Republicans up for NC Senate 50 seat

By Brittney Lofthouse

Early Voting for the primary begins across North Carolina on February 13, giving voters another week to read up on all the candidates running for various offices in the Tarheel State. When Senator Jim Davis announced he would not be seeking re-election for the North Carolina Senate District 50 seat, two WNC Republicans up for NC Senate 50 seat

Highlands School rides out snowfall

By Brian O’Shea,
Plateau Daily Nws

When snow began to fall Friday morning, staff at Highlands School began monitoring the weather and had their buses ready if the call to cancel was made – however school wasn’t cancelled, and students weren’t released early.

Highlands Assistant Principal Sarah Holbrooks said there were several factors involved in the decision to ride out the storm at school; including communication with law enforcement through Student Resource Officer Tim Broughton about roadway incidents and conditions, rising temperatures expected later in the afternoon, and how quickly the snow was falling before the

This year, Davis Picklesimer was named “Firefighter of the Year.”

Mission’s independent monitor lays out its plan

Representatives from Gibbons Advisors – the Independent Monitor of the HCA/Mission Health System – got an earful last week at public meetings in Cashiers, Highlands and Franklin.

Citizens irate about decreasing or lack of services at area clinics and on hospital campuses had a lot to say and questions to ask Gibbons Advisors’ representatives Tom Urban and Ron Winters.

Though they were more than willing to listen, the two made it clear from the start that they weren’t there to solve problems, but would listen, take note and pass the questions and complaints onto Hospital Corporation of America (HCA). However, HCA is encouraging people to go directly to their hospital – in Highlands and Cashiers cases that’s CEO/CNO Tom Neal.

In addition, Winters encouraged people to go to their website at IndependentMonitorMHS.com to log complaints or suggestions – even anonymously.

“We won’t be cycling back to you with answers, but we will get the information to HCA,” said Winters.

As per the Asset Purchase Agreement (APA) an independent monitor was to be in the mix to make sure certain undertakings, commitments and obligations HCA made when they obtained Mission Health System are fulfilled.

Participants at the forums had similar complaints – the lack of primary care physicians in Highlands and Cashiers – there is only one in each location; the one in Cashiers starts in May; the lack of consistent services; the lack of providers; billing; and communication problems.

“We won’t be able to answer a lot of your questions. We are not operating the health system,” said Winters. “We are operating
The future of the hospital may take a coalition of partnerships

When the floor was opened to the public, I spoke first. I indicated that I have measured optimism that there can be improvements at the hospital, especially if HCA and other community organizations can establish mutually beneficial partnerships. Let me review several ways these partnerships might work.

Pisgah Legal Aid Services is working to establish a presence in the Cashiers and Highlands area. They specialize in assisting low-income people in qualifying for Medicaid and/or the Affordable Care Act. If a person shows up at an emergency room without insurance, hospitals have to treat the patient and possibly write off the debt. HCA made a commitment in the Attorney General’s stipulations to provide a basic level of care for everyone. If Pisgah can help more people in the area qualify for this support, HCA will ultimately benefit. More patients with insurance to pay for services will benefit the entire community. The Highlands Cashiers Health Foundation may have an important role to play in this Pisgah initiative, especially since access to legal services impacts the long-term health and wellness outcomes.

I am also optimistic that a concerted community effort may be able to address the lack of primary physicians in the area. The health foundations, Highlands Cashiers Health Foundation and the Dogwood Health Foundation could play key roles in addressing this issue. HCA will need to be an active partner also. Under the sales agreement HCA committed to investing 7.5 million dollars, or $750,000 a year, in community benefit programs over the next 10 years.

At other meetings in Cashiers and Franklin, the health monitors heard more impassioned concerns from residents than what they heard here in Highlands. But, I have heard similar concerns here, too. Lack of consistent services, no doctors that remain in the community, and problems in the billing, are just a few examples.

The good news is that the monitors have established a portal on the internet to receive concerns about services and operations at the HCA facilities. Email any concerns to: IndependentMonitor@gibbinsadvisors.com. Your information will be kept anonymous. Patients can report good service and outcomes also.

The Wednesday meeting was a good first start. My involvement will continue. I am also in communication with the Western North Carolina Health Equity Coalition. HEC was formed during the sale of Mission to HCA. It is a coalition of nonprofit groups that are committed to representing everyone, especially the underserved citizens of Western Carolina. It is concerned about access, services and operations at HCA facilities throughout Western Carolina. They are committed to insuring quality services throughout the region. HEC will seek to establish constructive engagement with the monitors. For more information Google WNC Health Equity Coalition.

Rounding out the season

Middle school basketball finished out their season playing Tallulah Falls in the second round of their conference tournament. Both the girls and boys lost a hard fought game to finish out their season. High school played Hayesville and Nantahala. Varsity girls won both games. Their win over Nantahala sealed first place for regular season conference.

Varsity boys could not quite pull out wins over either team.

JV boys did not win over Hayesville and did not play Nantahala due to them not having a team.

JV girls did not play either team due to Nantahala not having a team and Hayesville girls becoming sick. Their next home game will be on Friday, February 7th against Cherokee.

JV girls will start at 4pm followed by JV boys, then varsity girls and finally varsity boys.

Cheerleaders continue to cheer at every home and away game.

They finished 3rd in their last competition in Raleigh, NC. They will compete again on Saturday, February 8th in Greenville, SC with times to be determined.

The strange case of Harry Harris and his mustache might be just what the doctor ordered to help demonstrate the sad stupidity of racism and xenophobia in our world. Stay with me for a bit; this may get complicated. It will definitely get silly.

Harry Harris is the United States ambassador to the Republic of South Korea. The United States has a long and storied history with South Korea. Even as the American President makes overtures to history with South Korea. Even as the American President makes overtures to South Korea’s sworn enemy to the north, our relationship with South Korea remains solid example of great cooperation in an important region of the world.

Following WWII, the United States joined with South Korea to keep a communist insurgency in the north from over-taking the whole Korean peninsula. The U.S. still maintains over 23,000 troops below the border that separates the north from the south. And, all the sabre rattling emanating from the north, plus hegemony from nearby China, makes for a constant state of uneasy living in South Korea.

We’re not regularly reminded that Japan occupied Korea from 1910 through 1945. It seems many Japanese military officers, along with the Emperor, Hirohito, and the Japanese Army’s commanding general, Tojo, had mustaches. Many of these officers brutalized the Korean people living under occupation. Hence, the disdain many Koreans have for men with mustaches in positions of authority.

Harry Harris is a retired Navy Vice-Admiral. He has dedicated much of his life to the service of his country. Following his Naval service, Mr. Harris was nominated by President Trump to serve as Ambassador to Australia. Soon after being confirmed, and at the suggestion of Secretary of State Mike Pompeo, Mr. Harris was nominated to be Ambassador to South Korea.

By the way, Harry Harris is not only America’s ambassador to South Korea. He is also the son of an American naval officer … and a Japanese mother.

It was upon his release from the Navy, which favors clean-shaven officers, that Mr. Harris decided to grow a mustache. Now, Mr. Harris grew his mustache some time before being nominated for ambassador to South Korea.

Ambassador Harris was asked recently by an enterprising reporter with the Korea Times to explain why he decided to grow his mustache. No doubt thrilled to have been offered an opportunity to justify his aberrant behavior with regard to facial hair, with tongue in cheek, Mr. Harris replied, “I wanted to make a break between life as a military officer and my new life as a diplomat,” he said. “I tried to get taller, but I couldn’t grow any taller. I tried to get younger, but I couldn’t get younger. But I could grow a mustache, so I did that.”

Hyper-sensitive South Koreans, appalled at Mr. Harris’s unwillingness to demonstrate an empathetic response to their pain at having to accept a mustached, Japanese-American ambassador, from the country providing its security for the past over 70 years, mind you, have been picketing the American Embassy in Seoul, writing letters to both the Secretary of State AND the President himself, complaining about the whole indignity of it all.

Sorry, but this is nothing short of xenophobic racism on the part of some people who really have more to worry about than an American ambassador with a mustache. See the references to North Korea and China above.

I have three words for our friends and allies in South Korea: get over yourselves. The war in the Pacific, and Japan’s occupation, ended three quarters of a century ago. Americans have made peace with the Japanese, and the Germans, and the Italians, and the British, for that matter.

I’ve said often, and I believe it with all my heart that racism, antisemitism, sexism, gender bias, xenophobia – broad bigotry of any kind – is based in ignorance and/or indoctrination. The ignorance stems from fearing that which we do not understand, and then hating that which we fear. Negate the ignorance, negate the fear, negate the hate. Indoctrination comes from outside influences – parents, mostly – who fill our heads from the time we are small children with THEIR prejudices, THEIR fears and THEIR ignorance.

It’s always okay to not like someone – an individual – who has, in some manner, wronged you. It’s never okay to hate an entire class of people whose only crime is to have been born, in some way, different than yourself.

I’m sure Ambassador Harris will survive Korea’s mustache-gate. Sometimes, I just don’t get people.

roads could be treated.

“If we had called it and had early release our buses would have been in the middle of their route when the roads were at their worst,” said Holbrook. “We needed temperatures to rise and the roads to be treated before we could send them home. Throughout all of it our staff did a tremendous job fielding phones calls and keeping things orderly, and our teachers did a wonderful job communicating with parents and students. Everybody did an awesome job.”

However, of the 392 students enrolled at Highlands School, 160 left with early release.

Highlands Fire & Rescue (HFR) officials said there was an accident on Highway 28 and rescue crews arrived to find the vehicle in an embankment. The driver was nowhere to be found and they assumed the driver made their way to town on foot.

HFR had two calls for motor-vehicle accidents on Friday. Chief Ryan Gearhart said when the weather gets bad and drivers must hit the road he suggested “taking your time.”

“Accidents were mostly due to people just not being patient and trying to hurry off the mountain,” said Gearhart.

Cashiers community rallies to rescue stranded Blue Ridge students

The snow came on hard Friday morning and based on the flood of incoming information, Blue Ridge School and Early College (BRS) staff made the decision to call it a snow day. Three buses tasked with delivering students home safely called back to headquarters and said it was too risky to go on.

It was then a flood of support came from several Jackson County offices and agencies offering vehicles and staff to pick up the stranded students and take them

Is there a doctor in the house?

“The good Physician treats the disease; the GREAT Physician treats the Patient”

(Sir William Osler)

Perhaps the most frequently asked questions we get in downtown Highlands from those considering a real estate investment are these (in no particular order); “How’s the market doing?” or “What’s the difference between Highlands and Cashiers?” and of course this one “How do we get to the Ugly Dog?” But with increasing frequency here’s a question we get that not only deserves our attention but truly impacts the Real Estate market, and those who plan for full-time or seasonal residency – “What can you tell me about available medical services up here?”

Enter Highlands-Cashiers Hospital (HCH) which has been around since 1966. We are blessed to have it within minutes. Owned by HCA and part of the Mission Health network of hospitals. Their mission statement is Mission… You! Our friends Kurt Shulzman and Richard Neri said it best; “In life, we don’t always have the luxury of choosing where medical emergencies happen. We are so fortunate to have a top Emergency Room here in Highlands. It takes the risk out of spending time at our home away from home. Actually, the hospital is one of the main reasons we chose Highlands for our mountain residence.”

Highlands-Cashiers Hospital takes a team approach in emergencies: to ASSESS (determine what’s going on); then to STABILIZE (the condition of the patient), and finally to TRANSPORT (if necessary). A constant interface with Mission Health in Asheville in extreme cases means there’s always a “team” of experts determining the best course of action. And the renaissance continues at HCH with the hiring of Tom Neal as Chief Executive Officer and Chief Nursing Officer. Tom has 30 years of progressive healthcare experience and recently said this; “I’m humbled that I’ve been entrusted with leading HCH and look forward to my work here, to running, hiking, and golfing in these stunning mountains, and to eventually retiring here with my wife. We’ve concluded that this community is a great fit on every level for us, and I intend to give my best to this hospital and our community members – our neighbors.” This is the guy you want running your hospital.

A rich and meaningful source of healthcare providers are here to provide health and vitality. Dr. Sue Aery owns Aery Chiropractic & Acupuncture and recently added a Master of Science degree to her already impressive background. Dr. Robert Buchanan owns The Center for Plastic Surgery next to the hospital and specializes in minimally and non-invasive procedures and skin care. You will not find two more dedicated professionals (or nicer people) than Dr. Sue and Dr. Bob.

My wife and I are very fortunate to live here full-time, and we employ a full staff of medical professionals. They include a cardiologist, urologist, gynecologist, orthopaedist, radiologist (mammogram), gastroenterologist, Internist, dentist, and of course a mixologist. Let’s face it, none of us really gets older, we just add another “ologist.”

back to BRS or secured drop-off sites along the way, such as the BP Gas Station at the Crossroads.

Supporting agencies included the Glenville-Cashiers Rescue Squad (GCRS), Cashiers-Glenville Volunteer Fire Department, JC Emergency Management teams, JC Maintenance Department, N.C. Department of Transportation, and the Superintendent and Assistant Superintendent of Jackson County Public Schools.

BREC Principal Tracie Metz said the decision was made to cancel school at approx. 8:45 a.m. At that point, students were either picked up by their parents or they hopped on a bus to make their way home; three of which were forced to turn off and call in for back up.

“I feel really good about our quick decision to cancel the day,” said Metz. “We have excellent bus drivers; they know what’s safe and what’s not safe. They stopped and called in and said we’re not comfortable continuing. All the drivers and staff were great, and I appreciate all their hard work.”

Buses on Jody Town Road, Bee Tree Road, and Slab Town Road were forced to pull over and call in for an alternative plan. BRS Bus Driver Sheila Kinsey has been behind the wheel for 32 years and said this was not her first rodeo in the snow.

“The roads were starting to get slick,” said Kinsey. “I took my time and decided to pull over and stop. I think we did a good job handling it. We all worked together and kept the kids safe. That’s always number one.”

GCRS EMS Director Jeremy Stewart said the stranded bus on Jody Town Road was able to get back with a little help from the NC DOT.

“We were over on Jody Town and the state department was able to clear the road so the bus could get back to school safely,” said Stewart. “After that, some parents picked up their kids and the Rescue Squad took others home.”
Representative Kevin Corbin was born and raised in Western NC in Macon County. He is a sixth generation, his kids are seventh, and his grandkids are now the eighth generation to live on the same farm in the Holly Springs community of Macon County. He attended Franklin High School before graduating and attending Appalachian State University where he graduated with honors in Business Marketing and Management. Corbin is a member of Holly Springs Baptist Church where he has served as a deacon and also served as Music Director prior to being elected to the NC House.

Rep. Corbin founded Corbin Insurance Agency in Franklin in 1983 and in 2013 started Blue Ridge Insurance Group in upstate South Carolina. He has worked in the insurance industry since 1983 and has earned several professional designations and honors in that field including being inducted into the Hall of Fame with BCBS of NC. Only 23 members have been inducted into that group in the history of the company.

Rep. Corbin served 20 years on the Macon County School board, serving 16 years as Chairman. After that, he served six years as a County Commissioner in Macon County, five years as Chairman. In 2016 he was elected to the NC House of Representatives and was re-elected in 2018.

“I believe my experience in local and state government gives me the background to hit the ground running serving the folks in the far western seven counties of NC,” said Rep. Corbin. “I love the people of this district and want to give the best constituent service possible. In the House, I have been a constant reminder to leadership that we have unique needs here and have sought support and funding for our area. I have been successful in doing so and will continue that in the NC Senate.”

What is the biggest challenge facing District 50 and how would you approach it?

Conway: “Our biggest challenge is the opioid epidemic. My plan is to focus on prevention by creating an educational template which can be used in schools for children as young as 8 or 10 years of age. Young students need to understand the health hazards and ramifications of becoming addicted to these agents. Also, I would like to address mental health by having a mobile mental health unit which would travel to all seven of my counties and provide much needed mental health services to individuals who may not have access.”

Corbin: “In my last term I co-sponsored the STOP act in the NC House that has begun to slow the opioid epidemic. It was a beginning and there is much work left to be done. We must address mental health issues in our region and I have been a consistent voice for that in the NC House. I have worked on many levels to bring high speed internet to far Western NC including being a primary author of the FIBER ACT (HB 144). Because of those efforts, we persuaded leadership to begin the GREAT grants which have brought money to our region and have facilitated the hookup of thousands to high speed internet. The work is far from over. The grants have been $10 million in 2018, $15 million in 2019, and now we have $30 million budgeted for 2020-21. I have requested but not yet received $100 million from our budget surplus for the same purpose. The work is far from over. We need to continue the push for Western NC. Additional funding for K-12 public education has been a priority for me and we have had great success in the past four years bringing additional state funding to Macon, Clay, Graham, and Cherokee counties. In this new Senate district, I will do the same putting Swain, Jackson, and Haywood to my radar.”

What strengths do you have as a candidate?

Conway: “I like to think of myself as a great listener. Great leaders need to be great listeners. Each of my counties has their own unique needs which require attention.”

Corbin: “In one word... experience. Having served in local government, I know the challenges and pitfalls. Now, being an experienced legislator, I know how the system works and will continue to work in the NC Senate for my district. It is about serving and prioritizing the needs of folks of this district.”

What is your top priority if elected?

Conway: “Addressing the Opioid Epidemic. Other goals: Access to reasonably priced health care; Cut spending; Term limits”

Corbin: “Without question, my top priority is constituent service. My office has helped literally hundreds of folks in my four-county district with issues with the State of NC. I have answered every call and have tried...”

The Best Dog Ever

I know, I know, you think I must be the best dog ever, and I’m inclined to agree with you, but I must admit my Dad had some super dogs before me. Lucky for me, they trained him well.

He was a dog person long before he met my Mum, and Fuzzy was the dog he had when they married. Dad called him his little hero boy. A friend found Fuzzy beside the railroad tracks and brought him to Dad, a known dog lover. He already had a few dogs, so he off-handedly called the tiny thing Fuzzy, thinking he wouldn’t be keeping him. It took Fuzzy only a few days to steal my Dad’s heart and become a keeper. Most puppies are fuzzy little things, but Fuzzy fooled everyone by staying fuzzy as he grew. He looked like a German Shepherd Chow mix, and according to the stories, was one sweet dog.

I can hear the love in Dad’s voice when he tells stories about Fuzzy:

We lived out in the country, so Fuzzy got to run free when I was at home. I could let him roam without worrying about cars, and the neighbors loved him. We two had a routine; I’d feed him and play with him in the mornings before work and give him a biscuit before I put him in his pen in the backyard. Fuzzy carried his biscuit to the pen and kept it all day, eating it only when I let him out in the afternoons.

He was so like a little boy; he even had a golden retriever friend named Zack up the street. When I drove by Zack’s house in the afternoons after work, he’d take off after me and gallop straight to Fuzzy’s pen. Then the two of them played in the yard and up and down the cul-de-sac until dinner time. I got the scare of my life one day when Fuzzy took off across the street and up the driveway to greet a little girl. I knew he was a sweet boy, but I was afraid he’d barrel into her and knock her down. Nope! She opened her arms wide and called, “Fuzzy, oh Fuzzy,” as she hugged him and buried her face in his soft coat.

Fuzzy was also an adventurer and went camping with me. He had a doggie backpack and carried dog food and my adult beverage. How I loved that boy!

Fuzzy was known as the best dog ever right up until Mum and Dad got Tinker from the Animal Shelter one December. After they fell in love with Tinker, Fuzzy be-came known as the best BOY dog ever and Tinker, of course, the best GIRL dog. Stay tuned for my next column to learn more about Tinker.

my best to address every need. I have had about 90% success in solving issues for my constituents and I will continue the same in the NC Senate. In most cases, I would be the only voice available for the 210,000 folks in this large Senate district. I love Western NC and will continue to work hard to make sure our voice is heard.”

Is there anything else you would like to address?

Conway: “I am running organically. No one asked me to run for this office, but I love the people of Western North Carolina, so I am determined to work hard to make a difference. If I am blessed to be elected, much of the time I will physically be located in Raleigh, but please remember: I am working for you, the people. I am Working for the West.”

Corbin: “Serving in the NC General Assembly is truly a labor of love for those who attempt it. With an annual salary of $13,941 it is certainly not for personal gain. The meager per diem of $104 and the mileage of .26 cents a mile are barely enough to cover expenses back and forth. I come home pretty much every weekend, having only stayed in Raleigh 3 weekends in my nearly four years of service. My home is Western NC, not Raleigh. I come home every week to be with my family and to stay in touch with the people of my district. As long as I enjoy it and can stand the drive back and forth, I am willing to serve if the voters give me that honor.”

within the bounds of the purchase agreement. One way we find out if there are noncompliance issues is from what is bubbling up from the community. So that’s what we’re here for.”

He said they speak to HCA every other week at the NC regional level, are due reports in April and May and though HCA wants to hear from community members it is encouraging people to speak to the local leadership because they have the machinery and ability to address issues themselves. For Highlands and Cashiers that CEO/CNO Tom Neal.

Gibbons as the Independent Monitor was hired by the seller of the Mission Health System with the consent of NC Attorney General Josh Stein who inserted things into the APA that HCA/Mission has to adhere to. Winters said Mission’s current role is to assure high quality healthcare in WNC and as the seller, they wanted an independent monitor to participate.

Winters said there are 15 commitments outlined in the APA that span four categories.

They must retain services in certain hospitals; invest in community health and well-being; invest in facilities; spend $232 in five years within the system; $25 million in an innovation and investment fund; keep material facilities open for at least 10 years; if closing allow other entities to bid on them; need to continue certain services for 10 years (and can only vary from that with the consent from the advisory committee); build a replacement hospital in Franklin; spend $750,000 a year for 10 years in community contributions; continue a list of certain activities and service programs for at least year; not change the uninsured patient and charity care policy for 10 years; continue to fund graduate medical education at no less than the current levels for 10 years; and continue to operate within the Medicaid and Medicare programs for at least 10 years.

Highlands Cashiers Hospital is one of the material facilities mentioned in the 15 commitments. Specifically, its emergency services, surgical services, acute medical services and the Eckerd Living Center must remain intact for 10 years.

Winters said Gibbons will be advising the six advisory boards [boards whose purview are specific areas/campuses] throughout the process.

“There are some things that can be varied over the 10 years without the boards’ consent, and also some that the advisory boards will have to consent to,” he said. “There are some things they can modify after five years, but only under special conditions. Regarding that, there could be a dispute as to those conditions and that’s when we would get involved.”

At the Highlands meeting, Wednesday, Jan. 29, Mayor Pat Taylor said he was glad to see “boots on the ground and glad Gibbons as the Independent Monitor will be meeting with all the different stakeholders in Mission and HCA

“I am very optimistic. I and others in the community went to AG Stein about the hospital’s longevity of operation and we wanted a monitor so we were really

The Highlands Performing Arts Center will present the National Theatre of London’s production of Fleabag on Saturday, February 8 at 1 p.m. Fleabag was captured live from London’s West End. Written and performed by Phoebe Waller-Bridge (Fleabag, Killing Eve) and directed by Vicky Jones, Fleabag is a rip-roaring look at some sort of woman living her sort of life. Fleabag may seem oversexed, emotionally unfiltered and self-obsessed, but that’s just the tip of the iceberg. With family and friendships under strain and a guinea pig café struggling to keep afloat, Fleabag suddenly finds herself with nothing to lose. See the hilarious, award-winning, one-woman show that inspired the BBC’s hit TV series Fleabag. Tickets available online: www.highlandspac.org or www.highlandsperformingarts.com or at the door. Fire Chief Ryan Gearhart presided over the affair first recognizing and thanking the retired and founding fathers of the department, many who were present at the banquet with their spouses.

He recognized the number of training hours logged by the department – 2,128.25 hours, which is a crucial part of the job. Jason Tardo was recognized for earning the most training hours at 153 hours.

“I know this takes a lot of time out of your life and means time away from family and friends and I appreciate that this is a sacrifice you are willing to make,” he said.

Gearhart said the number of calls the department responds to increases each year. When the founding fathers were on call, 100 calls a year was a lot, he said. “We are growing every year.”

All told there were 540 calls – 14 fires, 269 first-responder calls, 26 hazard conditions with no fire calls, 43 calls for service, 75 good intention calls, 109 false alarms and false calls, 2 severe weather and natural disaster calls, and 2 special incident call. 100 calls a year was a lot, he said. “We are growing every year.”

Experience the full Snow Moon
Sat., Feb. 8 at the Nature Center

Explore the winter forest under the light of the Full Snow Moon on Saturday, February 8th from 6 - 8 PM! The 2nd full moon of the year is named after the heavy snowfall common in February, and we are opening the Botanical Garden to allow the public to explore the grounds under its light. Bundle up and bring your flashlight to wander through the garden on this one night only. After your stroll, join us for hot drinks and warm up by our fire in the Meadow by the Valentine House (888 Horse Cove Rd). All are welcome to participate in this free event. In the event of rain or severe weather, the event will be held on Friday, February 14th. The Highlands Botanical Garden is part of the Highlands Biological Station, a multi-campus center of Western Carolina University. For more information, please call (828) 526-2623.

Macon Community Funding Pool application cycle now open

Macon County non-profit organizations have until February 13, 2020, to apply for county funds through the Macon County Community Funding Pool (CFP). Application forms and instructions are available on the Macon County website, www.maconnc.org. Hard copies may be made available at Macon County Public Library on Siler Farm Road in Franklin, the Hudson Library on Main Street in Highlands, and the Nantahala Public Library on Nantahala School Road. Please call ahead to make sure a copy will be ready for pickup.

Organizations applying for CFP funds must provide financial statements such as budgets and federal tax-exempt reports, organization goals and objectives, and program/service descriptions. First-time applicants must contact Karen Wallace, 524-3600, or Bobbie Contino, 342-7872, to discuss their proposal. Groups not incorporated as non-profits may enlist an established non-profit to serve as their fiscal agent. Collaborative agency proposals are encouraged to leverage limited funding and to share resources.

The Community Funding Pool was established to help the Macon County Board of Commissioners allocate tax-generated funds to local non-profits in a fair and efficient way. The CFP Task Force is composed of citizens chosen by the Board of Commissioners to consider applications and make recommendations to the Board, who make final funding decisions. The Community Funding Pool is a separate entity from the Macon County Community Foundation.

pleased when he put these stipulations in his approval of the APA,” said Mayor Taylor. “The fact that we have a monitor makes this a better situation for not only the community but HCA, and the health foundations. Everyone will benefit from having this process in place.”

Mayor Taylor said the charity care promise was an AG stipulation that HCA embraced as well as the commitment to reinvesting and contributing to the community.

“That 10-year commitment is so important, and services and the quality of services will be really critical,” he said. “The charity case and community commitment is very positive, not just for the community but also for HCA. I’m very impressed about the $750,000 a year that HCA will be putting into community services and community activities that we can all benefit from.”

Winters said he didn’t know what the ramifications of noncompliance by HCA will be.

“I believe the contract calls for them to comply; calls for the seller to enforce the compliance and allows the AG to go in and enforce the obligation on behalf of the seller if the seller doesn’t do it,” he said.

Regarding the mention of “surgery continuing” at H-C Hospital, though the surgery unit was shut down about seven years ago, Winters said “surgery” is described in a general way so, colonoscopies would fit in that category.

A retired doctor of 50 years who lives full-time in Highlands said it was critical that HCA do something to bring in providers to generate revenue. Without them there is no reason to have a hospital other than emergency services, he said.

“The ER is great, the hospital facility is great, but it’s a ghost town over there. It’s really sad. It looks like the hospital has abandoned the community, not that the community has abandoned the hospital,”

Angels are seemingly everywhere in Scripture, not to mention popular culture, and their role in salvation history is momentous: an angel, albeit fallen, tempted our first parents into disobedience with God; an angel announced the Incarnation to the Blessed Virgin; angels will trumpet in the Second Coming. Such being the case, a deeper understanding of their nature, mission, and how they interact with humanity assists us in our daily lives.

Like man, angels were created in the image and likeness of God, meaning they possess an intellect and free will; therefore, they can know and love. Unlike man, however, angels are pure spirits, lacking a body or any physicality. Interestingly, this means they are outside of time, since time is a measure of change, and only physical reality can change. Furthermore, they were situated in a hierarchy of nine choirs: Seraphim, Cherubim, Thrones, Dominions, Virtues, Powers,Principalities, Archangels, and Angels.

At the moment of their creation angels were tested, like Adam and Eve. They were presented with the will of God along with a choice to accept or reject it. While the precise test is not known with certainty, the Church Fathers speculate it was in reference to the Incarnation. For angels being superior to man by nature, the idea of worshipping God in human form demanded humility. To this test the brightest of the angels, Lucifer, gave his non serviam (I shall not serve). Tradition tells us, and Scripture suggests (Rev 12:4), that he swayed a third of the angels to join his rebellion. These fallen angels are called demons.

As for their mission, angels are not separate from the physical world, but are part of a broader spectrum of creation, including man and the rest of the visible world. Their task is guiding this world in accord with God’s di-
HPD requests information

An investigation by our department has led to multiple embezzlement by employee charges.

Twenty-one (21) felony charges have been secured and warrants have been issued for Kristeeana (Kristi) Byrd Gray of Franklin NC.

Ms. Gray was employed by the 4th Street Market in Highlands from June 2019 to December 2019. We were contacted when the management of 4th Street Market realized the checks written for cash did not match the amount of cash loaded into the ATM machine.

During the course of this investigation, it has been determined that 4th Street Market has suffered a loss of over $31,000 in US currency.

If anyone has any information in regards to this case, please contact my office.

He said the economic engine of a hospital is the providers. Without the providers there aren’t patients.

“The hospital can’t exist off revenues from Medicare and Medicaid. It has to have some private pay and some commercial insurance,” he said. “Right now, the economic engine at the hospital is running on two cylinders – it’s sputtering. If you don’t offer the services provided by the providers, it’s going to be a self-fulling process that the hospital will die and dwindle. If people go to Gainesville and Greenville for services, it will be because there are no providers.”

He said he hopes HCA can do something to bring in some providers and it’s clear they are going to have to supplement the incomes to get young doctors to come and stay. He suggested pushing the quality of life aspect and understand that for years the income of young doctors will have to be supplemented until they get their patient-base built up.

“That’s the only way we are going to get anything at the hospital,” he said.

Mayor Taylor suggested forming a nonprofit healthcare hub to partner with HCA to populate the current Doctor Desert.

“Maybe form a partnership with our H-C Health Foundation, the Dogwood Health Foundation, and community leadership with HCA where we bring in a nonprofit organization that can address the issue of doctor shortages. Maybe the Jane Woodruff building could be the location for that type of operation. This is a great opportunity for us to advance through partnerships, not just with HCA but with all the different stakeholders and all the different groups. In the long run, if we can form these cooperative relationships it will be a positive outcome for HCA and the entire community.”

Winters asked people to go to IndependentMonitorMHS.com to log complaints or suggestions.

vine plan. Hence, all human beings receive a guardian angel. Conversely, this is also the reason for demons’ interest in man at all: although created to assist man, their fall distorted this relationship such that they seek not man’s salvation, but his destruction.

Angels, in virtue of their spiritual nature, can exercise influence over anything physical, including man’s body, senses, emotions, and memory. This influence often explains those otherwise inexplicable moments when, for instance, a parent strongly senses danger approaching their child. The same type of influence is true for demonic temptation, although ordered towards committing sin.

Angels are truly glorious and even frightful creatures. Several times in the Book of Revelation, St. John describes how he began worshipping one, mistaking angelic glory for God’s. Modern portrayals of angels as chubby, winged babies, while rightly reflecting innocence, do a disservice to our understanding of their real nature.

Given the nature and mission of angels, we should be filled with reverence, knowing that if we pulled back the veil and glimpsed their full glory, we too would be tempted to worship. We likewise should be humbled and deeply grateful, knowing that our own guardian angel, at the moment of his creation and upon seeing God’s plan, a plan which included us, said, “Yes.”

Gearhart welcomed new junior member Tristan Petrone to the clan.
Each year for the 30 years he has been on the force, Roger Lee Wilson has earned the Perfect Attendance award. This year he was joined by Leah Dallmann who has been on the force for five years.
Also recognized for being on the force for five years, was Paul Corbin. Those on the force for 10 years are Chris Barden and Hunter Leffler. Travis Ramey has been on the force for 15 years; Ryan Gearhart for 20 years; Robbie Forrester for 25 years; Wilson for 30 and Gary Ammons for 35 years.
Macon County Commission Chairman and Highlands Firefighter Jim Tate made 2019 his last year on the force, hanging up his hat after 20 years.
Tate was 2nd Lt. in 2005, Fire Captain in 2010, 1st Lt. in 2011, Rescue Lt. 2013-2014, and named Fireman of the Year in 2000.
In his farewell speech Tate said he remembered when Fire Chief Mike McCall pulled into his driveway and told him he’d make a good fireman.
“I thought about it for a few days and said, yeah, I think I’m ready and besides asking Allison to marry me, it’s probably the best decision I’ve made in my life,” he said.
Tate said joining the department was a stepping stone to starting his business and even becoming a county commissioner.
“I haven’t been a very good fireman in the last five years; not because I didn’t want to be, but because my duties pulled me elsewhere. But as I look back at my time as a Highlands fireman, I look at the leadership skills it gave me,” he said. “I didn’t realize at the time, but you build yourself up and sell yourself and learn to become a leader. Then once you become a leader it’s all about building up the people beneath you and that’s what the fire department has done. We had some great leaders that helped train me I appreciate each and every one of you.”
For several years, the annual Firefighter Award Banquet has been held at OEI’s The Spring House — this year, Friday, Jan. 31.
