Town Board considers a myriad of topics

During the public comment period of the July Town Board meeting, commissioners heard from Bob Irwin concerning Short-term Rentals, (see story above) from Dennis Wilson about renovating the Community Building kitchen and from Dr. Scott Baker about parking.

Speaking for Highlands Rotary, Wilson suggested the kitchen in the Community Building needed a major overhaul – at the estimated cost of $100,000. He said Rotary had fundraising ideas but also said it would be asking the town to contribute funds.

Dr. Baker said the lack of at the Professional Center at the corner of 5th and Spring streets is making it hard for his staff and his patients to find a spot. There is parking in the building's parking lot but there are rarely open spots.

Highlands Town Board candidates line up for November election

By Brittney Lofthouse

Residents in Highlands will be determining new leadership for the town this November as several candidates ended up filing for the upcoming municipal election just before Friday's deadline.

During odd-numbered years (so as to alternate with statewide general elections) most Municipal Elections are held to elect the governing officials (Mayor, City Council, Town Council, etc.) of cities, villages and towns across North Carolina.

Although Municipal Elections are conducted by county boards of election, only residents of the municipality are qualified

Hotwire contract near ready; signups to follow soon

Finally, there is light at the end of the tunnel concerning Hotwire coming online as a system-wide broadband provider for Highlands.

At Thursday night's Town Board meeting, Town Manager Josh Ward asked IT Director Matt Shuler to present the board with the Fiber Construction completion update.

"I will address construction items first. We are getting very close to the end," he said. "One issue is the splicing. There were a total of 7,700 fiber in the trunk fiber in the head-in and then down the road that same fiber had to be spliced to another and another and another before it gets to its final destination. As of the end of Thursday our splicer has 180 left.

Town Board recap

Last week's town board meeting was a celebratory event in many ways. The Highlands Cashiers Health Foundation introduced the two new doctors that they brought to the plateau in conjunction with their funding and opening of the Highlands/Cashiers Blue Ridge Health Clinic.

Highlands Mayor
Patrick Taylor

Dr. Ann Davis and Dr. Kristy Fincher are the new primary care physicians that will be practicing at the new Blue Ridge Health Clinic. The clinic is a federally approved healthcare provider. It serves all patients both young and old. Dr. Davis told the board that on her first day at the clinic she saw an infant patient and a 95-year-old patient. The clinic is located at the Jane Woodruff Medical Building on the Highlands Cashiers Hospital campus. In addition to family medicine and pediatrics, the clinic offers pregnancy care, nutrition, case management/health education and assistance with affordable health insurance enrollment.

The plateau now has four primary care physicians. In addition to the doctors at the new clinic, Dr. Patti Wheeler continues to serve as a HCA primary care doctor at the hospital. Dr. Scott Baker operates a private practice here in Highlands. Our community's concern about having a "doctors desert" should be diminishing with these new developments.

Tom Neal, our hospital CEO, also updated the board on recent developments at the hospital. Three-dimensional mammography equipment is now available, and plans are underway to restart out-patient surgical procedures. In addition, the CNA training program is now underway.

Dennis Wilson came before the board to get the go-ahead to plan and design needed improvements for the Highlands Conference Center kitchen. The plan will be brought back to the board later this year for approval and funding. Part of the funding will come from private support and part will come from the town. The improvements to the kitchen are well overdue. In addition to the kitchen, improvements to the bathrooms will also be made.

The board also heard an update from Jake Petrosky of Stewart Consultants about the status of the Highlands Comprehensive Community Plan. The plan is in the final stages of review by the planning board. A

• CLARIFICATION •

Clarification is needed in the following paragraphs in last week's article "The new HF&R complex is needed and it is a sign of the times."

"Volunteers get $15 per fire call; nothing for other-type calls, nor is there medical."

"Gearhart says he would like to have eight people full-time on staff which includes the Chief and Asst. Chief. Four would be day-shift workers 8a to 4p and two would be on the night shift which is 4p to 8a. Shift work would be 24 hours on and 48 hours off with shift workers switching shifts. Though the Chief and Asst. Chief would work 8a to 4p, too, they are not shift workers."

We regret the error and are happy to set the record straight.

Tug Helmer

The family of Robert Earnest “Tug” Helmer is heartbroken to announce his passing on Tuesday, July 13 at his home in Highlands, NC. He passed away peacefully in his sleep due to heart failure stemming from a childhood heart condition.

Tug was born in Atlanta, GA, graduated from The Lovett School, attended University of Mississippi and graduated from The American College in London, England with a business degree.

Tug was a true entrepreneur at heart and had an inherent drive for exploring new ideas. His eternal optimism and tenacity to identify new opportunities led him to explore many ventures over the years. While initially driven by the challenge of commerce, it was Tug’s love of people and passion of connection that was more fulfilling. When the opportunity to become a restaurateur in the town of Highlands, NC, he opened Tug’s Proper. Tug’s friendly and outgoing nature served him well where he was constantly attending to patrons and meeting new customers. Tug never met a stranger.

While many people knew Tug’s outward persona as bold and effusive, people will remember him best for his selfless generosity. He was always there with a kind word, an “I’m proud of you,” and an infectious smile. Whether it be helping a friend move, cutting a neighbor’s grass, escorting a niece to a dance, or countless family gatherings, Tug was always present with his uplifting spirit.

Tug’s loving and generous nature extended not only to his family and ever-expanding circle of friends but to his dog, William. His big heart and compassion to adopt this 3-legged rescue became a significant part of his life. Both Tug and William were ever friendly and enthusiastic people lovers with William developing his own circle of friends and admirers that even surprised Tug at times.

A cornerstone of Tug’s life was his faith in Christ. His optimism was driven by knowing his Lord and Savior was with him every day. The loss of Tug’s vibrant and loving spirit, his self-effacing sense of humor and his heartfelt generosity leaves an immeasurable void in so many lives. His circle of friends is vast and we know they all share our sorrow.

Tug is survived by his mother, Deborah Freisem Mast, father Robert E. Helmer Sr. (Beth, Ashley, Lauren) and sister, Sunny Thompson (Randal, Chase, Catherine “Minnie”), uncle George Freisem (Debbie), cousin Allen Freisem (Kim, Henry, Charlie, Sam), uncle Percy Helmer (Janice), cousin Trey Helmer (Joyce, Madeline) and cousin Tatum Helmer (Mark, Charlie, Ryan).

A Celebration of Life is scheduled on Sunday, July 25 from 1- 3 p.m. at Tug’s Proper in Highlands, NC.

A Memorial Service will take place on Thursday, July 29 from 4 – 5 p.m. at The Cathedral of St. Philip in Atlanta, GA. Reception will follow in Child Hall.

In lieu of flowers, the family requests donations to The American Heart Association, Heart.org or Atlanta-LabRescue.com; ALR.

He said he has had to park streets away but for his ill and elderly patients, that isn’t a convenient possibility. He asked if the town could designate some spots on Spring Street for the Professional Center use.

Typically, though the board hears the requests made during public comment, action isn’t taken until the requests are researched by town staff.

After the public comment period, Robin Tindal with Highlands Cashiers Health Foundation introduced the two doctors manning Blue Ridge Health located in the Jane Woodruff building on the Highlands-Cashiers Hospital campus.

Both family practitioners Ann Davis, MD and Kristy Fincher, DO are seeing patients in their offices in the Jane Woodruff Clinic and welcome everyone – infants and the elderly.

MD means “doctor of medicine” and DO stands for “doctor of osteopathic medicine.”

Osteopathic physicians base diagnosis and treatment on the idea that the body’s systems are interconnected. Instead of treating specific symptoms or illnesses, DOs regard and treat the body as an integrated whole. which refers to a specific approach to medical education that began in the mid-19th century.

Davis said her first day she saw an infant and a 95-year-old and equated that wide spectrum to true family practice.

Tom Neal with Highlands Cashiers Hospital said the CNA education program has graduated its first group and within a month will start the second six-week program with 10 students.

WCU to award students $500 emergency grants through HEERF III funds

CULLOWHEE – Western Carolina University will provide $500 emergency grants to enrolled students who qualify for assistance in payment of fall 2021 semester billing charges.

The emergency grants are part of the third round of the Higher Education Emergency Relief Fund, which come from the American Rescue Plan. The grants are available to undergraduate and graduate students.

To qualify for the $500 grant, students must do the following:

- Be enrolled in WCU classes for the fall 2021 semester
- Complete the 2021-2022 Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA)
- Have an expected family contribution of $18,829 or less on the 2021-22 FAFSA

• Sign and submit the HEERF Student Consent Form

To sign and submit the HEERF Student Consent Form, students must log into their myWCU account and open the form under My Financial Aid Status.

In June, WCU awarded approximately $3.8 million in HEERF III funds to students attending any summer session term, waiving tuition for all undergraduate students. Also included in the allocation was nearly $407,000 to support the summer 2021 Academic Success Program and Catamount Gap programs. Program costs that were included were tuition, fees, residential living (housing) and meal plan costs.

final draft should be available to the town board at their August meeting. I anticipate the town board calling for a public hearing concerning the plan at that meeting. The hearing would occur at the September meeting.

As an elected official, I believe the Town Board should avoid making major changes to the final draft of the community plan. I have read the current draft. It captures the ideas of the over 1,000 citizens and businesses that took the survey and the numerous committees and groups that provided input.

The plan is intended to be a conceptual guide for how Highlanders want this community to address current and future challenges. It is not a regulatory document, but rather a roadmap with multiple possible routes to achieve certain basic goals.

I suspect the current board, as well as futures boards, in partnerships with other stakeholders like the planning board, will need to prioritize goals and objectives. Considerations such as costs versus benefits on certain initiatives will need to be carefully evaluated. The good news to me is that elected officials will have a better understanding of what the public wants for their community because we will have all participated in this planning process.

I will hold the first post COVID community coffee this Friday at the Hudson Library. It will begin at 11am with a discussion of the community plan. Town staff members will join us to answer questions about the plan. I look forward to seeing you there.

The majority of all the construction splicing has been completed. There are a few of the MST ports that were brought down by some tree limbs, so those two are repairs, that have to be re-spliced. The plan is to be finished by Friday of next week. Additional 'construction' items are the 35 anchors that are left to be installed. They are also hanging the splice cases now – you may have noticed them on the ground around town – so they are being hung back. Projected date for everything to be complete is the end of July.”

Mayor Pat Taylor asked if a third-party was verifying the construction and the final splicing and that every fiber was lit.

Shuler said yes there is a third-party verifying and town crews are also checking.

On the financial side, Shuler said there are no overages projected to the town whatsoever and issues that needed attending to were done so by the town engineer so there was no cost to the town.

The final contract with Hotwire, which will be a provider and which will also lease fiber to other providers, is in the final stages.

Shuler said the lawyers are close to finalizing the final draft of the contract and it should be ready for presentation at the August Town Board meeting.

“Josh and I and our lawyers have been working back and forth with Hotwire and we have a meeting this week to do a final discussion. That form of the contract will be brought to you at the August meeting,” he said.

A representative from Hotwire will also be at the August Town Board meeting to answer any questions. At that point, commissioners can either approve or indicate edits they would like to see made to the contract.

Shuler said once the contract is signed, it will be around three months before the system goes live but in his opinion Hotwire will most likely use all their staff forces to get that head-in in as soon as possible and during that time, folks will be able to sign up for service.

“Hotwire has to stand up a head-in. We have the fiber, but they will have to bring in and set up electronic equipment before they are ready to go,” he said.

Commissioner Hehn, who has been against the project from the start, had several requests of staff Thursday night.

“I want to know when the contract completion date is, what are the rain dates, what are the liquidated damages, were there any additional costs? It's about a 1 ½ years late, so you have to look at the completion date, add the rain dates, COVID had to be considered, of course, but what is the loss of income to the town since it's late, what are the additional expenses in regards to that? That's what I am looking for,” he said. “I just want to read the contract to know if we are getting everything we are supposed to be getting.”

According to Mayor Taylor, none of the commissioners have seen or read the Hotwire contract because it's not ready.

“They are hashing out several issues between the two parties. When it is finished, all commissioners will be given a copy to review in advance and before a vote is taken. I have not seen a draft yet either,” he said.

Regarding the timeline, Shuler said Town Attorney JK Coward is sending a letter to Hotwire establishing that if Hotwire isn't ready with the contract by the end of July, then the town will put the financial burden on them.

Shuler said the town hasn't paid Hotwire in full – it has held back $1 million – because the engineer hasn't declared the project substantially completed yet.

“It will be paid when it is completed,” he said.

Shuler also said the town gets updates each week from Palmetto, the objective third-party crew – that is making sure everything is completed.

“The supervisor of the Palmetto crew walks the entire system, makes notes as to what needs to be done, and those items are done immediately. He doesn't wait until a report is generated. He just goes ahead and has his crew do it,” said Shuler.

Commissioner Hehn suggested our electric crew inspect the system.

“Don't you think that would be a good idea? Seems to me we would want our own people giving you feedback as to what they see or anything they are worried about,” he said.

Shuler said that's not necessary because the crews on the job are communication engineers.

Concerning the overall Fiber Construction Project, Thursday night, Hehn presented the board with a letter addressed to Town Manager Josh Ward requesting all copies of the construction file for the project including all partial payments for the project, all third-party construction observation reports and third-party construction observation invoices.

“The law requires that you respond to and fulfill this request as promptly as possible. If you expect a significant delay in responding to and fulfilling this request, please let me know when I might expect copies or when I have the ability to inspect the requested records,” reads the letter.

“If you deny any or all of this request, please cite each specific exemption you feel justifies the refusal to release the information and notify me of the appeal procedures available to me under the law.”

In response to the request, Mayor

Taylor said the myriad of documents Commissioner Hehn is requesting will take time for staff to produce.

“He wants to see all the punch lists and testing data that the engineers are producing and signing off on this week. When we get the reports, he can see them, too,” he said.

ALL ABOUT BOOKS

• INK PENN •

Historical fiction with a splash of mystery

Goodness, how I love my library! When I read a book review in the Wall Street Journal, the Atlanta paper, or somewhere online, I find appealing books and jot the titles down. That means there are lists of books on the screened porch, by my chair in the living room, and on my desk. Eventually, those titles make it to one of two online shelves at my library, either Hold or Save for later.

The order in which I consume books is dictated by the library and when the books become available.

Over the last few weeks, the selection has all been in the historical fiction genre with a splash of mystery, and what a marvelous few weeks it's been.

Travel with me to the WWII era through three engaging books.

The Mystery of Mrs. Christie by Marie Benedict

What a riveting read! I was aware of Agatha Christie's mysterious real-life disappearance, but I'm not sure I realized she never explained it. Even in her autobiography, she didn't reveal any details. That secrecy allows author Marie Benedict to fill the void with an imaginative and plausible tale. Weaving in fascinating facts like Arthur Conan Doyle consulting a medium as part of the search for Christie makes the story all the more intriguing. Even a small detail about the origin of Peter Pan collars is skillfully inserted.

If you're an Agatha Christie fan, this is a must-read. If not, read it because it is a well-written novel with all the elements of an unforgettable story--romance, mystery, and history. The adjective unputdownable is overused these days, but this book truly is.

The Rose Code by Kate Quinn

This may well be the best book I've read this year. Kate Quinn does a masterful job of weaving fictional characters into the lives of historical figures and revealing the amazing story of the work that went on at Bletchley Park during WWII.

You're sure to be intrigued by Osla, the real-life Canadian deb who was a codebreaker at Bletchley Park and was Prince Phillip's wartime girlfriend. Your heart will break at the grueling work done by the women who worked at Bletchley, work they couldn't speak of, lest they run afoul of the Official Secrets Act.

To the outside world, they were clerical workers, when in fact, they were so much more. Even the Author's Notes and the Acknowledgements at the end are thrilling reads. If you read one book this year, let it be this one!

The Consequences of Fear by Jacqueline Winspear

Book 17 in the Maisie Dobbs series does not disappoint! It's difficult to say which of Winspear's books is my favorite, as I started with "Maisie Dobbs" in 2003, but this one may be it. Yes, at its heart, this is a mystery series, but it's also historical fiction at its best. Perhaps it's the way Maisie's life has evolved since the WWI era when we first met her. In this latest addition to the series, it's WWII and London is enduring the blitz.

You feel as though you are there as you experience Maisie solving a complex case and the emotional upheavals she endures as she, her friends, and family live through yet another war. What I love about Maisie is that she is a complex, mature, capable woman who never stops growing. Through the years, I've teared up at her sorrows and smiled at her joys. Heck, I like her so much, I even reference her in my Dickens & Christie cozy mystery series! I HIGHLY recommend this book.

Now, time's a wastin', and I have yet another stack of books to get to. Hope you do too.

ager Josh Ward reminded the board that everything in the plan doesn't have to be implemented.

Presenter Jake Petrosky, who has been hands-on since the start of the project a year ago, started explaining the vision of Highlands, which is the jumping off place for everything in the plan.

"Highlands is a vibrant and scenic mountain community founded on the beauty of the plateau's natural environment, the uniqueness of its village character, and the richness of the area's culture and history," he read.

Future needs and recommendations were categorized and include Land Use for residential housing, businesses and open spaces; Recreation and Natural Resources; Downtown and Tourism, in regards to parking, sidewalks, and street improvements; with the last category Infrastructure & Public Services.

Recommendations in each category were then tiered based on importance – short-term, medium-term and long-term – meaning when the town might consider implementing suggestions as policies or regulations.

For instance in the Downtown and Tourism category #1 was to Maintain and enhance Highlands' small-town feel/village character; #2 was to Improve pedestrian facilities, lighting and wayfinding; and #3 was to manage public parking and study opportunities for increased on-street and off-street public parking.

As during the Planning Board session, one issue that was discussed at length was Short-term Rentals (STRs).

Petrosky said that 62% of Community Plan survey respondents said they had concerns about STRs and 61% of business respondents said more hotels or rentals downtown would help their businesses.

During the public comment period of the Town Board meeting, Bob Irwin, a member of the Dog Mountain subdivision and a neighbor of Tom Coley who spoke about STRs at the Planning Board meeting, read a statement urging the Town Board to do something about the freewheeling STR industry in Highlands.

"On Dog Mountain, with under 30 homes total, we currently have three houses now advertised for short-term rental. The ad for one of those says it is an 1,100 sq. ft. home that sleeps six. Another says it sleeps 10 in three bedrooms. Yet another says it has four bedrooms and three baths, 10 beds, and sleeps 12. We expect three more houses on our road to be added to the short-term rental list very shortly.

"We've already had problems with noise, traffic and garbage due to these rentals and unfortunately we expect more.

"Several of these short-term rental homes on Dog Mountain and elsewhere in Highlands are owned by people with no personal connection to Highlands, who never visit them, let alone live in them – people who hold them simply as investments, managed for them as a business by other people," said Irwin.

He later questioned why such ventures, which he said are clearly businesses, are allowed in the R1 district.

"The tide of short-term rentals, if it is not reined in, will lead to neighborhoods being hollowed out, without a critical mass of owner-occupants to sustain them.

"I ask you to think carefully about the kind of Highlands you want to have in five years; one that is just a staging area for an endless stream of one-night stands or a community that is sustained by residents year-round and seasonally who have a real personal commitment to it. Don't wait to see how other cities' litigation turns out. Don't wait to see what the state legislature might do. Please take action yourselves to protect Highlands and take it now," he said.

Town Manager Josh Ward said as a municipality, Highlands has been watching month-to-month what the legislature is doing because it must follow state statutes.

Petrosky noted, as per the North Carolina Vacation Rental

Act (2020), requiring rentals to register is unlawful; that local governments cannot levy a tax or fee on residential rental property that is not levied against other commercial and residential properties; and the State has also ruled that limiting measures, such as lotteries for STR permits, are not valid.

However, he said immediate available options include an optional STR registry and a no-fee permit; the continued enforcement of noise and trash ordinances; education and an outreach effort to rental owners that emphasize rules and requirements, and to encourage HOAs to regulate STRs in their neighborhoods.

In the future he suggested using zoning ordinances to regulate STRs in regards to location, length of stay (i.e. 2, 3, 5 or 7 nights) and to differentiate whether the home is a full-time STR or also lived in by the owner.

Since changing zoning ordinances is a lengthy process, those future recommendations can't be enforced immediately as an "immediate available option."

Petrosky did say if STRs are something that need to be put on the short-term list of things to do, it could be done before the final plan comes back for adoption.

Therefore, considering what the Planning Board heard from Tom Coley, who also lives on Dog Mountain and who echoed Irwin, the Town Board decided to move the STR problem to the forefront of Community Plan Recommendation list.

"I think the feedback concerning Short-term Rentals indicates this is an immediate problem we need to address," said Mayor Pat Taylor.

With that, Petrosky moved STRs up to the top.

Later, Mayor Taylor said Bob Irwin had made some very good points and though HOAs are a community's first line of defense, many R1 areas in town aren't separate neighborhoods where HOAs would work so the town needs to address the problem.

Taxes on the Seed or the Crop? What we can learn from Peter Thiel's Roth IRA

A story recently hit the news that surprised even me. It was reported by ProPublica, that an investor has amassed over $5 billion in type of retirement account called a Roth IRA. If you haven't heard of him, the person was Peter Thiel, an early investor in companies like PayPal, e-Bay and Facebook and reportedly turned an initial $2,000 investment into $5 billion.

This was a large part of my surprise because Roth IRAs have relatively low contribution limits, and high-income earners are generally excluded from this type of account. Also, the contribution limits from its creation in 1998 until 2008, was less than $5,000 per year (it was $2,000 when he contributed) making it nearly impossible to build an account this large in such a short time.

As incredible as all that is, here's the real kicker - under current tax law, every bit of the $5 billion will be available to him TAX FREE at age 59½!

As you might imagine, much is being made of the "fairness" of this as many people feel this is just another multi-billionaire who is not going to pay his fair share. I won't wade into that here, but the truth is, most people in the U.S. can also take advantage of both the tax-deferred growth potential and qualified tax-free withdrawals when you invest in a Roth IRA.

Roth IRA basics

The Roth IRA was created in 1997 and was named after Sen. William Roth. It provided an alternative to the Traditional IRA in that with a Roth IRA, the contributions are not tax-deductible. But any growth and the eventual distributions are tax free if certain rules are followed.

This includes not withdrawing any of the growth in the first 5 years from the time the account is established and funded - and you've reached age 59½. However, the amount contributed can be withdrawn at any time tax free as the contributions have already been taxed. So, in Mr. Thiel's case, he can remove the original $2,000 contribution, but can't withdraw the growth without taxes and penalties until he's 59½ (he's currently 53).

Contribution limits

The 2021 contribution limits are $6,000 per year if you're under age 50, $7,000 if you're 50 and over.

Also keep in mind there are income eligibility restrictions that must be met for you to contribute for that tax year. For single tax filers, your Modified Adjusted Gross Income (or MAGI) for 2021 must be under $140,000 and for married filers it's $208,000.

Michael P Henderson,
CFP® CKA®
Founder/Wealth Advisor

Who can benefit

If you have access to a 401(k) or certain other retirement plans with your employer (even if you're not contributing), if you're income is too high you may lose the deductibility of a Traditional IRA.

For those who do fall into this situation but have additional dollars to invest over and above the 401(k) limits, a Roth rather than a Traditional IRA may still provide significant benefits.

As long as your income is under the thresholds, even if you have access to and are maxing out your 401(k) contributions, you can still fully contribute to a Roth IRA, giving you another way to potentially grow your investments tax-free over time.

For those who qualify for both a Traditional and a Roth IRA, often the question is which one should they choose. Generally, it comes down to this - would you rather pay taxes on the "seed" or the "crop." In other words, do you want your tax break now or later, and which would be the most advantageous for you? Again, generally the younger you are and the lower your income, the more advantageous a Roth IRA would be. Presumably, you would have more time for your contributions to compound, and the lower your income, the less likely you need the tax deduction up front. But even though you lose the tax break up front, as Mr. Thiel now knows, you would receive your tax break later and it could be quite significant.

So, back to the concept of the seed or the crop. Peter Thiel forfeited the tax deduction on the seed, and now, what a tax-free crop!

Glenville Area Historical Society events are on! Annual Ice Cream Social is at Glenville Wesleyan Church

The Glenville Area Historical Society (GAHS) annual Ice Cream Social planning is well underway for Saturday, July 31st at the historic Glenville Wesleyan Church. Each year this event kicks off the year for the Society where attendees enjoy, usually, a beautiful sunny "Carolina blue" day, tasty toppings on delicious ice cream at a historical site. Attendees, a combination of GAHS members, prospective members and guests enjoy the treat and will hear Pastor Ralph Campbell tell about the 100 year history of the Glenville Wesleyan Church.

The Glenville Wesleyan Church is one of the premier historic sites in Glenville. The church, founded in Old Glenville, was moved along with other buildings when dam was built. The story of the rebuilding in New Glenville involves the historic Wiggins family and various stories of progress to present day.

The history of Old Glenville, resident life at that time, the building of the dam and the evolving of present day Glenville are all featured at the Glenville History Museum located next to Signal Ridge Marina in the heart of Glenville on Highway 107. The Museum is one way the GAHS preserves the rich history of the Glenville area. Much of the materials, information, artifacts and collections on view at the Museum are a result of members interviews with elderly residents, map research, document collection and historical research.

One section of the Museum features the geology of a different historic family each year. The Museum is open weekly Wednesday through Saturday each week from 11AM to 3PM until October.

For more information about the Society and the Museum call the Glenville Area Historical Society at 828 850.7022 or email historicalsocietyglenvillearea@yahoo.com.

to vote in the election. These voters must have resided in the municipality for at least 30 days prior to the date of the election.

The seats up for election in Highlands this November are the Mayor seat – currently held by Pat Taylor and two Commissioner seats currently held by Amy Patterson and Donnie Calloway.

Commissioner Donnie Calloway will not be seeking re-election.

Incumbent Mayor Patrick Taylor will see a challenger in Marc Hehn who completed filing paperwork for the Mayoral seat just before deadline. Hehn currently serves on the Town Board and if elected as Mayor, his seat would then be filled by appointment by the Town Board.

Mayor Taylor has served in his official capacity in Highlands since first being elected in 2013. If re-elected this year, Taylor will begin his 4th term as the Mayor (and Commission seats) are a four-year term.

Incumbent Commissioner Amy Patterson filed for re-election and will face challengers – which is vastly different than the 2017 election when both Patterson and Calloway ran unopposed.

Challengers this election include Eric Pierson, who has previously served on the Town Board, Thomas Craig, Pat Allen, Nicolaus McCall, and Mary Alice Bynum. With two open seats on the Highlands board up for election, the top two vote-getters will be elected.

Since the Mayor as well as the Town Board seats were unopposed during the last election, voter turnout was miniscule. There were only 79 votes cast in the Mayor race – 75 for Taylor and 4 write-ins, and 78 for commissioner – which included all votes for the incumbents with the exception of six write-ins.

In 2013 when both the Mayor seat and the Town Board saw multiple candidates, the election was decided by less than 500 people. Mayor Taylor was elected with 60% of the vote in 2013 – which only amounted to 264 votes.

Election Day is scheduled for Nov. 2 and only voters who live within the town city limits will be allowed to vote. Voters will be able to vote at the Highlands Civic Center from 6:30 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. Voters wanting to cast their ballots early will be able to do so beginning October 14 when one stop early voting begins. Early voting will also be held at the Highlands Civic Center and will run from October 14 through October 30 at 3 p.m.

A Candidate Q&A will be featured closer to the election but to kick-off the campaigns, each candidate was asked a simple question: Why do you want to run?

Mayoral Candidate Mayor Pat Taylor

I believe I have provided steady and responsible leadership for this community in the last eight years. I would be honored to serve the citizens of Highlands as their mayor for the next four years. Our community, as the community plan has revealed, will face major challenges in the coming years. I want to continue to stay on duty and lead the town in meeting these challenges. My guiding principle has been to balance progress with preservation.

Mayoral Candidate Marc Hehn

The duty of the Mayor is to work with the community to support its needs. We have three huge needs.

Healthcare: I believe the Town Board should be a true partner in the effort to support healthcare on the Plateau. The Eckerd Living Center provided excellent healthcare for my mother. That experience afforded me the opportunity to observe first-hand the outstanding services available on the Highlands Cashiers Hospital campus. I want to do all possible to keep it that way. In 2019, we had two Family Practice Physicians now we have four. More physicians are coming to the area in January, but we still need support staff. My wife and I funded a study by the Clemson University College of Architecture, Graduate Program in Health Facilities Design. The students determined we need 16 housing units of varying size to meet the needs of our Healthcare workers. When presented with the proposal and asked to honor a 1987 commitment by the town to provide 50,000 gallons per day of sewer service and a 2001 Agreement to provide 70,000 gallons per day of water service from lines that are in the ground our Town Board voted 4-1 to deny the request. I could not believe that vote as the total water used on the hospital campus today is using less than 20% of what was committed to. Affordable worker housing is also a huge problem to maintain the services we have become accustomed to from the business community.

Broadband: We all have heard of the Wide Open Networks plan to provide fiber to our homes. I had to retain a lawyer after asking for eight months to read our Broadband file. After reading the file, I learned that Wide Open Networks was never told by the Town there are other providers that are upgrading their systems to provide Gig service. In March 2020, Wide Open declined to sign a contract to operate the system they planned. And, Wide Open even declined to respond to a new Request for Proposals to operate the system. Since this project is at least 18 months past the contract completion date, I have been asking for three months to see the construction file which has not been honored. My minister says problems have solutions and dilemmas have thorns. So here we find ourselves in the position that the town chose to build a much more costly fiber plant of $4.6 million which is more than the Wide Open recommended $3 million project. Further complicating this thorny issue is the system that has been built will only serve the areas that have overhead electrical service. I have not yet been allowed to read the contract the town is negotiating with Hotwire. This is a huge dilemma and I am afraid we aren't going to get out of this without getting stuck.

Short Term Rentals: At the July Town Board meeting, there was a lengthy discussion of the 2021 Update to the Highlands Comprehensive plan. Recommendation Land Use 5.5 on page 67 of the draft plan reads "consider updating land use regulations to define short term rentals as a use and establish geographic restrictions, approval requirements and/or performance-based standards for the use." Action Item 7 of the draft plan reads "Monitor and mitigate the impact of short-term rentals on the Highlands Community." I suggested that we make this a high priority rather than the suggested mid-level priority. The board unanimously agreed that this should be a priority.

Commissioner Candidate Pat Allen

I am running because I've always listened to my inner voice and I feel it's what I'm supposed to do. I have seen big changes in the dynamics of our special town over the last two years. These changes have encouraged positive opportunities for growth but also have introduced the risks of losing what has made our little town so unique. In my 27 years as a full-time resident, I have seen many changes, but never to this extent. I want to use my knowledge and experience to make sure we maintain the character of our small town that led so many of us to want to live here.

Commissioner Candidate Mary Alice Bynum

I am running for the Town Board. My platform is CHANGES TO OUR TOWN! WHAT DO RESIDENTS WANT? I have been a business owner in our quaint village since 1982 and I have certainly seen a lot of changes in Highlands. Change is good, but on the other hand is it always necessary and how do these changes impact our quality of life?

We must ask ourselves if we are ready to turn Highlands into Gatlinburg, TN or Helen, GA. I plan to tackle issues that most affect our residents rather than focusing on expanding tourism.

I realize that weddings are now a major part of the landscape in Highlands, but we want to be more than a wedding destination. I would like to address parking, short-term rentals, access to local venues, healthcare and stress the importance of supporting our police and the fire and rescue departments. I would like to talk to our residents and hear what changes they would like to see made and those they don't want to be made.

I want to hear your voices and keep the wonderful charm the town of Highlands exudes. I have lived in the mountainous regions of North Georgia and Western North Carolina my entire life. Community means everything to me, and I want to rep-

He said they are considered full-time while in the school and are paid and receive benefits and get a sign-on bonus when they complete the program.

About seven years into the 10-year contract with Hospital Corporation of America (HCA) which owns the hospital, Neal said he is "blown away" by the financial commitment of $7 million HCA as made to update the hospital's infrastructure.

He said it is the hospital's goal to be the provider of choice for healthcare in Highlands and Cashiers.

During the Mayor Reports, Mayor Pat Taylor presented several issues he wants the Land Use Committee to review.

First, he said that there have been a lot of complaints about construction noise during off hours.

Commercial construction is only allowed weekdays from 7:30a to 6p. Workers painting quietly inside a structure are not considered "heavy construction" which is what the town's ordinance addresses.

Commercial Landscape companies are lumped in with construction, so they aren't supposed to be working on weekends either.

"Some of their equipment can make as much noise as that used by construction crews," said the mayor.

Homeowners are allowed to do landscaping on the weekends and after hours on weekdays however he said there is some ambiguity in the ordinance which he wants the Land Use Committee to address.

Second, he said there have been complaints about loud music generated by bands. According to the ordinance, band music is supposed to stop by 11p, but he said it may need to be adjusted and suggested the Land Use Committee also review that.

The last issue was about alcoholic beverages being allowed in K-H Founders Park on July 4.

This year music in the park was on Saturday, July 3, and it was about as crowded as it was on Sunday, July 4. People didn't understand why they could drink alcohol in the park on Saturday but not on Sunday.

Initially, Police Chief Andrea Holland said she was worried about the mixture of alcohol and the increased number of vehicles on the road generated by July 4th activities in the park with people leaving when it's dark compared to their leaving when it's light after a typical Saturday night of music.

On May 13, a Petition for Rezoning was submitted to the Planning Department by Bennett Williams for his property at 1459 South 4th Street. The lot is .28 acres and zoned B-3 Commercial, but the building operates as a single-family dwelling. Williams requested the property be rezoned to R-1 to fit the residential nature of the building. The Planning Board reviewed the item on May 24 and recommended approval but at the July Town Board meeting commissioners denied the request 3-1. Commissioner Marc Hehn voted "no" to denying the request. Commissioners Amy Patterson and John Dotson had the most to say about the issue.

"It's zoned B-3 but it is multi-use which means residential is allowed, but if we make it R1, the only thing it can be is a single-family residence," said Patterson. "Later, it might be best as a home with a home occupation and if it's rezoned R1 they can't do it."

Both commissioners said Highlands needs places other than the downtown business area for businesses.

"Highlands makes money because people come here to spend it and we need places for businesses to fuel our economy," said Patterson. "If we rezone everything in our corridors to something other than business, we are limiting our future."

Commissioner Dotson said simply that there are businesses needed in Highlands that have no business being on Main Street and there needs to be places zoned for them.

"Main Street rent is astronomical so to take a potential business property and convert it to R1 is restricting the future potential of that property," he said. "Besides, residential is allowed in the B3 district."

Making moon rocks at TL&LC Summer Camp

By Brian O'Shea
Plateau Daily News

Attendees of The Literacy & Learning Center's Summer Camp recently took a trip to Mill Creek in Highlands to collect mica to make moon rocks for their camp project. Kids brought back the haul of mica from the creek to create their own moon rocks back at home base (TL&LC).

Campers also read the Dr. Seuss book There's No Place Like Space and were visited by John Hendricks from The Bascom who helped kids paint space-themed art projects.

TL&LC Senior Program Manager Anne Norton, said adventures like the hike to the creek are activities that often revolve around STEAM, learning focused on science, technology, engineering, arts, and mathematics.

"This was a chance tie in the experience of nature with our moon rocks project," said Norton. "Some of them have never been there before so it was a great chance to explore the area."

Visitors from The Bascom, The Highlands-Cashiers Land Trust, and Ben the Reading Dog stop by throughout the summer presenting art and nature themed projects to campers, or just hang out and read books.

"They can learn facts around a theme, and then explore those facts with hands-on activities at camp," said Norton.

In addition to collecting a solid haul of mica, camper Catherine Graham, 6, found an inch worm.

"We found a lot of mica and got to find all kinds of creatures like butterflies, minnows, and I had an inch worm on my finger," said Graham. "It tickled when it moved and it was fuzzy, kind of."

Marina Martinez, 7, said the coolest part about making moon rocks was looking for the mica.

"You need to find shiny rocks to make the moon rocks," said Martinez. "I made two. I found some mica on the beach, some in the water, and some on land away from the beach. That's why summer camp is fun, because we do fun stuff."

Mary Betances, 7, said she had tons of fun at Mill Creek.

"We had to find mica to make moon rocks, and then we got to spread our creativity by finding big ones and small ones," said Betances. "I liked that they glittered."

I am running for the Highlands Town Board, because I gen-

Coming out of the pandemic, Highlands is now at a critical juncture. Balancing economic growth and environmental preservation. In addition to a plethora of issues from healthcare, broadband, workforce housing to short-term rentals. Preserving the identity, local culture and character of our town, while managing growth is more important than ever. And if elected I would serve to give the community a voice in the decision-making process.

CRT OR CRT?

I would like to talk to you about CRT...I figure I got your attention, now. But I somewhat deceive. It is not quite "Critical Race Theory" I am going to talk about as much as Christian Redemption Teachings. My definition is, "Christian teachings about the, or relating to, the social construct and Scriptural realities regarding race and racism."

The contemporary understanding of the acronym "CRT" is - "Critical Race Theory, which is a sociological and theoretical movement based on the premise that race is not only a natural, biologically grounded feature of just physically distinct subgroups of human beings, but a socially constructed (culturally invented) category that is used to oppress and exploit people of color.

Critical race theorists hold that the law and social institutions in the United States are inherently (read systemic) racist insofar as they function to create and maintain social, economic, and political inequalities between whites and nonwhites." They, therefore, would promote what many see as radical efforts to rectify these institutional, social, and cultural racial biases by such steps as reeducating the status quo (translated white Americans), adjusting economics to compensate for past inequities, and both finding fault with and rewriting of our history (see Britannica, "CRT").

But I will offer what may appear to be a naïve and simplistic counter – my Christian Redemption Teachings.

First, the Bible is clear that we are all created in the image of God. As Galatians 3 teaches us, "We are all children of God through faith in Jesus Christ. And in Christ, there is neither Jew nor Greek, neither slave nor free, neither male nor female, but you are all one in Christ." These physical and national differences will persist even into eternity (Rev. 21:22-27).

My point – race and nationalities are a reality and part of God's plan. But God has no favorites.

Second, because I believe in the Biblical reality of sin in all its expressions of pride, hate, and bigotry, I believe we are all sinners and all of us imperfect. Call it "systemic sin" if you like. We all – regardless of color, creed, or culture - carry our baggage of ethnocentric and cultural biases. As Christians, we are to repent of these sinful proclivities. The histories of empires, nations, and communities are bespotted with failures and unrighteous acts toward others – whether the "other" be race, tribe, nationalities, or religions. The Bible is in part a historical drama of humanities sins toward God and injustices toward one another. The Bible is clear. Humans are capable of ugly, individual and tribalistic mistreatment of our fellow people. But this brings me to my third point.

The Bible and its message of redemption teaches me that no amount of historical rewrite or social engineering can repair the past or fix the present. There has always been and always will be one cure for our problems about hate and bigotry – and there is enough to go around on all sides of the issue and among all peoples. The cure is faith in Jesus Christ and His sacrifice for our sins, and the cleansing, forgiveness, and new hearts which it secures.

Man-made cures and attempts at justice as they apply to racialistic and racial rectification – and history bears this out – only create more animosity and hate down the road. The only source of love, forgiveness, and cooperation among people is to be found in Christ. And there before Him one day, we will all bow the knee, and none will claim superiority or call for justice (Philippians 2:9-11).

We cannot atone for the sins of our forefathers and mothers of the past. Only Christ can do that. We cannot realistically rectify injustices of the past – for all of us in some way could cry out for some retribution or rectification for past mistreatments of us or our forebearers.

Our only solace, comfort and hope in the moment is to experience the love of God through each other in mutual forgiveness, grace, kindness, respect, and acknowledgement of the plague of sin in all its dark hues past, present and future. As Christians we are to set forth the reality of Christ in us and Christ for others – “letting each esteem others better than themselves...and to look out for the interests of others” (Phil. 2:3,4).

I believe the contemporary CRT of today will only create greater divisiveness in assigning guilt to one group and not all people – “for all have sinned and come short of the glory of God” (Romans 3). It is rooted in a theory of socialism (Harvard, 1980s) and not science.

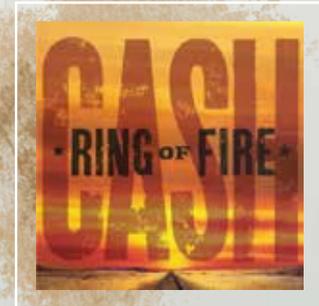

Second, it presumes confidence in humanities ability to fix problems of injustice. Not even a statism that forces rectitude or the appearance of equality will change the hearts and minds of men and women. All the wars, genocides and conflicts of the past and present prove that to be idealistic at best. The only place to find unadulterated equality (equal treatment and respect) will likely be the new heaven and new earth, where Christ will be Lord of lords and King of kings. The only place to expect complete equity (equal, fair outcomes) will also be in heaven.

The answer for today is that with love, respect, and kindness for one another as commanded by Christ our Lord, we can work for equality – equal treatment, opportunity, and respect. The Lord in His providence is in charge of the equity. I'm placing my hope on Christian Redemption Teachings, not the CRT of today. I guess I am biased against man's theories. My faith is in God's teachings.
