumped up when they took the court and the JV finally played as a unit! They have struggled with the “family” concept that we really push with them, but after some great learning points this week at practice, they took the idea and ran with it,” said Coach Katy Postell. “I am looking forward to teaching them more each day about the game as they are a very young and inexperienced team, who at times struggle with confidence, but they definitely have the skills and ability to be a top team in the future.”

3 Mini-Makeover Ideas to Refresh a Room

(StatePoint) Looking to bring new energy to a space? Hoping to update that outdated décor? These easy tips can help you revitalize any space in your home with minimal time and effort -- utilizing color, accessories, accents and more.

A New Color Scheme
Looking at the same wall color day after day can be uninspiring. Consider a new color scheme to change the dynamic of your space. Blue hues are shown to create a calming, tranquil effect, making them the perfect choice for a baby’s nursery or spa-like bathroom.

Pastels are also a fun way to stimulate the same soft, calming effect of blue, and their less saturated nature creates a unique twist.

Color is also a great way to explore new looks. Both coastal and farmhouse styles are easy to accomplish through a neutral color palette, giving you plenty of opportunities to incorporate your unique style accents.

Find a Focal Point
When choosing a design aesthetic, many find inspiration from an accessory, like a piece of artwork or textile. However, highly functional objects that feature great design can also serve as your muse. One such example is a ceiling fan. Its elevated, and often central location, can serve as a stylish focal point, while enhancing comfort.

Whether you decide to incorporate a fan that blends into the existing style or opt for a statement piece, the addition can help put a new spin on your room. Consider stylish, yet timeless options, such as the Hepburn from Hunter Fan Company. Its mid-century, modern flair is complemented by light and airy colors, combined with a brass finish.

Accessories and Accents
Revamp a tired space with new and inexpensive accessories. A new duvet cover, vibrant pillows, or a statement floor rug can help to refresh a room without a high price tag. Adding in mixed metal items can add texture to an otherwise boring countertop, while positioning items in groups of threes can create a visually pleasing setup.

Go shopping in your own home. You can also switch things up by using objects from around the house, to make a space new again. Decorating a built-in bookshelf with jars, candles, pottery and those favorite items you just can’t find the right place for, can make your room feel new without having to purchase anything at all.

More design tips and inspiration can be found at hunterfan.com/inspiration.

Updating a room doesn’t need to cost a fortune or take months to complete. Mini-makeovers that focus on smaller details can make all the difference.

3 Beautiful Ways to Add Pops of Color to Your Kitchen

(StatePoint) If your kitchen is bland or boring, it’s time for an update. Consider those home projects that add pops of color and beauty, inspiring you to do your best culinary work.

Here are three beautiful ways to add new hues to any kitchen.

Natural Color

For a verdant, fragrant and useful pop of color, grow an herb garden right in your kitchen. From lavender to basil to chives, you can brighten your kitchen with natural colors, while adding some zest to salads, stews and more.

Evaluate your kitchen for direct sunlight to determine the ideal size and shape of your garden, then get creative. Many people choose to create a hanging wall garden. Others prefer a tiered counter for the floor or pots for the countertop.

Functional Focal Point

Consider creating a focal point in your kitchen in an eye-catching color that adds vitality to the space. One great way to do this is by focusing on the heart of every kitchen -- the range. Experts point out that black finishes in the kitchen have reemerged as a trending design element this year. So if you do choose black, you may prefer to emphasize this selection with a gloss finish, which can add a layer of elegance, drama and sophistication to the kitchen.

Standard colors are offered everywhere, but for something more unexpected, seek out brands that also offer customization in addition to classic choices like gloss black, such as ILVE. Through its Custom Color Program, you can select one of 213 RAL Classic colors for your range or hood. The brand, known for professional quality custom Italian appliances for the home, offers ranges in six standard American sizes, as well as a “city-sized” 24” option. Both single and double oven options are available, as well as dual fuel and all gas connection choices. What’s more, you can further customize the legs and accents of your appliance in various finishes and looks.

Another brand offering brilliant color options such as gloss red and light blue is Verona, which offers appliances that use exclusive cooking technology to minimize fuel and energy consumption, and provide safe and efficient cooking.

Brilliant Backsplash

For a cohesive look, consider the focal point of your kitchen and build out from there with a beautiful backsplash. Backsplashes are stylishly versatile and nearly any kitchen benefits aesthetically from the addition of one. Choices of materials include mosaic glass tiles, marble and metal -- the possibilities are nearly endless -- giving you a lot of flexibility in color and texture.

The kitchen is the center of the home, where families make not only meals, but memories, too. Add beautiful bursts of color to the space to make it a place you love to spend time.
I want to offer some ramblings about love. In this contentious and angry world, and a world filled with tragedy, wars and rumors of wars, and heartaches on every hand, one can easily lose sight of the positive side of things. I speak of an existence where love pervades over all our darkest hours and provides hope and comfort – even in the midst of these unsettling times.

As Americans, we cheerfully still believe and assume in some mystical way that love will conquer all, that good outweighs evil in the just balances of the universe and that at the last hour something glorious will prevent the worst from happening. But as the last several weeks have shown, an abundance of love hasn’t kept hurricanes from coming ashore, angry protests from happening, battle injuries and deaths from occurring, forest fires from burning, tyrants from promising war, widespread violence from happening in our land, families from disintegrating, and a dysfunctional government from faltering.

Is love failing, or are we misapplying it? Is love a pre-emptive strike against evil that may come our way, or a God-given virtue and power to guide throughout all of life, “for better or for worse” as the wedding vow says?

G.K. Chesterton said, “Love means to love that which is unlovable, or it is no virtue at all.” And Cicero said, “We should measure love, not like young love and the ardor of passion, but by its strength and constancy.”

Simply, love is best exemplified in being exercised among the challenges it may face, and in its ability to give to those who we find offensive and contrary to our beliefs and convictions as Christians. I think it worth the space to quote I Corinthians 13. It says, “If I speak with the tongues of men and of angels, but do not have love, I have become a noisy gong or a clanging cymbal. If I have the gift of prophecy, and know all mysteries and all knowledge; and if I have all faith, so as to remove mountains, but do not have love, I am nothing. And if I give all my possessions to feed the poor, and if I surrender my body to be burned, but do not have love, it profits me nothing. Love is patient, love is kind and is not jealous, love does not brag and is not arrogant, does not act unbecomingly; it does not seek its own, is not provoked, does not take into account a wrong suffered, does not rejoice in unrighteousness, but rejoices with the truth; bears all things, believes all things, hopes all things, endures all things. Love never fails…”

It was once said that there is only one kind of love, but there are a thousand imitations. As Christians, we should know that love, for “we have come to know and understand true love.”

have believed the love which God has for us. God is love, and the one who abides in love abides in God, and God abides in him” (1 John 4:16). The love our world needs today can be best supplied by those who know God, and Jesus said that He was the way to the Father. Our pathway to God, to His love, is by faith in Christ. Our love as Christians cannot prevent the world’s problems in large, but it can provide a balm of hope and comfort during our darkest hours. And it is our most powerful witness to our faith in Christ.

As Jesus taught in John 13, the world knows we are His disciples when we love each other and love the world around us. And this love is not cheap, for it will cost us when it is evidenced in the trials of today. All our efforts to help our world and community – spiritually and physically – must start and end with love. “Three things remain, faith, hope and love. But the greatest of these is love” (1 Cor. 13:13).

Love won’t stop the problems in our world today, but it will outlast them all!

Have You Fixed Your Dirt Crawl Space?

There are three things that destroy materials in general and wood in particular: water, heat and ultra violet radiation. Of those, water is by far the most destructive.

- Mold
- Bugs
- Structural Damage
- Smells & Odors
- Loss of Storage Space
- Radon Gas
- Rising Energy Costs

The earth in your dirt crawl space is the major source of moisture in your home! This moisture is carried up into your house from the natural upward air flow created from rising heat.

“Look deep into nature, and then you will understand everything better.”
~ Albert Einstein

When my parents decided to renovate and expand our family home, much thought and care was given as to how to protect a stately Carolina hemlock tree that stood next to the house. They opted to design and build right around it, creating an open-air atrium in the center of the new part of the house.

The hemlock was a continual source of fascination for me during my childhood, and I watched birds and other animals inhabit the tree from the other side of the glass. My parents’ decision to protect that tree was a source of deep pride and reinforced what I already knew about their philosophy of and boundless love for Nature.

Years before they built the tree atrium, my dad created a Japanese garden in the center of his beloved store, the Stone Lantern. There were moss-covered stones that circled the small pond, and bamboo trees that seemingly grew while you stared at them. There were granite Buddhas, stone lanterns, and Japanese water basins supplied with bamboo pipe. It was open to the outside, and you could watch rain fall into the pond, or see snow settle into the leaves on the bamboo and miniature maple trees on cold winter days.

Look for our sign!
Like the atrium-shrine to the tree at our house, the Japanese garden at the Stone Lantern gave me the same feeling of grounded calm and connection to everything and everyone.

Take a moment now and look around the interior of your home. Do you have areas of your home that bring the outside inside, either through expansive windows, outdoor living spaces that flow from the interior, a sunroom or similar space where sunlight bathes the room, or through interior garden spaces? If not, don't despair! There are no shortages of options available to you, regardless of home size and/or design.

You could add a small, vertical garden to one of your wall spaces. Such a living wall allows you to create a Zen space that thrives indoors. There are companies that sell units ready made for easy installation, or you can build your own. Fill the planter with a range of wild succulents for pretty greenery you can enjoy year-round. Or, you could purchase a tower garden and have healthy greens for viewing and consuming! If those options seem too ambitious, you could purchase colorful planters for your windowsill and create a small herb garden for your kitchen. Also, small pocket planters for the wall are ideal locations for air plants – no green thumb required.

The physical and emotional health benefits of immersing ourselves in Nature are well documented, yet sometimes we cannot spend as much time as we would like in the woods (even though they are in our backyards). You can bring your forest bathing indoors and create your own space for meditation. With just a little bit of effort, you can begin enjoying the calming, peaceful presence of bringing the outdoors into your home or workspace. By adding more stillness into everyday living, you'll notice you possess a new ability to see more clearly and feel more centered. Ideas and open channels to your creativity appear.

You also may discover a strengthened and blissful connection to everything and everyone.
