Proposed budget earmarks $800,000 for HS soccer field; nothing for HS Project

Taxes to drop to 27 cents per $100 valuation

By Brittney Lofthouse

Highlands residents, along with the Macon County Board of Education, have made it abundantly clear that they want to see funding reinstated for design plans for renovations to Highlands School that would improve the library, expand CTE offerings, and create two PreK classrooms and more on the campus.

Supt. Baldwin sits at his last BOE meeting

By Brittney Lofthouse

Tuesday night, at the May meeting of the Macon County Board of Education, Macon County Superintendent Dr. Chris Baldwin completed the final board meeting of his more than 30-year career in public education.

While three decades is an impressive feat in and of itself, with the May meeting being held at Nantahala School, Dr. Baldwin finished his career serving the Macon County School system in the very same building, at the very same school where he begin his career as a teacher – and even deeper than that – in the very same building, at the very same school, where Baldwin begin his public education journey – as a kindergarten student.

Dr. Baldwin took the reins of the Macon County School system as Superintendent 10 years

Remember the fallen Memorial Day

I had a crazy, distant uncle who got drunk with a friend one afternoon shortly after December 7, 1941, and they walked into a recruiting office and told the soldiers on duty that they wanted to be paratroopers. The recruiters made sure their wishes were fulfilled without delay.

My uncle went on to fight at the Battle of the Bulge with the 101st Airborne, where he was shot below the knee. He was taken back behind the lines, where someone cut off with a bayonet knife his mostly severed leg. Although my uncle went on to build a successful business as a civilian, he never fully recovered from that trauma. But, that amputated leg continued to give him health problems for the rest of his short life.

After the war, he had multiple surgeries on his wounded leg; the resulting amputations resulted in stump well above his knee, on which they outfitted an artificial leg. It was a daily ordeal for him to walk on that artificial leg. He never complained and would always joke that he left his leg back in Europe. My uncle, like other veterans, struggled with substance abuse after the war. The long and short of it is that this tough paratrooper died in the early 1970s as a young man. His disability took its toll year after year, both mentally and physically, well beyond the end of the war.

Highlands Mayor

He is just one example of what happens to many veterans, even to this day. After the guns of war go silent, we remember the battlefields on days like Memorial Day. But the nation is still losing many GIs to those past battles, as our veterans continue to struggle with their physical and mental war injuries. They suffer now, along with their families.

So, on this Memorial Day, I hope we will all remember the fallen and those veterans who continue to fight the internal battle from the trauma of war. America loses over 20 veterans to suicide every day. These men and women are today's casualties of war.

And on this somber day, Americans should remember the Gold Star families of the fallen and lost. Parents, spouses, and children carry a tremendous and continuous burden of loss and despair. They too, have given to and served our nation in the most profound way.

There are many ways we, as a country and as individuals, can support these families and veterans. There are opportunities for giving to the Disabled Veteran Association and the Wounded Warrior Foundation, to name only a few organizations.

Here in Macon County, there is a new and innovative program for Gold Star families and veterans. It is called the Special Liberty Project. This program is located on a mountain farm where special programs are available for families and veterans to meet, connect and experience the restorative, healing powers of being in nature. It provides support for all family survivors impacted by our nation's conflicts. They provide programs throughout the year for Gold Star spouses and children, as well as for veterans who desperately need care and support. So often, survivors and veterans fall through the cracks of official government programs. The Special Liberty Project is an innovative program dedicated to serving the forgotten who simply need acknowledgment, support and affirmation.

For more information, visit their website at Special Liberty Project. It is dedicated to creating a supportive community for our country's Gold Star Families. In this period of turmoil and division, making gifts on Memorial Day to support these fellow citizens is something we all can do.

ALL ABOUT BOOKS

• INK PENN •

Two unputdownable books

Do you exchange books with friends? Years ago, my mother and I traded books by our favorite authors, and we also haunted used bookstores. These days, most of my books come either from the library or from a friend who's also an avid reader, plus the occasional selection from Amazon. There's nothing better than getting a stack of books, no matter where it comes from.

For me, the sign of a good book is my inability to turn out the bedside light at night. "Just one more chapter," I say to myself. That was the case with this week's books—one from my friend and one from the library.

Homer's Odyssey

by Gwen Cooper

When my friend lent me the latest batch of books, I gravitated to this one first, perhaps because of the cover photo of a tiny black cat. After a closer look, I recognized Gwen Cooper as the author of one of my favorite reads, "Love Saves the Day."

Though this book is nonfiction, I was once again mesmerized, just as I'd been with Cooper's novel. I'm convinced her life with Homer, an indefatigable blind kitten, prepared her to give voice to Prudence the cat in "Love Saves the Day."

Homer is a tiny two-pound kitten when she adopts him from the veterinarian who removed the poor thing's infected eyes after a couple found him on the street. Learning to find his litter box and his food, and to navigate around Cooper's apartment without help seemed like prodigious feats. His amazing agility was nothing short of a miracle and provided endless hours of entertainment for Gwen and her friends.

This is a story of love and patience and perseverance in the face of adversity. As People magazine said, "This memoir about adopting a special-needs kitten teaches that sometimes in life, you have to take a blind leap."

Homer and Gwen were a match made in heaven. It's been days since I finished the book, but I can't stop thinking about it. Give it a try. I predict you'll have the same experience.

The Echo of Old Books

by Barbara Davis

This is going to be one of those books that stays with me. The truth is that I still have a book "hangover," so much so that it's difficult to describe the experience of reading this story about a pair of mysterious books.

Ashlyn Greer, rare book dealer and owner of An Unlikely Story, a bookshop in Portsmouth, New Hampshire, stumbles on a mysterious pair of beautifully bound books. Neither has an author's name or publisher or copyright page, but each has a handwritten inscription inside. And that's the mystery. Who wrote the books? Who are the people they're inscribed to? Did these people really exist?

She can't let it go, and soon finds the person who donated the books to a nearby vintage boutique. It would spoil the story to reveal the changes wrought in Ashlyn's life as she searches for the origin of the books and their story. I predict the tale will grab you, and you'll stay up late night after night to find out where the literary mystery will lead.

Two unputdownable books—one about a cat and another about books—what more could a gal ask for? More books, of course.

The 2023 Mountain Garden Club Plant Sale was dedicated to Sarah Sloan: November 9, 1943 - November 18, 2022

Sarah Sloan joined Mountain Garden Club in July 2002 and remained a member in good standing until her death in 2022. During her years as member, she served in several committees and was an active member.

Sarah was co-chair of The Butterfly Garden and enjoyed working with the 'hummers'. The hummers were the lower grade students who, with the help of Sarah and other Mountain Garden Club members, helped them learn about butterflies and how important they are to our gardens. She also helped with the club's Smoky the Bear initiative in helping those same children learn about fire prevention by having a visit by Smoky the Bear.

Sarah believed in helping children of all ages. She co-chaired the Mountain Garden Club's Scholarship committee which helped many Highlands' students further their education past high school.

Other committees she volunteered to were Garden Therapy at the Fidelia Eckerd Living Center, Member Care, Publicity, Devotions and Membership. Sarah and her husband, Wiley both took volunteerism to the next level. She opened her beautiful home many times for club meetings.

She enlisted Wiley to help with plant digging, transplanting, and helping with all aspects of the plant sale, and he dutifully obliged. In fact, it happened so many times, the club made him an honorary member, and he became known as Mr. Hosta for many years. They both enjoyed working in their own gardens and never hesitated to share their love of plants with others.

One of Sarah's favorite garden club times was participating in the annual luncheon, the only time members decked out in other than work hats while enjoying a meal not prepared by members while new officers of the club were installed. But she would probably say the most fun was partici-partating in the annual Christmas Parade as a dancer. Sarah, being one of our taller ladies, set the beat for the locally famous Rockette-style leg kick at the end of the routine.

We miss them both terribly and feel fortunate to have had them in our lives for as long as we did. If Sarah were here today, she would shake her head and wave her hand at these comments at being singled out and maybe a bit over complimentary, but the garden club members who knew her, and knew how hard she worked for others know the value of a good person, and Sarah Sloan was such a good person.

Edna 'Sis' Norton Crisp

Edna Norton Crisp (Sis), 93, passed away at home surrounded by family on Sunday, May 21, 2023.

Born to Ray Elias Norton and Agnes Baty Norton, Edna was a Highlands native. Growing up on a farm with eight brothers and sisters, Edna learned an appreciation for time spent with family and the simple things in life. She enjoyed nature and the outdoors, with wild strawberries, hummingbirds, and creek fishing being a few of her favorite things. She was an avid reader and an expert at needlework and puzzles. She finished Brevard College with a degree in economics, afterwards working for 30+ years at First Union Bank.

Edna was married to Guy Henderson Crisp for 58 years and had 3 sons: Jack, Mike and Charles "Chuck." She was a devoted mother and cherished her family. Above all, Edna had a remarkable love for Jesus. Edna was a dedicated member of Shortoff Baptist Church and served her church family and community with unmatched passion and care. Her life was a paradigm of faith; she moved through each day with a singular and unwavering focus on love. She was a testament to the power of example for sowing faith in others, and she showered grace and joy on everyone she met. Although her humility would cause her to disagree, those of us who knew her make no exaggeration in saying that we know our lives have been touched by a saint.

In addition to her husband, Edna was predeceased by a son, Michael Aaron Crisp, siblings: Herman Norton, Marion Higdon, Leona "Toni" Dupree, Edwin "Bud" Norton, Charlie Ray "Bo" Norton, Robert "Bob" Norton, and John Evan Norton; and daughter in law, Leesa Scott Crisp.

She is survived by a sister, Nancy McClain; sons, Jack Henderson Crisp and Charles Stanley Crisp; daughter-in-law, Judith Elizabeth Crisp; grandchildren: Michele Martin (Josh), Krista Chapman (Justin), David Crisp (Alyson), and Clara Beth Crisp; great grandchildren: Karson Martin, Emory Martin, Rachel Chapman, Zachary Chapman, and several nieces and nephews.

Family will receive friends from 10-11 at Shortoff

Paradise is Personal

Whether you are seeking ultimate relaxation and solitude or this area's thriving social scene, your definition of paradise is personal to you. If you are starting your search for your mountain retreat, here are some questions to focus your quest:

1. What type of home speaks to you? Is architectural style important such as arts and crafts, modern mountain, contemporary, traditional, farmhouse? Does it need to be younger than two years or are you willing to take on a fixer upper?

2. What home features must you have: the number of bedrooms, number of baths, type of kitchen, living areas, primary bedroom on main, fireplaces, outdoor living space, garage? One of my listings does not have a garage. When brokers show it, and I gather feedback for the seller, several of them said it does not work for their client because it doesn't have a garage. When I share this with the seller, it infuriates the seller who spent time preparing the home to show the house when all the public information states it does not have a garage. Be sure to inform your broker of features that are dealbreakers so that you don't waste your time and the sellers' time;

3. What kind of area do you prefer to live? Are you a hermit who wants to be in the middle of the woods with no neighbors? Do you want to be in a gated neighborhood? Do you want to be in a country club community with lots of amenities such as golf, tennis, swimming and dining? Do you want to be close to town?

4. Is nature important to you? Do you need to be close to hiking trails and fishing streams? Do you want to live on a lake for boating? Do you want to be adjacent to the National Forest? This area has it all, so you can choose your venue;

Jody Lovell
Highlands and Cashiers
Sotheby's International Realty
828.526.4104

5. Do you want to be a short driving distance to go to dinner at night? Some of our mountain roads are windy and narrow. When I take clients to see a home, they say that they would never drive that road at night. Ask your broker about access to homes before you set up a showing. Find out before you go if it is more challenging than you desire;

6. Is the distance from your primary residence important to you? Where you choose a home on the Plateau can add another hour to your travel time. Be clear if you have travel time requirements from your "other" home;

7. Do you need to be close to an airport? Find out where the public and private airports are, if so, and determine where on the Plateau is better for your trips;

8. Do you want the highest altitude for the best cool temperature in the summer? Find out the altitude of homes before you tour.

A unique aspect of this section of Western North Carolina is that we do not have cookie cutter homes. We have tiny cabins in the woods to sprawling estates on waterfalls with views. Only you know what the dream retreat is for you and your family. Discuss these factors and any other special wishes with your broker upfront, and you will find your sanctuary sooner and with less frustration. Happy house hunting!!

HHS announces events for 2023 season

It begins with the Memorial Day Weekend 2023 grand opening of The Museum and Prince House a 11a, Saturday, May 27 featuring new exhibits including the history of Mountain Music. There will be entertainment and food provided at no charge.

The Walk Through Memorial Garden Park has been resurrected! Join the group as we tour the cemetery and hear from the ghosts of Highland's past Fri., July 14 and Sat., July 15 at 4p. Tickets are $15, children are free. Tickets can be purchased at the Highlands Museum.

August 6 it's the Big Hats-Bow Ties fundraiser on a Kettle Rock estate. The brunch starts at 12:30.

The Dahlia Festival is Sat., Sept. 9 with arrangements place throughout town.

HHS is partnering with the Chamber for Heritage Day where families who have had roots in Highlands for at least 100 years come together to pay tribute to those who contributed so much to our town.

An upcoming youth program will offer Highlands' history to history and civic classes.

...BUDGET continued from page 1

After commissioners canceled the active contract with LS3P for the completion of schematic designs for the project after the first phase was completed, Highlands residents urged county leaders, specifically Commissioners John Shearl who represents Highlands, to reinstate the funding in the upcoming budget cycle, however during County Manager Derek Roland's budget presentation Tuesday night, there was no specific mention of the Highlands renovation project.

Roland's proposed budget topped at $64,566,978 with revenues and expenditures balanced at the "revenue neutral" tax rate of 27 cents per $100 of assessed property valuation, or the lowest ad valorem property tax rate in the State of North Carolina.

The proposed ad valorem rate of 27 cents per $100 of assessed property value marks the first time a tax decrease has been considered in 16 years. According to Roland, the request for a tax decrease is possible following the county's revaluation process and due in large part specifically to the Highlands area which continues to see a growing real estate market and record tourism activity.

Throughout FY '23 real estate sales prices have stabilized in the Franklin area but have continued to increase in and around the Highlands area of the county. Residential and commercial development remains at levels not seen in over a decade. Results of the 2023 revaluation indicate the property tax base in Macon County has increased by 51% since 2019. Additionally, a "red hot" travel and tourism industry, highlighted by the destination resort Old Edwards Inn and Spa continues to drive substantial increases in sales tax revenue, currently up 14% YTD through March.

"Revenue increases in the FY '24 Budget are largely a product of local economic growth," said Roland. "Growth in the tax base will result in increases to ad valorem tax collections and increases in the purchase of goods and services by residents and tourists alike will lead to increases in sales tax revenue. Ad valorem and sales tax collections combined account for 76% of total revenue in the General Fund Budget. Although increasing, FY 24' revenue estimates for these two primary sources are budgeted conservatively in that they are based upon growth that has occurred as opposed to projected future growth. As a result, we will remain largely insulated from economic uncertainty including any "dampening" effect that FY 23' increases to the federal funds interest rate could potentially have on local economic growth during FY '24."

With the growth of the local economy, Roland's proposed budget included the first increase in local expenditures for public education since before the COVID19 pandemic and he is proposing that operational funding to education be increased for the first time in four years.

At $9,696,369, the FY '24 Recommended Budget is reflective of an $880,368 increase in operational funding and teacher supplements to the Macon County School System. The school system requested an increase of $1,584,197 resulting in a proposed recommendation that is $703,829 less than requested, however it still reflects a 10 percent increase of current year funding.

"The increase in local funding will enable Macon County Schools to address inflation in the cost of goods, personnel and services," said Roland. "Additional funding will be used to maintain locally funded teaching positions required to meet class-size mandates, provide state-mandated salary increases to locally paid teachers and staff, increase coaching supplement pay, enhance the Science, Technology Engineering and Math (STEM) program and expand course

Facts matter. Well done.

Dear Editor,

The article "The facts, not misinformation, about Highlands Renovation/PreK Project" in the May 18 edition was very thorough and well researched.

I thank you, and all Macon County residents and particularly the Highlands community should thank you.

While I cannot imagine how you recovered all the information, I think you should send the article to the MC Commissioners.

Mental Health begins with Kindness: 'Bee Kind'

Alisia Johnson
 3rd place
 12th Grade

My piece is about being kind to let kindness grow. The water surrounding the girl represents being surrounded by kindness. Because of this, there are flowers blooming out of her skin to symbolize her growing into a kinder person. She's still sad, as evident by her facial expression, because of what she's been through but the kindness is helping her live. The flowers are blossoming just as she is blossoming.

May is National Mental Health Awareness Month. Highlands Middle School and High School students created 22 artworks that illustrate acts of kindness and the importance of mental health awareness. The top three winners are being printed in successive issues of the paper. 1st Place winner, 7th grader Arabel Aulisio (May 11). 2nd Place went to 10th grader Ophelia Contreras and 3rd Place went to 12th grader Alisia Johnson.

• THEN & NOW •

Let's 'Bee Kind' and stop shooting each other

Once upon a time in America, we didn't shoot each other to take out our frustrations on friends and family, neighbors, classmates and teachers, co-workers and colleagues or just random people who somehow just irritated us. Nope. Those were happier days with Ritchie and "The Fonz."

Yet now anger, hatred, and shootings have become as All-American as hamburgers, baseball caps, obesity, smart phones, Facebook, and superheroes. I miss those good ol' days, that mythic, simpler past where the grass was always greener.

Except for those rebellious few who listened to Elvis or watched Marlon Brando strut in a tight black leather jacket, back in that nostalgic, golden era we were all mentally healthy even with that mushroom cloud hanging over us, Godless communism taking over the world, Sputnik spying on everybody, rock and roll blaring everywhere, and nefarious characters in soap operas. I still long for the phone booth, yellow pages, jukebox, and Walter Cronkite. You could trust him.

Then all of us lived in traditional nuclear families, had the Bible read to us almost daily by our parents, lived by the golden rule, nobody got a divorce, and men didn't have declining sperm counts because of toxic pollution. Father knew best even when he was occasionally laid off and drunk, moms didn't work outside the home and didn't vote except when told how, everyone gladly did their homework and chores, smoking was healthy and manly, and my brothers and cousins never got into trouble and certainly did not take drugs except legal, domesticated ones like alcohol, nicotine, and caffeine. Nor have unrestrained sex in drive-in-theaters which only showed John Wayne westerns and Flash Gordon serials. There was no sex in westerns or comic books, and I remember Dale Arden telling Flash, "Flash, Flash, not now! We only have fourteen hours left to save the world!"

I still blame The Pill and the NFL having Sunday games for the overall decline of western civilization. Moreover, as a responsible parent and grandparent, I had nothing to do with the slackness, lack of ambition, social media obsession of the present generation, and I never wanted to live with my parents.

Like many reading this, I grew up in a gun culture, hunted with all sorts of cursing, angry, often inebriated Texans, later joined a posse to track anyone who suicidally escaped from Huntsville state prison (unlike Shawshank, no one ever did), and, as a responsible, reverent, gun-toting teenager, only accidentally shot my cousin, Calvin Lee's big toe off. He limped afterward but it grew better with time and it kept him out of the draft. He never thanked me.

Cousin Calvin eventually became a sheriff, had a really big belt buckle, and folks thought his limp was part of his swagger.

Yup, I always respected law enforcement including Cousin Calvin Lee, never harassed teachers or librarians because they forced me to read To Kill A Mockingbird or Shakespeare's plays which had a lot of bad words in them, and, most of all, respected my parents and pastor.

When I reached middle school my older brother taught me to defend myself against a switchblade knife like James Dean did in East of Eden or gangs in West Side Story.

My mother always sent out family Christmas cards with a Bible verse, usually something from the gospel of Luke, but never with photos of all of us happily posing with assault rifles. I did that in the Army but never looked like Chuck Norris or as threatening as Lauren Boebert.

Finally, my sainted Mother forever told me that it was far too convenient to worship at the altar of blame, usually singling out a group of individuals like Cajuns or Methodists, rather than doing the bothersome work of passing on our spiritual and tender assets.

Today we just pass on material ones. As that famous philosopher, Cary Grant, once maintained, in the end "We should all just try to get along more and smell better." And not shoot each other.

American Legion Post 370 is selling red poppies Sat., May 27 in front of Bryson's Food Store

Highlands American Legion Post 370 is selling red poppies Sat., May 27 at 10a in front of Brysons grocery store.

Wearing poppies on Memorial Day is a way to honor and remember fallen soldiers. The tradition of wearing poppies originated after World War I, when Lt. Col. John McCrae wrote a poem titled "In Flanders Fields," which described the poppies that grew on the battlefields where soldiers had died. The red poppy became a symbol of remembrance for those who had been lost in war. The American Legion adopted the sale of poppies as a way to raise money for the Legions Children's Fund.

Selling and wearing poppies serves as a reminder of the sacrifices made by those who have served our country.

offerings in Career and Technical Education (CTE).”
In addition to increasing the school system’s operational budget by 10 percent, Roland proposed increasing the district’s capital outlay budget by 9 percent, with a large chunk of the increase, $873,658, being earmarked for the replacement of the Highlands Soccer Field, which was identified as a priority by the school system.

While the budget included no mention of reinstating the Highlands renovation project, it did provide the first official proposal regarding the funding to construct a new Franklin High School.
The project, which has a total price tag of $118 million has been approved by the county with phase 1 nearly ready to begin. However, prior to Tuesday night, there had been no official discussions regarding capital to make it happen. While Roland’s budget doesn’t specify the funding source directly, it does earmark money for debt payments assumed

Highlands Fire Station Dedication Fri., May 19

Town Manager Josh Ward thanked the many people who helped make the fire station a reality.

Friday's Fire Station Dedication Ceremony culminated with a "hose cutting" by town staff, department volunteers and members of the Town Board. Chief Gearhart used the "Jaws of Life" to do the honors. Mayor Pat Taylor said the new Highlands Fire Station - Macon County Station #12 - will be more than a place to house fire trucks - it will house bodies and souls. "It will embody the tasks they swear to undertake when they take the oath to serve and protect the public even to the point of risking their own life and safety. They fight fires, but they also do search and rescue missions, hazmat control of chemical spills, extractions of car accident victims, and assist law enforcement in emergency response situations. The station will house equipment, be a barracks, an educational training center, a headquarters and staging facility in emergency situations." Mayor Taylor offered a special thanks to the late Jane Woodruff who sold the property at an undervalued price. "Without her commitment, this project may have not taken place," he said.

to be added to the county's debt load in the coming fiscal year.

"In addition to the capital outlay appropriation, $811,283 previously transferred from the General Fund to Fund 46 for planning and design work at Franklin High School in FY '23, will now be transferred to the debt service fund as additional revenue to offset anticipated debt service related to the Franklin High School Project," said Roland.

Roland also proposed an increase to $533,626 for the county's contingency fund and explained the increase is attributed to increased interest earnings on investments and should be in the contingency fund rather than the county's general fund.

"Because this is not a reliable revenue source to which ongoing operational expenses should be tied, I am recommending this money be placed in the county's contingency fund," said Roland. "Around $300,000 of these funds can be used for a non-recurring expense — something like a one-time capital expenditure or project."

Roland's budget proposal is the first step in the county's budget process. After reviewing the proposed budget over the weekend, county commissioners will hold their first budget work session on Tuesday, May 30 at 3 p.m.

Tuesday's budget work session will focus on two of the county's largest budget items - Public Education, which includes both the Macon County Schools budget and funding for Southwestern Community College, and Public Safety, which includes the sheriff's office budget, emergency medical services, fire, and dispatch.

Budget work sessions are open to the public, however public comment is not generally entertained. The public will get its first opportunity to share comments about the budget during the June meeting of the Board of Commissioners.

- This is the first in a series about the county budget.

Investing and wealth creation for women – How to get started

In past generations, women were often excluded from conversations about financial planning and wealth creation. However, the tides are changing, and more women are beginning to take control of their financial futures by investing their money. In this article, we'll discuss the importance of women investing and some strategies to help them get started.

Why Women Should Invest

According to a 2020 study published by McKinsey & Company, $30 trillion of wealth will change hands in the next decade, and women will be the primary beneficiaries.

However, for women still in the accumulation phase of their lives, investing is an important tool for building long-term wealth and achieving financial independence. But studies also show that women tend to be more risk-averse than men, and as a result, they are less likely to invest their money.

This is a problem because women typically earn less than men over their lifetimes, making it even more important for them to invest in order to grow their wealth and secure their financial futures. According to a recent study by

Michael P Henderson,
CFP® CKA®
Founder/Wealth Advisor
Crossover Point Advisors

the National Institute on Retirement Security, women in the accumulation phase of life have significantly less retirement savings than men. By investing, women can potentially close this gap and ensure that they have enough money saved for retirement.

Investing Strategies for Women

1. Educate Yourself: The first step in investing is to educate yourself about the various investment options available to you. This includes learning about stocks, bonds, mutual funds, and other investment vehicles. There are many online resources available to help you learn about investing, such as Investopedia, which offers a wealth of information about the stock market and investing strategies.

2. Start Small: If you're new to investing, it's important to start small. This means investing only a small amount of money that you can afford to lose. As you become more comfortable with investing, you can gradually increase the amount of money you invest.

3. Diversify Your Portfolio: One of the most important principles of investing is diversification. This means spreading your money across different types of investments to reduce your risk. For example, you might invest in stocks, bonds, and real estate to create a diversified portfolio.

4. Consider Professional Help: If you're unsure about how to invest your money, it may be worth considering professional help. A financial advisor can help you create a personalized investment strategy based on your goals and risk tolerance.

5. Invest in What You Know: Another important principle of investing is to invest in what you know. This means investing in companies and industries that you understand and are familiar with. For example, if you work in the healthcare industry, you might consider investing in healthcare stocks.

Key Takeaways

Investing is an important tool for building long-term wealth and achieving financial independence, and women stand to benefit from investing as a means of securing their financial futures.

By following these five steps, women can begin to take control of their financial futures and have a better chance at achieving their long-term financial goals.

Beware of thieves in the night

Brent Metcalf
Mission and Direction Pastor
Christ Church of the Valley,
Cashiers

After college, my brother and I rented a house together. One evening I fell asleep on the couch watching Sportscenter. My brother abruptly woke me telling me someone was trying to break in. How would you have responded? Panic, fear, fight, or flight? Whatever your response, all would agree we would prefer not to interact with a thief, especially in the middle of the night.

Interestingly, Jesus used the terms thieves and robbers to describe the Pharisees. The Pharisees were the teachers of Jewish law and typically would have been held in high esteem. Why would Jesus use such a cutting term to describe the Pharisees?

We gain some clarity when you examine the Greek language for the terms Jesus used.

The first term is kleptes, where we get our English term kleptomaniac. Someone that steals by cunning or stealth. The other term is lestes for which we do not have an English derivative. The term means "steals utilizing violence." Jesus is describing the religious leaders of the day as shoplifters and bank robbers. Shoplifters are sneaky and subtle, often going undetected under the radar. A bank robber, on the other hand, is bold and willing to be violent.

In John chapters 9 and 10, Jesus is in a prolonged dialogue with the Pharisees. Much of the conversation centers on Jesus' healing of a man born blind on the Sabbath. The Pharisees are angry with Jesus because they believe he broke the law.

Jesus makes a bold statement in John 10:10, an often quoted and well-known verse in the Bible.

John 10:10

The thief comes only to steal and kill and destroy; I have come that they may have life and have it to the full.

When people teach this verse, they commonly refer to the thief as Satan. Maybe that is what Jesus had in mind. I believe the context of the passage supports that he was referring to the Pharisees, and they were the thieves and robbers.

How were they, thieves and robbers? They are trying to control Jesus and the people by placing heavy burdens on them. They believed that following rituals and rules would connect people to God. Jesus had a contrasting message. Jesus taught that a person relates to God through himself. He (Jesus) "was the way, the truth, and the life." The Pharisee's message focused on rules and rituals. Jesus' message focused on the heart and a relationship with an approachable God.

Let's ask ourselves, Who are modern-day thieves and robbers? Remembering that some are sneaky and subtle, and others are bold and willing to do whatever it takes to steal, kill and destroy.

I want to name a few for you to consider, but I believe there are many. Most of which are subtle -- meaning they are difficult for us to spot in our lives.

Some modern-day thieves are our addiction to control,

Highlands Police Chief was guest speaker at National Law Enforcement presentation

To close out National Law Enforcement Week, the community came together to honor those who made the ultimate sacrifice.

On Friday May 19th on the square in Franklin, various Law Enforcement agencies gathered to pay tribute to fallen officers.

The annual event, organized by the FOP Lodge 81 Jackson/Macon Counties, included Highlands Police Chief Andrea Holland as the guest speaker. This year, the name of 556 law enforcement officers killed in the line of duty were added to the National Law Enforcement Officers Memorial in Washington D.C.

ago, taking his official oath of office in the boardroom of the central office on July 1, 2013.

“In the state of North Carolina a superintendent serving for 10 years is almost unheard of in today’s world,” Macon County Board of Education Chairman Jim Breedlove said. “It really truly is. I think it speaks to how successful and just how good Dr. Baldwin has been in his work as superintendent.”

Dr. Baldwin spent the entirety of his career as an educator working in Macon County – the same school district where he attended kindergarten through 12th grade.

“It is rare I think for someone to have been able to attend 12 years in a school system and then have only ever worked in one school system,” said Baldwin. “I’m honored to have had that opportunity here.”

Prior to being named Superintendent in 2013, Dr. Baldwin served as Principal of Franklin High School, filling the giant shoes left by longtime Principal Gary Shields in 2010 following Shields retirement from the position he held for 21 years. Prior to Franklin High School, Dr. Baldwin served the district as the Principal of Nantahala School — a position he earned in 2001 after first working in the school as the School Suspension teacher for teachers and then as the science teacher for 7th through 12th grade.

Dr. Baldwin also served as the basket-

comfort, security, and certainty.

Jesus claims in this passage that those that seek and find life in him will find life and find it abundantly. This does not mean that we will be free of difficulty or hardship, and Jesus is not promising that we will be in complete control, have absolute security, and know precisely what will happen tomorrow. That is where our faith becomes real, and it is in those moments that we trust in a God that we can't see.

Back to my story, someone was trying to break into our home. Not only did they try to break into our house once, but they tried twice. Once when my brother woke me up and then another time later in the early morning. We chased them off by turning on the lights and running outside with baseball bats. Not my brightest moment.

I believe we need to do the same with the modern-day thieves in our lives. We need to be alert that they are present and to confront them.

What are they stealing from us? They are robbing us of what life is truly about. They are stealing, killing, and destroying our lives because they have taken our focus, time, and attention away from Jesus. We desire to be in control, to have security, and to have certainty of what will happen in the future. Jesus did not promise us those things. He promised to be with us and show us what life is truly about.

I encourage you to reflect on what could be a thief in your life. It can be anything that robs our perspective, time, or focus away from Jesus.

ball coach for Nantahala for a decade in the early 90s, not too many years after he was playing on the same court as a high school senior. Baldwin graduated from Nantahala High School in 1986, 12 years after he first became a Hawk as a kindergarten student.

After high school, Baldwin attended Western Carolina University to pursue his career in teaching and aside from completing his student teaching at Murphy High School, his entire career as existed within Macon County.

Being an educator has been a family affair for Dr. Baldwin. After also graduating from Nantahala School, Dr. Baldwin's father also pursued a career as an educator.
