Highlands decreases property taxes

After six special meetings spanning March through June, the Town of Highlands’ $28+ million FY 2019-20 budget has been finalized and accepted. It will be in effect July 1, 2019 through June 30, 2020.

However, at the June 20 Town Board meeting, Town Manager Josh Ward made a rare announcement. Highlands’s current ad valorem tax rate of 16.40 cents per $100 property valuation will decrease for ’19-’20 to 15.65 cents per $100 valuation; with 1.5 cents of that earmarked for recreation.

‘Buddy Holly’ kicks off Playhouse season

The Highlands Playhouse 81st season opened with a bang; Buddy Holly is back with timeless rock music and high-energy movement. The Playhouse guarantees you’ll leave the theater wonderfully wound-up with a headful of Buddy’s biggest hits; it’s just that good.

The Buddy Holly Story is the first of three fabulous musicals offered this season - Oklahoma! and Always, Patsy Cline round out this year’s lineup - creating a feel-good, toe-tapping, heart-warming summer at the Playhouse.

“The Highlands Playhouse has built a reputation on delivering high quality entertainment featuring some of the next generation of American theatre stars,” says Bill Patti, Artistic Director.

“Over the past nine years, our cast members, directors, choreographers, and designers have gone onto careers on Broadway, in National Tours, and at the major regional theatres across the country,” said Patti.

As per Nix’s and Police Chief Bill Harrel’s recommendation, the standards (conditions) of existing roads were used to determine speed limits. Basically, speed limits on roads that don’t meet construction widths to allow for centerline striping will not exceed 15 mph. In other words, those are basically only wide enough for one vehicle to travel safely so speed must be decreased.

It was determined that speed limits on streets that do have center line striping would be decided on an individual basis but they won’t exceed 20 mph.

Chief Harrell and the Public Safety Committee also discussed the speed limits on NC 106 and US 64/NC 28 as they approach the business district because they aren’t consistent.

Currently, NC 106 and US 64 are posted at 35 mph to the First Street intersection. However, Nix said the pedestrian traffic on both these roads has made 35 mph unacceptable due to poor visibility and the lack of sidewalks.

Approaching town, NC 28 (Walhalla Road), Horse Cove Road and US 64 east (Cashiers Road) all have 25 mph speed zones. Nix recommended that the same go for NC 106 and US64/28 (Franklin Road).

According to the new traffic schedule which will be kept at Town Hall in the Code of Ordinances, town-owned streets are... • See SPEED page 14

There are growing challenges as to how we dispose of solid waste and how we recycle. The “we” is at all levels; the world, the nation, the state, the county and yes, the town. It is all interconnected.

The photograph of paint cans next to the dumpsters at the recreation center which were placed there for household garbage illustrate a growing problem. Paint and construction debris should not be mixed with household garbage. There is an entirely different protocol for disposing of paint and environmentally sensitive materials. The Macon County Solid Waste Department can provide instructions. Their number is: (828) 349-2215.

The dumpsters throughout town have become dumping magnets for some, regardless of where they live, what is being dumped and who has paid for the service. The Town Manager and I watch people almost every morning pull up to the dumpster on Oak Street across from Town Hall and toss trash bags from their trunks into the bins. Those dumpsters are rented by businesses on Main Street. What is really outrageous is that not only residents, but employees going to work, contractors and even other business owners who have not paid for the dumpster do it.

It has gotten so bad that someone recently jammed, and I mean forcibly stuffed, a couch into one of the dumpsters along with other construction materials. The dumpster could not be emptied following standard procedures. The sanitation crew had to bring in an excavator to remove the contents.

Last year construction materials, including 2x4s were thrown into a dumpster. When the town worker was using the truck to empty the dumpster, the 2x4 fell out and was stuck at a critical point to where the dumpster disconnected and swung out, hitting and injuring the worker. Fortunately, he was not killed, but loss of work and substantial medical bills amassed.

So, getting back to the paint next to the dumpster; folks from everywhere are coming to these dumpsters and putting almost everything in them. The Town of Highlands pays for the tipping fees and cost of operating these dumpsters at the recreation center. They were supposed to be an alternative service for town residents to dispose of household garbage. They have become problematic. It isn’t and shouldn’t be just a “the town” problem. It is the broader community’s problem.

Another related issue is recycle contamination, even here. Other countries have stopped taking American recycled materials because much of it is contaminated, with things like paint, oils, chemicals and food. Some advocate a single-stream recycle system where a person or mechanical system sorts recycle materials. Those associated costs make recycling a questionable financial proposition. Good recycling starts literally at home. An even bigger issue is finding methods to cutdown on single-use materials.

So, what should “the town” do? First,

Marcia Adella Hook Perkins

Marcia Adella Hook Perkins passed away Saturday, June 22, 2019, at the age of 91 in Highlands, NC where she had lived for almost 40 years. She was able to continue to be in her home with failing health due to the devotion of her son Dennis and two daughters, Angie and Christine as well as several loving caregivers.

Marcia was born on December 22, 1927 to Caroline (Richards) and Edgar Hook on the family farm in Chelsea, VT. She was one of nine children: six brothers and two sisters. She is survived by June Beck of Scaly Mountain, NC and Leslie Hook of Randolph, VT. She was preceded in death by five brothers, Warren, Stanley, Edgar, Clarence, James and one sister Ellen Harington.

Marcia graduated from Chelsea High School in Chelsea, VT as class Valedictorian, and she loved to tell stories about walking to school many miles in all kinds of weather. She was married to Carl Perkins in 1946 and they later divorced. She leaves 10 children, Roger (Kippy) Perkins of Thetford, VT, Gloria (Roland) Potwin of South Royalton, VT, Beverly (Duane) Wheeler of Sharon, VT, Marcia Rogers of South Royalton, VT, Edgar Perkins of Chelsea, VT, Judy Pederson of Claremont, NH, Dennis Perkins of Highlands, NC Angie Manley and her partner Jerry Frady of Franklin, NC, Tim Perkins of East Topsham, VT, Christine Perkins of Highlands, NC; one son, Carl Perkins of Groton, VT preceded her in death. She also had two stepchildren, Anthony Perkins of Sharon and Marilyn McIntier Hosmer of Topsham, VT. In her later years, she met the love of her life, James Wyatt of Franklin, NC and they spent six wonderful years together until his death in 2016. Marica had 32 grandchildren; 42 great grandchildren; 11 great-great grandchildren; several step grandchildren as well as many other family members. A Celebration of Life will be held from 4-6 pm Saturday, June 29, at Highlands Community Building. Drop in to visit or join us for food by bringing a covered dish or dessert. The family will provide finger foods, utensils and drinks.

Donations in her memory may be made to Shortoff Baptist Church, PO Box 1217, Highlands, NC 28741, or the Eckerd Living Center, “The Bingo Gang,” 250 Hospital Dr, Highlands, N. C. 28741

On becoming a star: Part 1

Once upon a time, before I gave any thought to writing a book, I spent my days by Mum's side . . . well, mostly at her feet. Whether she was on a conference call for her corporate job or quietly working on her newspaper columns — yes, Mum's a writer, too — I could be found snoozing beneath her desk.

I might take a walk with Dad, but when we got home, I'd wander upstairs, get a treat from Mum, and settle beneath the desk to snooze — until, that is, Dad mentioned lunch. I managed to join him in the kitchen for a bite of ham while he fixed his sandwich, and then it was back to Mum.

Writing a book meant I spent more time awake at her feet, dictating my story while she typed. By then, Mum had retired from her full-time job and could devote her every waking hour to typing my book and writing her columns. After we put in a good chunk of work time, I'd accompany Mum downstairs where she'd fix dinner while Dad and I watched the news.

It's hard to say how we established our daily routine, but I've always stuck to Dad in the evenings. I lie beside his recliner with his hand all but glued to my belly. If his hand leaves my side, I give him a tap with the royal paw, the signal for him to put his hand back where it belongs.

I may now be known as the Royal Pooch, but our weekday routine has remained pretty much the same, until, that is, I finished my book “Lord Banjo the Royal Pooch.”

I thought it was great fun to bark my story as Mum typed and had no idea that writing about my privileged life was only the beginning. They — whoever they are — say we dogs live in the moment, and I guess that's what I did because I never gave much thought to what would happen after my book came out.

First came the new wardrobe. In preparation for my debut as an author, Mum enlisted Miss Beth as the Royal Seamstress to make a robe and crown. Those two laughed and laughed over Mum’s sewing skills or lack thereof. It was Miss Beth who put in Mum's zippers way back when they were in high school Home Ec class. Mum learned to cook but never took to sewing.

No worries; we spent the day with the Royal Seamstress as she designed and produced a magnificent robe — purple velvet lined with lavender satin, topped off with a white fur collar and gold clasp. How was I to know the robe was only the beginning? Read the rest of the story in next week’s column.

PS. To see me in full royal regalia, visit the local author booth at the Village Arts & Crafts Festival June 29-30. You can even get an autographed copy of my book.

Lord Banjo lives in Georgia with his Mum, Kathy Manos Penn. Find similar stories in his book, “Lord Banjo the Royal Pooch,” available at Mountain Paws in Highlands, Books Unlimited in Franklin, and on Amazon. Contact him at inkpenn119@gmail.com.

How to Price Real Estate

The most important factor in selling real estate is setting the correct price. If it isn’t priced correctly, it isn’t going to sell. There are three primary methods used in valuing real estate.

The Cost Approach estimates value using the reproduction or replacement cost of the building, less depreciation, and adding that to the value of the land. This is rarely used for residential real estate sales. The Income Capitalization method is based on the present worth of future rights to income. This is primarily used on income producing properties like retail space, commercial buildings and apartment complexes.

The method primarily used in residential real estate and land is the Sales Comparison approach. It is a comparison of the prices of recently sold property to a seller’s property in terms of location, style, and amenities. Adjustments are made for different factors that differentiate the subject property from those used as comparables. These are factors like the acreage; number of bedrooms and baths; car storage; condition of the property; and the level of finishes inside.

Here in the mountains, adjustments are made on the view or a location on water. Appraisers use this method, and if prepared by a broker, it is referred to as a CMA (Comparative Market Analysis) or a Broker Price Opinion. When picking properties to use, the sales must be recently sold under normal market conditions in a competitive market. In this case bank-owned or foreclosed property cannot be used.

A CMA or Broker Price Opinion is much more than just what the broker “thinks” a property may sell for. Sellers should request to see the CMA and look at the properties used, the adjustments and discuss the final price recommendation.

This past week our firm represented a couple selling with a new listing that went on the market on Wednesday. It was shown multiple times by different brokers and received two offers late Friday. After they accepted and signed one of the offers, the husband asked if they sold too cheap. As it turns out, the recommended listing price was higher than they had originally expected. The listing agent had done her job and performed a CMA, to determine what the likely sales price would be and the seller’s accepted the recommendation. In this case it was a property in very good condition, a good location and priced correctly – SOLD!

Depreciation, both physical and functional must also be taken into consideration. Each of these can be either curable or incurable. Physical depreciation that is curable could be a roof that has leaked for years and requires extensive repairs inside and out, then the building can be used again. Incurable would be where so much of the structure has deteriorated that it must be torn down. Functional obsolescence is a loss of value to a real estate improvement from functional problems, often caused by age or poor design. An example of functional obsolescence would

Fact versus Opinion, Again

The late, erudite Senator from New York State, Daniel Patrick Moynihan, famously reminded a speaker before a Senate committee, “You, sir, are absolutely entitled to your own opinion. You are not, however, entitled to your own facts.”

I’ve shared this before but – in my opinion – it bears repeating.

Webster defines as fact, “a thing that is known or proven to be true.” Ergo, fact = true. He identifies as opinion, “a view or judgment formed about something, not necessarily based on fact or knowledge.” Ergo, opinion = belief. The italics are mine.

What’s worrisome is, many of us confuse fact and opinion either accidentally or because we choose to.

We may recall one of President Trump’s advisors, Kellyanne Conway, during a news interview, saying that then-administration press secretary Sean Spicer offered “alternative facts” when discussing the size of the crowd attending the 2017 inauguration. The advisor was incorrect. What Mr. Spicer said, when comparing the size of the crowd to that of President Barack Obama’s inauguration, was demonstrably false.

Now, were his and her statements lies? No, not necessarily, but they were mistakes and, in the opinion of some, intentional misstatements.

That Webster guy defines a lie as, "something stated with intent to deceive.” I believe almost all of us at some time or other make an untrue statement. But do we always intend to deceive? Probably Not. That “probably not” comment is my opinion, but it could also be a fact.

This may surprise you but the term “alternative facts” employed by Kellyanne Conway is – in fact – a real thing.

We hear alternative facts all the time on newscasts, regardless of the media outlet. And, contrary to whatever we tell ourselves regarding what we see, hear and read, we should never assume that “the news” in most media, is the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth. Heck, that doesn’t even apply in court, and in court people swear to it under oath.

Say, for example, a weather reporter uses a meteorological forecast to validate the statement that, “twenty million people are in the path of this storm system.” Is the reporter stating a fact, or is he/she offering an opinion? I think it’s fair to say the reporter is offering an “educated opinion.” That said, is the report, at its essence, factual? It probably is, because if the forecast is accurate, then approximately that number of people may be – in fact – in the path of the storm.

In case you’re still awake, and in case your head hasn’t yet exploded, let me remind you that this fact versus opinion stuff gets complicated, and is therefore open to confirmation, repudiation, and skepticism. Mostly, it’s open to interpretation and, by extension, research, for validation.

I promise, I’m not trying to confuse or confound you. I’m attempting to illuminate the problem with accepting as fact something that is offered, either as an opinion, or is unsupported by anything confirming it as fact.

People who spend time in religious observance often take as the gospel truth, if you will, things unsupported by facts. That’s why it’s called faith. And we should never underestimate how powerful an opinion can be in the mind of someone who desperately wants to believe something.

People watch television and often have difficulty discerning a difference between actor and character, story and reality, or, for that matter, the newscaster and the news. So much of what is shared with us as news on any given day is some salad of actual fact, biased opinion, speculative supposition, along with pinches of balderdash, flapdoodle, and outright nonsense. It’s all designed to influence thought or behavior, or to help sell some product or service.

These days, it’s all referred to as content, and so much of the content we receive is provided without regard for its truth or validity. To advertise, email highlandseditor@aol.com

The Highlands Performing Arts Center will present “Broadway’s Next Hit Musical” on Saturday at 8pm. Every song is fresh. Every scene is new. Every night is different. It’s all improvised and it’s all funny. Master improvisers gather hit song title suggestions from the audience and create a spontaneous evening of music, humor, and laughter. The audience votes for its favorite song and watches as the cast turns it into a full-blown improvised musical - complete with memorable characters, witty dialogue, and plot twists galore. A limited number of tickets are still available: on line: www.highlandspace.org or by calling 828.526.9047. Highlands Performing Arts Center, 507 Chestnut Street.

Register now for ‘Little Highlanders Basketball Camp’

Little Highlanders Basketball Camp will be held July 8th-11th 9:30a-12:30p at the Recreation Department for ages 7-15.

The camp will be run by Coach Brett Lamb and the boys Basketball team. It’s $50. Sign up forms are at the Rec Park.

now 15 – 20 mph. Signage will be erected on all the streets. However, the town has to ask NC DOT to change and post limits on NC 106 and US 64.

In addition to speed limit adjustments, changes were made to the parking map concerning 15-minute parking spaces.

Four 15-minute spaces were removed from the parking schedule: the one by OEI at 4th and Main streets, the one by Sweetreats at 4th and Main streets, the one by Molly Grace on 4th Street and the one by Smitten on Main Street.

To be added are two 15-minute spaces at the Presbyterian Church on 5th Street, two 15-minute spaces by the Masonic Lodge on 3rd Street and one 15-minute spot in front of Sweetreats on Main Street.

Commissioners also asked the Public Works Committee to look at finalizing decisions concerning the elimination of dumpsters in rights-of-way – primarily Oak Street.

They said too many people are using the dumpsters illegally or putting construction debris in them instead of just “household” garbage.

Dubbed “Sanitation Pickup Revisions and Implementation of BearWise Protocols,” the mayor has asked the Public Works Committee to consider creating ordinances to deal with sanitation pickup – perhaps to require homeowners to have bear-resistant toters with a bar.

“Injuries to backs, shoulders and arms are adding up and all our trucks have the ability to flip in toters with the bars,” he said. “At some point we need to address this.”

Other ordinance additions would be in conjunction with BearWise initiatives concerning garbage and even bird feeders.

The scary part for me, and it should be scary for you as well, is that many of us make a choice to not fact-check what elected officials, news reporters, or advertisers communicate. We either accept it, if it conforms to our worldview, or dismiss it if it doesn’t.

Senator Moynihan was correct. Everyone is entitled to his or her own opinion but no one has the right to his or her own facts, just because we choose to believe something. And we shouldn’t share possible misinformation with others until we first confirm it for ourselves.

get rid of multiple-use dumpsters wherever possible. Businesses will need to use bear-resistant toters which will be provided, thereby taking ownership of only waste they generate. Residents and businesses need to implement sound disposal practices, not just dumping construction materials and liquids anywhere they think is convenient to them, and that no one will notice.

Finally, the town needs to find a site for a recycling and convenience center and partner with the county in its construction and operation. Finding a site will be the challenge. How long will the dumpster service continue at the recreation department is another question. Those paint cans do not paint and optimistic picture.

Carl Roerig Hartrampf Jr. MD

Carl Roerig Hartrampf, Jr., (86) a sixth generation native of Atlanta and resident of Atlanta, GA and Scaly Mountain, NC, died Thursday, June 20th, at home with his family by his side.

A pioneer in reconstructive surgery, Dr. Hartrampf became world renowned for his advancements in using autogenous tissue for reconstruction after mastectomy, known as the TRAM flap. His numerous awards include the American Cancer Society Distinguished Service Award for originating the TRAM flap.

Graduated in 1956 from the Medical College of Georgia with a Doctor of Medicine, he trained in general surgery at UNC Chapel Hill followed by plastic surgery training at Washington University (Barnes Hospital), St. Louis.

The Hartrampf Research fund is endowed at UNC-Chapel Hill to perpetuate innovation in surgical procedures, a passion of Carl’s.

He and his wife Pat loved being at their farm, Winfield, in Scaly Mountain, NC where they raised chickens, kept bees and tended to their flower garden all while playing with their eight grandchildren. They also had extensive collections of primitive tools, furniture, maps and books which they shared with UGA’s Haggett Rare Books Library, the Atlanta History Center and The Bascom Museum.

A beloved father and friend, he was a teacher, mentor, storyteller and gracious host; he will be missed by all.

Carl is survived by his wife Pat, Children: Valli Hartrampf Carter (David) of California, Carl Hartrampf III (Avery) of Atlanta and Havalyn Hartrampf Hensley (Joe) of Atlanta and brother, John A. Hartrampf.

Eight grandchildren: Havalyn Logan (Lilli) Arader Merritt (Alex), Anna Avery Hartrampf Young (Wes), Josephine Michelle Arader Delille (Nikki), Walter Graham Arader IV, Carl Roerig Hartrampf IV (Nikki), Patricia Taylor Hensley, Augusta Caroline Arader, Ralph Elliott Twiggs Hensley (Anna) and four great grandchildren: Elise, Elliott, Michelle, Bernadette and numerous cousins, nieces and nephews.

In lieu of flowers, we invite you to make contributions to The Hartrampf Research Fund.

http://uncmedicine.org/hartrampfmemorial. Visitation will be at Patterson and Sons Spring Hill, Atlanta, GA July 14, 2-5pm.

America. We are bringing talent to Highlands that would cost double or triple to see at ‘major’ theatres across the country.”

Managing Director Lance Matzke, in reference to The Buddy Holly Story, said, “Buddy Holly casts a long shadow in the pantheon of Rock-n-Roll. Along with Chuck Berry, Buddy was creating the blueprint for guitar-driven rock music before the Beatles and The Stones. I mean, look at young Elvis Costello! He was Buddy to a T.”

Hurry and reserve your tickets. This performance will sell-out quickly, so don’t miss a beat.

Walking a tightrope: Tolerance without compromise

Someone coined a phrase that has much meaning, more today than ever before: “Tolerance without compromise.” To be tolerant of others, it is not necessary to accept their beliefs or to live like they live. In fact, one may be tolerant of another person and still vigorously oppose everything pertaining to him -- and yet grant him his right to be what he is.

Tolerance does not mean that we must think or act with the majority, or that we must compromise our own convictions. Tolerance may simply mean that we are aware that no two people think or believe exactly alike, and that all of us have a right to think and believe and live as we choose, if we can do so without interfering with these same rights where others are concerned. Not easy. Even when a person opposes prevailing opinion, tolerance would respect his right to do so, so long as he is respectful and doesn’t wrongly interfere with others’ freedom. This is as prevalent in world affairs as it is in religious beliefs and prejudice.

In a wonderful book written by Barbara Brown Taylor, “Holy Envy, Finding God in the Faith of Others,” she, during her 20 years teaching Religion 101 at Piedmont College and her previous position as an Episcopalian Priest in Clarkesville, GA, relates that her own faith was deepened as a Christian by studying and meeting with leaders of other major faiths to learn their vision of God from their perspective and viewing this without the prejudice of “my faith is the only faith” which many in all faiths find hard to if ever, the tax rate went down even when a “revenue neutral” stance has been taken by the county or the town.

After a general reappraisal of real property is conducted, the NC General Statute 159-11(e) requires government units to publish with the budget a statement of the revenue neutral rate. The revenue neutral property tax rate is the rate that is estimated to produce revenue for the next fiscal year equal to the revenue that would have been produced by the current tax rate if no reappraisal had occurred.

But Highlands went a step further, “because we could,” said Ward.

The county’s recent reappraisal put Highlands property values at $1.835 billion up $84.283 million from the last reappraisal and last year’s property valuation of $1.751 billion.

To determine the revenue neutral tax rate, a “growth factor,” which is due to improvements since the last general reappraisal, is used to calculate the tax rate based upon the average increase in the tax base.

Since the Town of Highlands average growth rate is calculated at .04%, the revenue neutral tax rate is 15.65 cents per $100 valuation, said Ward.

“We have the money we need, so we can do this,” said Ward.

Commissioners and Mayor Pat Taylor commended Ward and Finance Director Rebecca Shuler for a job well done.

“I want to commend them for their diligence in doing this budget especially for going back and researching to pinpoint the precise formula for the revenue neutral determination. I’m not sure we have been doing that in the past, but I am really gratified that they did it,” said Taylor.

Commissioner John Dotson seconded the mayor’s comments.

“They did yeoman’s work in getting this revenue neutral figure down to what it is. I know in the past we have worked on what we considered to be balanced budget terminology and to my knowledge we have not taken into account reappraisals in our budget and I think being able to do this is above and beyond,” said Dotson.

Water/Sewer Rates

To provide the revenue needed to balance the water department operational budget over the next several years, the finance committee suggested an increase in water/sewer rates.

Effective July 1, 2019, the base rate inside the town limits will increase by $1 from $35 to $36 but to offset this, what is considered “base usage” will increase from 2,500 gallons to 5,000 gallons.

The rates outside town will remain double the town limits rate, and as is the norm, sewer rates will remain 100% of the intown water rates.
