Town tweaking FY '19-20' budget; considering fire tax increase

The Town of Highlands budget deliberations for FY 2019-20 is wrapping up. The final word will come Thursday night at the Town Board meeting and then a public hearing will be set for the June meeting before the final version of the budget is passed.

Since March, requested/ needed capital items from each department have been considered.

County proposing 1.59¢ tax hike for 2019-2020

By Brittney Lofthouse

At the direction of county commissioners, Macon County Manager Derek Roland presented his 2019-2020 fiscal year budget Tuesday night, and emphasized the county's growing economy, population, and needs. The manager's proposed budget totaled $52,834,025, a nearly $2 million increase over the current year.

Macon County Commission Chair Jim Tate preceded Roland's budget presentation by stating that Roland was tasked with several requests from commissioners to prioritize projects in the budget, which would likely result in an increase in needed funding. Tate noted that commissioners wanted to enhance

O'Shea named Highlands School 'Fan of the Year'

When Brian O'Shea attended the Highlands School High School Athletic Banquet last Monday night to snap a shot of the annual "Fan of the Year" recipient for Highlands Newspaper, little did he know he would be the recipient! O'Shea has doggedly followed Highlands School sports wherever they go – Macon or Jackson counties, in nearby Georgia or South Carolina – all year long posting stories and photos on his Plateau Daily News site and in Highlands Newspaper. Highlands School athletes pick the person who consistently shows support for school athletics during the school year usually just for attending the games. But Brian went far beyond that criteria. Good work Brian! Pictured from left is Highlands School Athletic Director Brett Lamb with O'Shea.

Newly formed HC Health Foundation accepting grant requests

Grant workshop on May 22, at Cashiers/ Glenville Recreation Center, noon-2pm; or May 28, Hudson Library in Highlands, 12:30-2:30pm

The new beginning for the Highlands Cashiers Health Foundation, a public charity is underway, and the announcement of its grant application is now online. The Foundation is pleased to accept grant applications for proposals to improve the health and wellbeing of our Highlands Cashiers and surrounding communities online at www.highlandscashier-healthfoundation.org The grant application submittal deadline is June 15 for the first grant cycle.

Since February 1 of this year, the Foundation has been immersed in establishing policies, procedures and new offices at the Peggy Crosby Center in Highlands. Driven by its commitment to donors and local communities, the grant-making process has been established with concentration on transparent and due diligence procedures through every step.

"We are grateful for legal and research guidance from Dogwood Health Trust and especially pleased with the dedicated work of our Programs and Grants Committee over the past two months, led by Board member Stephanie Edwards," said Dr. Walter Clark, Foundation Chair.

The committee, comprised of four board members and three community advisory members, spent numerous hours studying needs assessment data, health impact factors and conducting listening engagements with 25 organizations across the plateau. The process resulted in a fully vetted, prioritized list of focus areas that have significant potential for fulfilling the Foundation's purpose to improve the health and wellbeing of our Highlands, Cashiers and surrounding com-

Budget process is finishing up

Highlands Mayor
Patrick Taylor

The May Highlands Town Board meeting is tonight at 7pm. The meeting will be at the Highlands Community Building next to the ballfield. While the meeting agenda may not be long, there are several important items for the board to cover.

The first item will be a discussion of the speed limit on Hickory Hill Road. A number of residents want to see the speed limit reduced. I believe the board will take appropriate action. In addition to this residential road, I would like the board to review speed limits in other neighborhoods and in certain business areas. There are several questions that need answering such as, what are safe speeds in certain areas and how speed limits can be enforced? Enforcement on short and narrow neighborhood streets is not that simple.

In planning matters there will be a request for a public hearing for amendments to the Unified Development Ordinance. One of these changes deals with construction and reconstruction of fences, while another relates to accessory uses and structures. Other areas to be reviewed concern dimensional and density standards in residential and non-residential developments.

While I am providing a brief description of the proposed amendments, Town Manager/Acting Planning Director Josh Ward will present a detailed description. No action will be taken until after the public hearing at the June board meeting.

Another important agenda item will be the official awarding of the contract to build the aerial fiber portion of the broadband network. JBL Communications will be the contractor and should start the construction in the coming weeks. The board will also approve the contract for the administration of the contract and construction. Wide Open Networks will oversee the building of the network.

The last item on the agenda will be the presentation of the proposed town budget for fiscal year 2018/2019. For several months town staff and the board have been developing this new budget that will go into effect on July 1. Town Manager Ward, will present the proposed budget which by state law is balanced. At the end of the budget presentation a motion will be made to have a budget public hearing at the June Highlands Town Board meeting.

This proposed budget has a significant amount of infrastructure spending. The 4.6 million-dollar loan to build the fiber network has been entered twice in the budget. Our accountants and auditors require this procedure that appears to balloon the budget by over 9 million dollars. This loan will be repaid from funds generated from the fiber network operation. Also, the budget includes replacement of the Split Rail waterline for $876,000 and four road paving projects totaling $620,000.

While electric utility rates will not increase again this year, the basic usage rates for water and sewer will increase for the first time in a number of years by a couple of dollars. The town is facing several water system improvements and incurred a shortfall this year. Many towns have kept water and sewer rates down while ignoring essential maintenance and upgrades. That strategy is a formula for a water system requiring major funding just to bring it up to minimum

COTTAGES ON 4TH

Another great community from Old Edwards Hospitality! Located in-town, an easy walk to all that Highlands has to offer, this property is just over three acres; six homes will be constructed, each on a half acre lot. The community will be gated and heavily landscaped and include a common area with a pavilion and small pond. John Lupoli, the renowned Highlands builder, will build them so the quality will be second to none! There are two floor plans — a one level and a two-story, both with three bedrooms and three-and-a-half baths. Too many features to name here!

Pricing includes a full membership to Old Edwards Club valued at $80,000. This membership includes all of the new family-friendly amenities at GlenCove by Old Edwards.

WE WELCOME APPLICATIONS FROM ORGANIZATIONS ADDRESSING THESE FOCUS AREAS

Access to Healthcare

Given our mountainous terrain and population demographics, access to care plays a vital role in supporting healthy and strong communities. We welcome proposals that involve emergency and public transportation, indigent care, behavioral health, physician recruitment and retention.

Education Initiatives

The attainment of education is one of the highest factors in predicting good health. We welcome proposals to advance technologies for academic enrichment, reduce k-12 absenteeism, improve student access to health and counselor professionals, teacher development and retention, early childhood learning and literacy improvement for all ages.

Community Vitality

There are numerous opportunities for manifesting healthful mountain living. We welcome proposals for community initiatives to promote healthy, active lifestyles, community health screenings, broadband access and substance abuse prevention programs.

Economic Stability

Affordable housing initiatives and food insecurity are among the most critical needs to be addressed for a sustainable economy.

munities. The information provided extraordinary insight and specific examples of challenges and barriers to healthful living and wellbeing throughout our surrounding communities.

But the learning process has not ended. The Foundation plans to continue these listening sessions in order to deepen and broaden its knowledge throughout the six-county region. Organizations are encouraged to submit grant applications whether they have participated in a listening engagement to date. "Our committee members and foundation directors plan to continue learning about health and wellbeing conditions as well as creative, innovative solutions for improving our communities," said Stephanie Edwards, Chair of the Programs and Grants Committee.

Using the basis of "Social Determinants of Health," the areas for funding initiatives have been determined by evidence-based concepts. "Social Determinants of Health" is the phrase used to define areas that have proven influence on people's physical health and mental wellbeing. The five common domains include: 1) Health and Healthcare, 2) Education, 3) Economic Stability, 4) Social and Community Context, and 5) Neighborhood and Built Environment.

"What this means is that good health and wellbeing is about more than health care and the absence of illness," said Dr. Clark. "When communities work together to improve physical, mental, spiritual and social wellbeing, we all benefit. We believe in investing in areas that offer constructive solutions for healthful and productive lives."

The following focus areas include initiatives for a healthy, safe and thriving community, setting the stage for happiness. The Foundation encourages proposals for projects and initiatives that keep our communities strong and vibrant, particularly programs that are involved in proactive collaborative partnerships. Grant applications are welcome from organizations working in these focus areas:

Access to Healthcare: Given our mountainous terrain and population demographics, access to care plays a vital role in supporting healthy and strong communities. We welcome proposals that involve emergency services and public transportation, indigent care, behavioral health, physician recruitment and retention.

Education Initiatives: The attainment of education is one of the highest factors in predicting good health. We welcome proposals to advance technologies for academic enrichment, reduce K-12 absenteeism, improve student access to health and counselor professionals; teacher development and retention, early childhood learning, and literacy improvement for all ages.

Community Vitality: There are numerous opportunities for manifesting healthful mountain living. We welcome proposals for community initiatives to promote healthy, active lifestyles, community health screenings, increase broadband access and support substance abuse prevention programs.

Economic Stability: Affordable housing initiatives and food insecurity are among the most critical needs to be addressed for a sustainable workforce.

For more information, interested applicants may attend a grant workshop on May 22, at Cashiers/Glenville Recreation Center, noon-2pm; or May 28, Hudson Library in Highlands, 12:30-2:30pm; to RSVP, please contact.

• WORD MATTER •

Enough already ... again

Editor's Note:

Much of this column was inadvertently cut off last week. Here it is in its entirety.

It really doesn't matter which side of the political spectrum one occupies, one thing is certain – don't believe anything anyone says regarding the content of the Mueller report unless they've read it, annotated it, and are carrying it with them. There are many lies being promulgated regarding what it says and doesn't say, about Russia's interference in the 2016 presidential election, collusion, attempts at, as well as actual obstruction of justice, and what may or may not have been the role of anyone associated with the Trump and/or Clinton campaigns. It's almost impossible to glean what is or is not fact or truth. And, I'm sorry, but fact and truth are still important.

Every accusation or denial must be viewed in the context of partisan politics. This renders whatever did or did not happen thoroughly obscured by smoke, mirrors, and, pardon me, bovine feces.

There are three Mueller Investigation books already available on Amazon.com ... for a price. There are also free PDF downloads of the report from a variety of news sources. I'd suggest NPR's version. They rely on federal funding regardless of which party is in control of anything, making them one of a few media organizations committed to straight, down-the-middle news coverage.

For those of us who would like to know what the report says and what it means, getting straightforward analysis is a difficult and elusive proposition. Everyone has an agenda, and veracity is in short supply.

Look, if I haven't been clear since we've known one another, let me say this again; I'm not a Democrat, a Republican, a Libertarian, a Green, a Socialist or member of any other recognized political party. I registered No Party Affiliation (NPA) because I don't think any political party speaks for me or adds any value to the American political process. All of them are covered with warts, weeds, moss and mold as far as I'm concerned.

That said, by the time all is said and done, the Mueller investigation will have cost we, the American people upwards of $30 million. During the time period between January 2017 when the president took office, and the end of March 2019 when the report was issued, precious little if anything got done in Washington. No immigration or healthcare reform. No infrastructure investment. No Social Security or Medicare reform. Nothing.

This follows the pattern set back in the late 1990s, during the second Clinton term, with investigations into Whitewater, Monica Lewinski and Vince Foster. Remember the (Kenneth) Starr investigations? That little exercise in partisan political waste cost the American people over $70 million.

We elect people and send them to Washington to do the people's business. While all this investigating is happening, and while all kinds of politically motivated, partisan bickering is going on, the people's business is definitely not getting done.

Maybe I have this wrong, but we all send a sizable chunk of change to Washington and I'm not seeing our children's education improve, our nation's healthcare getting less costly, our veterans getting the care they need and have earned – I could go on, but you get the gist.

I take issue with the Attorney General, a political appointee, deciding, beyond legitimate security and privacy concerns, what we, the American people, can and can't see in this or any other government-funded report.

I take issue with politicians on both sides telling we, the American people, that they are going to do what they want to do, for partisan political reasons, and the will of we, the American people be damned.

I take issue with our elected "leaders" wasting precious time and treasure on matters I consider frankly irrelevant to the lives and needs of most of we, the American people. It's time they stopped this nonsense and started taking care of our nation.

I know this polemic started out with thoughts about the Mueller report, but 99+% of us won't take the time to read it. We won't take the time to read the Attorney General's digested summary of the Special Prosecutor's findings. We won't even read a newspaper's or magazine's in-depth account of the affair. No, 99+% of us – who am I kidding – not nearly that many, will rely on someone's two-minute version of things on some TV "news" report. The rest of us are too busy watching The Bachelor, or Entertainment Tonight.

Sorry, folks, but we have way many bigger fish to fry and this partisan, political BS is hogging the kitchen.

Across departments, requests ranged from vehicles to capital items particularly in the water/sewer departments.

Each year, paving tops the list in the Street Department and each year Public Works Director Lamar Nix is asked to prioritize the paving projects. Usually a couple are put on the back burner for the next fiscal year.

However, this year, all four suggested paving projects will likely make the cut for a total expenditure of $620,000.

“We continue to get complaints about there being potholes everywhere,” said Town Manager Josh Ward. “32 tons of patch was used over the last few months to fill them, but it’s just not a permanent fix. Patching and paving two roads on the list [Satulah and 1.1 miles of Cullasaja Drive] just isn’t enough.”

Though originally two of the roads, Oak Lane and Hickory Hill Road were red-lined – meaning they might not make the capital needs list for FY 2019-20’ – Ward made it clear they need to be included.

Another red-lined item – Ground Penetrating Radar – in the MIS/GIS Department, will likely be included at a cost of $30,000. Ward said this is a piece of equipment the town can use across departments, specifically in the water/sewer departments where the radar will show a picture of existing lines throughout town.

In the Electric Department, two reconductor projects were listed – one on a portion of US 64 east and one on a portion of Horsecove Road. This involves getting rid of copper lines – something the town has been doing due to upkeep. At first the Horsecove Road portion at a cost of $91,000 was red-lined but it may make the cut after all. That’s two projects in the Electric Department totaling $238,000.

Before the deletions of red-lined items, the total on the Capital Needs list is $3.23 million. If the items red-lined are cut, then the total would be $2.8 million. But after last Thursday’s budget meeting it looks like everything on the list will be financed.

As far as fee increases go for residents and businesses, since the the water/sewer and sanitation enterprise funds/departments are in the red, it looks like those rates will each increase by a couple of dollars per month. The final figure will be decided tonight at the Town Board meeting at 7 in the Community Building.

The biggest increase fee/tax-wise may be the fire tax which has been stable for several years. It is currently the lowest in the county at one cent per $100 property valuation. The assessed property valuation for Highlands and Highlands Township is currently $3,504,725,216.

Fire taxes across the county range from 1 cent (Highlands) to 12 ½ cent per $100 valuation.

Commissioners are proposing increasing it to three cents per $100 valuation. The fire department runs purely on proceeds from the fire tax.

standards. We are not going to make that mistake.

The budget also contains a major increase for the fire tax. As I have stated previously, we have to build a new fire station and move toward more full-time staffing. On Tuesday, May 21, we will have an open forum for residents to learn about and ask questions concerning the new fire department plans. The meeting will be at the Highlands Recreation Department at 6 pm.

crease would be used to finance the new fire department building whether on the current site or on a new piece of property. Obviously procuring property would increase the cost of the project substantially.

Turns out the existing parcel isn't big enough for a new or renovated building which needs to include residential units for more full-time firemen. Fire Chief Ryan Gearhart said 24/7 fire protection would lower insurance rates and eventually taxes.

In addition, where the department would operate and store trucks and equip-

According to MC Emergency Services Director Warren Cabe, the trucks need to

When is it time to sell?

I was recently asked when is it time to sell a second home? Not in the context of when is the best time to list a house, but at what point does a seller decide it is time to let go of a second home. This is a difficult question to answer, as every case has different circumstances. It did remind me of some of the unusual comments that I have heard regarding family homes and the challenges they can bring.

Carl Romberg
 Landmark Realty Group
 678-936-9309

Many times parents will buy a second home while they have young children. Memories are made growing up as weekends, summers and holidays occur at this special location. As the children mature, marry and start their family, they often continue the tradition. There are even times that it continues into third generations. In some cases there may be two, three or more families sharing the use of the family get-away. I have heard of some siblings dominating the use of the property; others that refuse to participate in the upkeep (even to the point of changing a light bulb!). Some family members are not located where they are able to use a property and would prefer to have their share in cash. Or a buyout is arranged with promises by one sibling that are not kept. Besides financial impact, these can create family relationship issues that survive well beyond ownership of a property.

I also know of successful circumstances where the property ownership is set up properly, specifically outlining how use, maintenance, expenses and eventual sale or transfer of ownership is to occur.

If someone is considering keeping a property in the family, there are many items to consider. There are conversations that should occur within the family first, and then involve the appropriate legal and financial advice from professionals.

There are other circumstances that occur that may prompt the sale of a second home including: moving up or down in size; wanting a different type of property; financial needs; relocation of a primary residence; or unfortunate circumstances like divorce, health changes or death. In these times a real estate professional can help work through a plan, taking into consideration the specific property, financial needs and time frame. No doubt, it can be a difficult and emotional decision to make.

That brings us back to when is it time to list? On the plateau there are obviously more buyers looking between May and October. Most buyers are looking on line, well before looking in person. Any serious buyer is ready to move when the right property for them is on the market at the right price.

During the off season, there are not as many properties on the market, which limits the options for buyers at that time and may make a property stand out. Some sellers may decide to wait for a "seller's market" to list. There are times that can be beneficial to sellers, but in a second-home market a true "seller's market" is hard to come by as compared to an urban market.

In summary, individual circumstances will let you know when it is time to sell. With the proper advice in preparing a property to sell, the proper pricing and marketing, any time is a good time to list.

The Magic of Billy Joel

Kathy Manos Penn

I'm a Billy Joel fan, and I saw him long ago with Elton John at the Omni in Atlanta. I got reacquainted with his music when I listened to the Billy Joel station on SiriusXM on a January trip to the mountains—both up and back.

If you're not a fan, you may be wondering how I did that without getting bored. Bored? Not hardly; instead I was fascinated with the interviews where he explained how he came to write many of his songs and what they meant.

First, I was intrigued by the story behind his 1989 hit "We didn't start the fire." A friend of Sean Lennon's was in Joel's studio and commented that it was an awful time to be 21, to which Joel replied that he remembered it had been rough for him too what with Vietnam and civil rights and more in 1970. The reply was something like "Yea, but you grew up in the '50s and everyone knows nothing happened in the 50s."

Joel was flabbergasted and sat down and wrote a laundry list of chronological headlines for what would become a hit song. A bookworm and history buff who once wanted to be a history teacher, he crafted lyrics that formed a 40-year history lesson, 1949 – 1989, including cultural touchpoints and significant events.

As a Beatles fan, I enjoyed hearing that it was seeing the Beatles on Ed Sullivan that convinced Joel to pursue a musical career. He felt the Fab Four came across as smalltown guys like him as opposed to Hollywood stars. Over almost eight hours of listening, I heard several of Joel's Madison Square Garden concerts where Paul McCartney joined him onstage.

"River of Dreams," released in '93, was his final rock album. It's also the only one of his albums that I have on CD, and I have at times played it repeatedly. That could be why I like so many of the songs it holds: "Lullabye," "Shades of Grey," and "Famous Last Words," in addition to the title track. Lullabye is just what the title indicates, a lullaby to his daughter Alexa Ray. He later wrote a children's book titled "Goodnight, My Angel" based on words in the song.

I always thought "Shades of Grey" was a wise song, a song about being mature enough to realize that not everything is black and white: "Now with the wisdom of years, I try to reason things out; And the only people I fear are those who never have doubts." Listening to the song again as I wrote this column made me think we could do with a few more folks these days who see shades of grey.

Finally, it was hearing Billy Joel describe "Famous Last Words" that made me realize the song was prophetic. The way he tells it, he didn't understand that he meant it when he wrote:

*And these are the last words I have to say
It's always hard to say goodbye
But now it's time to put this book away
Ain't that the story of my life*

Can it really have been over 25 years since his last rock album? I'm struck by how relevant his songs still seem, and I've had a sudden urge to see him in concert. He's doing a stadium tour this year but not coming anywhere near the Southeast, so I've been trying to find someone to go with me to NYC to see him at Madison Square Garden. Sadly, I've had no takers.

'Land of the Free, Home of the Brave' ... Really?

Rev. Jim Murphy
Christ Anglican Church,
Cashiers

Brooks is a supporting character in the movie, The Shawshank Redemption, played by the late James Whitmore. Shawshank is a fictional (Stephen King) story that unfolds, for the most part, in a prison. In the story Brooks has a bona fide problem. He is due for parole and he is seriously anxious. He is afraid of what awaits him beyond the familiar walls which have defined his life for decades. No one pays attention to his fears. The day comes for his release whereupon he leaves the prison, checks into a hotel and proceeds to commit suicide.

Brook's story is an oxymoronic tragedy. For us, he represents someone who yearns to be free but can only find a pseudo-freedom in confinement or addiction. Brooks is not alone. There are tens of millions of individuals who face similar problems—people who embrace the idea of freedom but who choose to or would rather live confined behind some sort of bars.

Consider, if your will, those who rely on drugs, legal and illegal. Given the option, many prefer to stay under the bondage of chemicals. Then too there are untold numbers of folks, who imprison themselves in so-called "safe spaces." They confine themselves in an illusory cocoon. There are many others to consider—the poor, the broken, those in bondage to sexual aberrancy, those addicted to an ideology, lust, entitlements, all the oppressed and the sin sick. Many, under the oppression of each of these, resist freedom and release when offered the opportunity to get out of jail. They become pawns of the progressive age wherein progress is a chaotic, regressive mess.

And we fancy ourselves as the "Land of the Free and the Home of the Brave?" How curious is that when many of us place ourselves in bondage. Alas, it does not have to be that way. We don't have to resort to Brooks' solution or living the lie. Real healing, true release and freedom are promised to all who are "in Christ." In large part, Jesus' mission as the anointed One was to preach the good news, to heal the broken and the sick, to set free the captives and those who are oppressed. (Cf. Luke 4:18-21) In other words, God wants us to be set free from our self-limiting prisons.

When the Lord of creation was talking about Truth, he said in part, "Therefore if the Son makes you free, you shall be free indeed." (John 8:36) Jesus was referencing the lies of the evil one, the "fake news" that keeps people in prison, as opposed to the Truth of God's freeing love. The apostle Paul talked in the same vein when he wrote about walking in Jesus' Spirit, "For the law of the Spirit of life in Christ Jesus has made me (us) free from the law of sin and death."

services and infrastructure in Macon County and acknowledged that to be able to do so, additional funding would be needed.

“Projected expenditures have increased by $1,805,016 or 3.5% over the FY ‘18-19’ original budget,” said Roland. “At this level of expenditures, we will continue to deliver high quality public services to Macon County residents and visitors. In FY ‘19-20’, our prior year’s commitment to enhance education funding will be solidified, upgrades to our infrastructure will be completed and additional personnel and equipment will be added to help meet the growing service demands within the Public Safety and Health and Human Services budget functions.”

For the last 10 years, the county’s annual budget expenditures have increased on average by about $1 million a year. While the expenditures have increased, county leadership has consistently be stored in climate-controlled units. Staff said they can’t find any climate-controlled units big enough for fire trucks.

So, now there is talk of acquiring a piece of property and constructing a new fire department building. In that case, the old one will be used until the new building is ready.

A 3-cent per $100 valuation fire tax would net the department $1,080,389 per year which would give it enough money to acquire property, build the building and pay down the estimated $4 million loan.

The 2018-19 1-cent per $100/valuation netted the dept. $414,000

BB&T has offered a 15-year loan. At 4% ,payments would be $360,000 a year.

An explanation for the proposed fire tax increase will be discussed at a public forum May 21, at 6 p.m., at the Civic Center in the Arts & Crafts Room, 600 North 4th Street, Highlands. Plans for the new building will also be displayed.

– Kim Lewicki

maintained a revenue-neutral tax rate, as required by law. A revenue-neutral tax rate might see a slight incline in the county’s tax rate however, the increase is only to be able to produce enough revenue to maintain the prior year’s budget.

However, at the direction of commissioners, for the first time during his tenure as county manager, Roland proposed a tax rate increase beyond revenue-neutral to meet the requests of commissioners and needs of the county.

The current tax rate for Macon County sits at .003532, (35.32 cents/$100) one of the lowest rates in the state. A revenue-neutral tax rate would come in at .003561 (35.61 cent/$100) for 2019-2020.

However, because the revenue-neutral tax rate would only generate $400,000 in new funds for county projects, the needs were too high to maintain that tax rate. Roland’s budget proposes increasing the county ad valorem tax rate to .003694 – (36.94 cents/$100) a 1.59 cents increase.

“This increase will generate approximately $1,050,000 in recurring revenue. This amount is needed to cover increased funding for operations ($500,000) technology ($300,000), and annual capital outlay ($250,000) in the school system’s budget, as approved by the Board of Commissioners in FY ‘18-19’.

The bulk of the increased revenue will go directly to fund recurring needs within Macon County Schools, something both the school system and the public have championed for in recent years.

Rather than being funded as a recurring need, previously appropriations for the school system came from the fund balance or from the county’s consolidated capital projects fund.

As in all businesses and governments, a large majority of the county’s overall operating budget is for personnel costs. In Roland’s proposed budget, increases in health insurance premiums accounted for a significant portion of the budget.

After personnel expenses, the county’s budget included new positions in public safety, new vehicles for several county departments, and capital expenditures addressing aging facilities. The two departments accounting for the bulk of the budget are public safety and the school system.

(Romans 8:2) Paul enjoyed the complete freedom from condemnation that the Lord gave him.

Later, Paul would reconfirm the ministry of Jesus. It is “for freedom Christ has set us free; stand firm therefore, and do not submit again to a yoke of slavery.” (Galatians 5:1) God wants us to be defined by the freedom we have in him, not by being indentured servants to something that has a hold on us. If we are to live as a nation that proclaims ourselves to be “the land of the free and the home of the brave,” then we should to take the “Get Out of Jail Free” card that Jesus offers us.
